William Collins' dream of knowledge for all began with the publication of his first book in 1819. A self-educated mill worker, he not only enriched millions of lives, but also founded a flourishing publishing house. Today, staying true to this spirit, Collins books are packed with inspiration, innovation, and practical expertise. They place you at the centre of a world of possibility and give you exactly what you need to explore it.

Language is the key to this exploration, and at the heart of Collins Dictionaries, is language as it is really used. New words, phrases, and meanings spring up every day, and all of them are captured and analysed by the Collins Word Web. Constantly updated, and with over 2.5 billion entries, this living language resource is unique to our dictionaries.

Words are tools for life. And a Collins
Dictionary makes them work for you.

Collins. Do more.

FOREWORD FOR LANGUAGE TEACHERS

The Easy Learning German Grammar is designed to be used with both young and adult learners, as a group reference book to complement your course book during classes, or as a recommended text for self-study and homework/coursework.

The text specifically targets learners from ab initio to intermediate or GCSE level, and therefore its structural content and vocabulary have been matched to the relevant specifications up to and including Higher GCSE.

The approach aims to develop knowledge and understanding of grammar and your learners' ability to apply it by:

- defining parts of speech at the start of each major section with examples in English to clarify concepts
- minimizing the use of grammar terminology and providing clear explanations of terms both within the text and in the Glossary
- illustrating all points with examples (and their translations) based on topics and contexts which are relevant to beginner and intermediate course content

The text helps you develop positive attitudes to grammar learning in your classes by:

- giving clear, easy-to-follow explanations
- prioritizing content according to relevant specifications for the levels
- sequencing points to reflect course content, e.g. verb tenses
- highlighting useful Tips to deal with common difficulties
- summarizing Key points at the end of sections to consolidate learning

In addition to fostering success and building a thorough foundation in German grammar, the optional Grammar Extra sections will encourage and challenge your learners to further their studies to higher and advanced levels.

INTRODUCTION FOR STUDENTS

Whether you are starting to learn German for the very first time, brushing up on topics you have studied in class, or revising for your GCSE exams, the Easy Learning German Grammar is here to help. This easy-to-use guide takes you through all the basics you will need to speak and understand modern, everyday German.

Newcomers can sometimes struggle with the technical terms they come across when they start to explore the grammar of a new language. The Easy Learning German Grammar explains how to get to grips with all the parts of speech you will need to know, using simple language and cutting out jargon.

The text is divided into sections, each dealing with a particular area of grammar. Each section can be studied individually, as numerous cross-references in the text point you to relevant points in other sections of the book for further information.

Every major section begins with an explanation of the area of grammar covered on the following pages. For quick reference, these definitions are also collected together on pages x–xiv in a glossary of essential grammar terms.

What is a verb?

A verb is a 'doing' word which describes what someone or something does, what someone or something is, or what happens to them, for example, be, sing, live.

Each grammar point in the text is followed by simple examples of real German, complete with English translations, helping you understand the rules. Underlining has been used in examples throughout the text to highlight the grammatical point being explained.

- If you are talking about a part of your body, you usually use a word like my or his in English, but in German you usually use the definite article.

Er hat sich das Bein gebrochen.

He's broken his leg.

Sie hat sich die Hände schon gewaschen.

She's already washed her hands.

In German, as with any foreign language, there are certain pitfalls which have to be avoided. Tips and Information notes throughout the text are useful reminders of the things that often trip learners up.

Tip

Use Sie in more formal situations for both singular and plural you.

Key points sum up all the important facts about a particular area of grammar, to save you time when you are revising and help you focus on the main grammatical points.

Key points

- ✓ With masculine singular nouns in the nominative → use ein.
- ✓ With feminine singular nouns in the nominative → use eine.
- ✓ With plural nouns → use die, der or den, depending on the case.
- ✓ The indefinite article is not usually used when you say what jobs people do.

If you think you would like to continue with your German studies to a higher level, check out the Grammar Extra sections. These are intended for advanced students who are interested in knowing a little more about the structures they will come across beyond GCSE.

Grammar Extra!

Some German adjectives are used as feminine nouns. They have feminine adjective endings which change according to the article which comes before them.

eine Deutsche a German woman

die Abgeordnete

the female MP

➡ For more information on Adjectives which can be used as nouns and for Feminine adjective endings, see pages 50 and 42.

Finally, the supplement at the end of the book contains Verb Tables, where 97 important German verbs are conjugated in full. Examples show you how to use these verbs in your own work. If you are unsure of how a verb conjugates in German, you can look up the Verb Index on pages 99–103 to find either the conjugation of the verb itself, or a cross-reference to a model verb, which will show you the patterns that verb follows.

We hope that you will enjoy using the Easy Learning German Grammar and find it useful in the course of your study.

GLOSSARY OF GRAMMAR TERMS

ABSTRACT NOUN a word used to refer to a quality, idea, feeling or experience, rather than a physical object, for example, size, reason, happiness.

ACCUSATIVE CASE the form of nouns, adjectives, pronouns and articles used in German to show the direct object of a verb and after certain prepositions. Compare with direct object.

ACTIVE in an active sentence, the subject of the verb is the person or thing that carries out the action described by the verb.

ADJECTIVE a 'describing' word that tells you more about a person or thing, such as their appearance, colour, size or other qualities, for example, pretty, blue, big.

ADVERB a word usually used with verbs, adjectives or other adverbs that gives more information about when, where, how or in what circumstances something happens, for example, quickly, happily, now.

AGREE (to) to change word endings according to whether you are referring to masculine, feminine, neuter, singular or plural people and things.

AGREEMENT see agree (to).

APOSTROPHE s an ending ('s) added to a noun to show who or what someone or something belongs to, for example, Danielle's dog, the doctor's husband, the book's cover.

ARTICLE a word like the, a and an, which is used in front of a noun. Compare with definite article and indefinite article.

AUXILIARY VERB a verb such as be, have and do when used with a main verb to form some tenses, negatives and questions.

BASE FORM the form of the verb without any endings added to it, for example, walk, have, be, go. Compare with infinitive.

CASE the grammatical function of a noun in a sentence.

CLAUSE a group of words containing a verb.

COMPARATIVE an adjective or adverb with -er on the end of it or more or less in front of it that is used to compare people, things or actions, for example, slower, less important, more carefully.

COMPOUND NOUN a word for a living being, thing or idea, which is made up of two or more words, for example, tin-opener, railway station.

CONDITIONAL a verb form used to talk about things that would happen or would be true under certain conditions, for example, I would help you if I could. It is also used to say what you would like or need, for example, Could you give me the bill?

CONJUGATE (to) to give a verb different endings according to whether you are referring to I, you, they and so on, and according to whether you are referring to past, present or future, for example, I have, she had, they will have.

CONJUGATION a group of verbs which have the same endings as each other or change according to the same pattern.

CONJUNCTION a word such as and, because or but that links two words or phrases of a similar type or two parts of a sentence, for example, Diane and I have been friends for years.; I left because I was bored. Compare with co-ordinating conjunction and subordinating conjunction.

CO-ORDINATING CONJUNCTION a word such as and, but or however that links two words, phrases or clauses.

CONSONANT a letter of the alphabet which is not a vowel, for example, b, f, m, s, v etc. Compare with vowel.

CONSTRUCTION an arrangement of words together in a phrase or sentence.

DATIVE CASE the form of nouns, adjectives, pronouns and articles used in German to show the indirect object of a verb and after certain verbs and prepositions.

DECLENSION German nouns change according to their gender, case and number. This is called declension.

DEFINITE ARTICLE the word the. Compare with indefinite article.

DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVE one of the words this, that, these and those used with a noun to point out a particular person or thing, for example, this woman, that dog.

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUN one of the words this, that, these and those used instead of a noun to point out people or things, for example, That looks fun.

DIRECT OBJECT a noun referring to the person or thing affected by the action described by a verb, for example, She wrote her name; I shut the window. Compare with indirect object.

DIRECT OBJECT PRONOUN a word such as me, him, us and them which is used instead of a noun to stand in for the person or thing most directly affected by the action described by the verb. Compare with indirect object pronoun.

ENDING a form added to a verb stem, for example, geh → geht, and to adjectives and nouns depending on whether they refer to masculine, feminine, neuter, singular or plural things.

FEMININE one of three classifications for the gender of German nouns which determines the form of articles, pronouns and adjectives used with the noun and to refer to it. The other two classifications are masculine and neuter.

FUTURE a verb tense used to talk about something that will happen or will be true.

GENDER whether a noun, article, pronoun or adjective is feminine, masculine or neuter.

GENITIVE CASE the form of nouns, adjectives, pronouns and articles used in German to show that something belongs to someone and after certain prepositions.

IMPERATIVE the form of a verb used when giving orders and instructions, for example, Shut the door!; Sit down!; Don't go!

IMPERFECT one of the verb tenses used to talk about the past, especially in descriptions, and to say what was happening, for example, It was sunny at the weekend or what used to happen, for example, I used to walk to school. Compare with perfect.

IMPERSONAL VERB one which does not refer to a real person or thing and where the subject is represented by it, for example, It's going to rain; It's 10 o'clock.

INDEFINITE ADJECTIVE one of a small group of adjectives used to talk about people or things in a general way, without saying exactly who or what they are, for example, several, all, every.

INDEFINITE ARTICLE the words a and an. Compare with definite article.

INDEFINITE PRONOUN a small group of pronouns such as everything, nobody and something, which are used to refer to people or things in a general way, without saying exactly who or what they are.

INDIRECT OBJECT a noun or pronoun typically used in English with verbs that take two objects. For example, in I gave the carrot to the rabbit, the rabbit is the indirect object and carrot is the direct object. With some German verbs, what is the direct object in English is treated as an indirect object in, for example, Ich helfe ihr → I'm helping her. Compare with direct object.

INDIRECT OBJECT PRONOUN when a verb has two objects (a direct one and an indirect one), the indirect object pronoun is used instead of a noun to show the person or the thing the action is intended to benefit or harm, for example, me in He gave me a book and Can you get me a towel? Compare with direct object pronoun.

INDIRECT SPEECH the words you use to report what someone has said when you aren't using their actual words, for example, He said that he was going out.

INFINITIVE the form of the verb with to in front of it and without any endings added, for example, to walk, to have, to be, to go. Compare with base form.

INTERROGATIVE ADJECTIVE a question word used with a noun to ask who?, what? or which? for example, What instruments do you play?; Which shoes do you like?

INTERROGATIVE PRONOUN one of the words who, whose, whom, what and which when they are used instead of a noun to ask questions, for example, What's happening?; Who's coming?

MASCULINE one of three classifications for the gender of German nouns which determines the form of articles, pronouns and adjectives used with the noun and to refer to it. The other two classifications are feminine and neuter.

MIXED VERB a German verb whose stem changes its vowel to form the imperfect tense and the past participle, like strong verbs. Its past participle is formed by adding -t to the verb stem, like weak verbs. Compare with strong verb and weak verb.

MODAL VERBS are used to modify or change other verbs to show such things as ability, permission or necessity. For example, he can swim, may I come? and he ought to go.

NEGATIVE a question or statement which contains a word such as not, never or nothing, and is used to say that something is not happening, or is not true, for example, I never eat meat; Don't you love me?

NEUTER one of three classifications for the gender of German nouns which determines the form of article, pronouns and adjectives used with the noun and to refer to it. The other two classifications are masculine and feminine.

NOMINATIVE CASE the basic form of nouns, pronouns, adjectives and articles used in German and the one you find in the dictionary. It is used for the subject of the sentence. Compare with subject.

NOUN a 'naming' word for a living being, thing or idea, for example, woman, desk, happiness, Andrew.

OBJECT a noun or pronoun which refers to a person or thing that is affected by the action described by the verb. Compare with direct object, indirect object and subject.

OBJECT PRONOUN one of the set of pronouns including me, him and them, which are used instead of the noun as the object of a verb or preposition. Compare with subject pronoun.

ORDINAL NUMBER a number used to indicate where something comes in an order or sequence, for example, first, fifth, sixteenth.

PART OF SPEECH one of the categories to which all words are assigned and which describe their forms and how they are used in sentences, for example, noun, verb, adjective, preposition, pronoun.

PASSIVE a form of the verb that is used when the subject of the verb is the person or thing that is affected by the action, for example, we were told.

PAST PARTICIPLE a verb form, for example, watched, swum which is used with an auxiliary verb to form perfect and pluperfect tenses and passives. Some past participles are also used as adjectives, for example, a broken watch.

PERFECT one of the verb tenses used to talk about the past, especially about actions that took place and were completed in the past. Compare with imperfect.

PERSONAL PRONOUN one of the group of words including I, you and they which are used to refer to yourself, the people you are talking to, or the people or things you are talking about.

PLUPERFECT one of the verb tenses used to describe something that had happened or had been true at a point in the past, for example, I'd forgotten to finish my homework.

PLURAL the form of a word which is used to refer to more than one person or thing. Compare with singular.

POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVE one of the words my, your, his, her, its, our or their, used with a noun to show that one person or thing belongs to another.

POSSESSIVE PRONOUN one of the words mine, yours, hers, his, ours or theirs, used instead of a noun to show that one person or thing belongs to another.

PREPOSITION is a word such as at, for, with, into or from, which is usually followed by a noun, pronoun or, in English, a word ending in -ing. Prepositions show how people and things relate to the rest of the sentence, for example, She's at home; a tool for cutting grass; It's from David.

PRESENT a verb form used to talk about what is true at the moment, what happens regularly, and what is happening now, for example, I'm a student; I travel to college by train; I'm studying languages.

PRESENT PARTICIPLE a verb form ending in -ing which is used in English to form verb tenses, and which may be used as an adjective or a noun, for example, What are you doing?; the setting sun; Swimming is easy!

PRONOUN a word which you use instead of a noun, when you do not need or want to name someone or something directly, for example, it, you, none.

PROPER NOUN the name of a person, place, organization or thing. Proper nouns are always written with a capital letter, for example, Kevin, Glasgow, Europe, London Eye.

QUESTION WORD a word such as why, where, who, which or how which is used to ask a question.

REFLEXIVE PRONOUN a word ending in -self or -selves, such as myself or themselves, which refers back to the subject, for example, He hurt himself; Take care of yourself.

REFLEXIVE VERB a verb where the subject and object are the same, and where the action 'reflects back' on the subject.

A reflexive verb is used with a reflexive pronoun such as myself, yourself, herself, for example, I washed myself; He shaved himself.

RELATIVE CLAUSE part of the sentence in which the relative pronoun appears.

RELATIVE PRONOUN a word such as that, who or which, when it is used to link two parts of a sentence together.

SENTENCE a group of words which usually has a verb and a subject. In writing, a sentence has a capital letter at the beginning and a full stop, question mark or exclamation mark at the end.

SINGULAR the form of a word which is used to refer to one person or thing. Compare with plural.

STEM the main part of a verb to which endings are added.

STRONG VERB a German verb whose stem changes its vowel to form the imperfect tense and the past participle. Its past participle is not formed by adding -t to the verb stem. Also known as irregular verbs. Compare with weak verb.

SUBJECT the noun or pronoun used to refer to the person which does the action described by the verb, for example, My cat doesn't drink milk. Compare with object.

SUBJECT PRONOUN a word such as I, he, she and they which carries out the action described by the verb. Pronouns stand in for nouns when it is clear who is being talked about, for example, My brother isn't here at the moment. He'll be back in an hour. Compare with object pronoun.

SUBJUNCTIVE a verb form used in certain circumstances to express some sort of feeling, or to show doubt about whether something will happen or whether something is true. It is only used occasionally in modern English, for example, If I were you, I wouldn't bother.; So be it.

SUBORDINATE CLAUSE a clause which begins with a subordinating conjunction such as because or while and which must be used with a main clause. In German, the verb always goes to the end of the subordinate clause.

SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTION a word such as when, because or while that links the subordinate clause and the main clause in a sentence. Compare with subordinate clause.

SUPERLATIVE an adjective or adverb with -est on the end of it or most or least in front of it that is used to compare people, things or actions, for example, thinnest, most quickly, least interesting.

SYLLABLE consonant+vowel units that make up the sounds of a word, for example, ca-the-dral (3 syllables), im-po-ssi-ble (4 syllables).

TENSE the form of a verb which shows whether you are referring to the past, present or future.

VERB a 'doing' word which describes what someone or something does, what someone or something is, or what happens to them, for example, be, sing, live.

VOWEL one of the letters a, e, i, o or u. Compare with consonant.

WEAK VERB a German verb whose stem does not change its vowel to form the imperfect tense and the past participle. Its past participle is formed by adding -t to the verb stem. Also known as regular verbs. Compare with strong verbs.

NOUNS

What is a noun?

A noun is a 'naming' word for a living being, thing or idea, for example, woman, happiness, Andrew. German nouns change, according to their gender, case and number. This is called declension.

Using nouns

- In German, all nouns are either masculine, feminine or neuter. This is called their gender. In English, we call all things – for example, table, car, book, apple – 'it', but in German, even words for things have a gender. It is important to know that the gender of German nouns rarely relates to the sex of the person or thing it refers to. For example, in German, the word for "man" is masculine, but the word for "girl" is neuter and the word for "person" is feminine.

|--------------------|--------|
| der Mann | man |
| das Mädchen | girl |
| die Person | person |

Tip

German nouns are always written with a capital letter.

- Whenever you are using a noun, you need to know whether it is masculine, feminine or neuter as this affects the form of other words used with it, such as:

- adjectives that describe it
- articles (such as der or ein) that go before it
- pronouns (such as er or sie) that replace it

⇒ For more information on Adjectives, Articles or Pronouns, see pages 40, 25 and 69.

- You can find information about gender by looking the word up in a dictionary – in the Easy Learning German Dictionary, for example, you will find the definite article (the word for the) in front of the word. When you come across a new noun, always learn the word for the that goes with it to help you remember its gender.

- der before a noun tells you it is masculine
- die before a noun tells you it is feminine
- das before a noun tells you it is neuter

⇒ For more information on the Definite article, see page 25.

- We refer to something as singular when we are talking about just one, and as plural when we are talking about more than one. The singular is the form of the noun you will usually find when you look a noun up in the dictionary. As in English, nouns in German change their form in the plural.

die Katze cat → die Katzen cats

- Adjectives, articles and pronouns are also affected by whether a noun is singular or plural.

Tip

Remember that you have to use the right word for the, a and so on according to the gender and case of the German noun.

Gender

- In German a noun can be masculine, feminine or neuter. Gender is quite unpredictable – the best thing is simply to learn each noun with its definite article, that is the word for the (der, die or das) which goes with it:

| | |
|--------------------|---------|
| der Teppich | carpet |
| die Zeit | time |
| das Bild | picture |

However, there are some clues which can help you work out or remember the gender of a noun, as explained below.

1 Masculine nouns

- Nouns referring to male people and animals are masculine.

| | |
|-----------------|-------------|
| der Mann | man |
| der Löwe | (male) lion |

- Seasons, months, days of the week, weather and points of the compass are masculine.

| | |
|--------------------|--------|
| der Sommer | summer |
| der August | August |
| der Freitag | Friday |
| der Wind | wind |
| der Norden | north |

- Most nouns referring to things that perform an action are also masculine.

| | |
|---------------------|-------------|
| der Wecker | alarm clock |
| der Computer | computer |

Grammar Extra!

German nouns taken from other languages and ending in -ant, -ast, -ismus, and -or are masculine:

|-------------------------|------------|
| der Trabant | satellite |
| der Ballast | ballast |
| der Kapitalismus | capitalism |
| der Tresor | safe |

- Nouns with the following endings are masculine.

| Masculine Ending | Example | Meaning |
|------------------|---------------------|---------|
| -ich | der Teppich | carpet |
| -ig | der Essig | vinegar |
| -ling | der Frühling | spring |

Key points

- ✓ Nouns referring to male people and animals are masculine.
- ✓ Seasons, months, days of the week, weather and points of the compass are masculine.

2 Feminine nouns

- Most nouns ending in -e are feminine.

- Many masculine German nouns can be made feminine by adding -in in the singular and -innen in the plural.

|------------------------------------|----------------------------|
| der Lehrer | (male) teacher |
| die Lehrerin | (female) teacher |
| Lehrer und Lehrerinnen | (male and female) teachers |
| der Leser | (male) reader |
| die Leserin | (female) reader |
| unsere Leser und Leserinnen | our readers |

Grammar Extra!

Some German adjectives are used as feminine nouns. They have feminine adjective endings which change according to the article which comes before them.

|------------------------|----------------|
| eine Deutsche | a German woman |
| die Abgeordnete | the female MP |

- ➡ For more information on Adjectives which can be used as nouns and for Feminine adjective endings, see pages 50 and 42.

Key points

- ✓ Most nouns ending in -e are feminine.
- ✓ Many feminine nouns end in: -heit, -keit, -schaft, -ung, -ei.
- ✓ Masculine German words referring to people can be made feminine by adding -in in the singular and -innen in the plural.
- ✓ Numbers used in counting are feminine.

3 Neuter nouns

- Most nouns beginning with Ge- are neuter.

| | |
|---------------------|------------------|
| das Geschirr | crockery, dishes |
| das Geschöpf | creature |
| das Getreide | crop |

- Nouns ending in -lein or -chen are also neuter. These are called the diminutive form and refer to small persons or objects.

| Endings to form the diminutive | Example | Meaning |
|--------------------------------|---------------------|--------------|
| -lein | das Kindlein | little child |
| -chen | das Häuschen | little house |

- i Note that if these words have one of the vowels a, o or u, an umlaut should be added above the vowel. The final -e should also be dropped before these endings

|--|----------------|
| der Bach → Bäch → das Bächlein | (small) stream |
| die Katze → Kätz → das Kätzchen | kitten |

- Fractions are also neuter.

|--------------------------|---------------|
| ein Drittel davon | a third of it |
|--------------------------|---------------|

- Nouns which refer to young humans and animals are neuter.

|-----------------|-------|

- ✓ Nouns referring to young humans and animals are neuter.
- ✓ The "to" forms of verbs (called infinitives) used as nouns are neuter.
- ✓ Nouns ending in -nis or -tum are neuter.

4 Compound nouns

What is a compound noun?

A compound noun is a noun made up of two or more words, for example, tin-opener and railway station.

- In German, these words nearly always take their gender from the LAST noun of the compound word.

|---|--------------|
| die Armbanduhr (Armband + die Uhr) | wristwatch |
| der Tomatensalat (Tomaten + der Salat) | tomato salad |
| der Fußballspieler (Fußball + der Spieler) | footballer |

Grammar Extra!

Some German nouns have more than one gender. A few nouns have two genders and sometimes one of them can only be used in certain regions.

|-------------------------|-------------|--|
| der/das Marzipan | marzipan | (der Marzipan is used mostly in Austria) |
| der/das Keks | biscuit | (das Keks is used mostly in Austria) |
| der/das Kaugummi | chewing gum | |

Other nouns have two genders and the meaning of the word changes depending on which gender it has.

|-------------------|--------------------------|
| der Band | volume, book |
| das Band | ribbon, band, tape; bond |
| der See | lake |
| die See | sea |
| der Leiter | leader, manager |
| die Leiter | ladder |

➤ In German, abbreviations have the same gender as the word they come from.

|----------------|---|
| die BRD | the Federal Republic of Germany (from die Bundesrepublik Deutschland) |
| die DB | the German Railways (from die Deutsche Bahn) |
| das ZDF | German TV channel (from das Zweite Deutsche Fernsehen) |

Key points

- ✓ Compound nouns are nouns made up of two or more words and usually take their gender from the last part of the compound word.
- ✓ Some German nouns have more than one gender and this can affect their meaning.
- ✓ German abbreviations have the same gender as the words they come from.

The Cases

➤ In German, there are four grammatical cases – nominative, accusative, genitive and dative. The case you should use depends on the grammatical function of the noun in the sentence.

1 The nominative case

➤ The nominative case is the basic form of the noun and is the one you find in the dictionary.

| Case | Masculine | Feminine | Neuter |
|------------|--------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Nominative | der Wagen ein Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |

⇒ For more information on Articles, see page 25.

➤ The nominative case is used for:

- the subject of the sentence, that is the person, animal or thing 'doing' the action

Das Mädchen singt.

The girl is singing.

Die Katze schläft.

The cat is sleeping.

- after the verbs sein (meaning to be) and werden (meaning to be, to become)

Er ist ein guter Lehrer.

He is a good teacher.

Das wird ein Pullover.

It's going to be a jumper.

2 The accusative case

➤ The article for feminine and neuter nouns in the accusative case has the same form as in the nominative. Der for masculine nouns changes to den and ein to einen.

| Case | Masculine | Feminine | Neuter |
|------------|--|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Nominative | der Wagen ein Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |
| Accusative | den Wagen einen Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |

⇒ For more information on Articles, see page 25.

➤ The accusative case is used:

- to show the direct object of a verb. This is the person, animal or thing affected by the action of the verb.

He gave me a book. → What did he give me? → a book (=direct object)
 Can you get me a towel? → What can you get me? → a towel (=direct object)
Ich sehe den Hund. → What do I see? → den Hund (=direct object)
Er hat ein Lied gesungen. → What did he sing? → ein Lied (=direct object)

- after certain prepositions (words in English such as at, for, with, into or from) which are always used with the accusative.

Es ist für seine Freundin. It's for his girlfriend.
Es ist schwierig ohne einen Wagen. It's difficult without a car.
durch das Rauchen wurde ich krank. Smoking made me ill.

⇒ For more information on Prepositions followed by the accusative case, see page 156.

- after certain prepositions of place when movement is involved:

| | |
|-----------------|---------------------|
| an | on, to, at |
| auf | on, in, to, at |
| hinter | behind |
| in | in, into, to |
| neben | next to, beside |
| über | over, across, above |
| unter | under, among |
| vor | in front of, before |
| zwischen | between |

Stell dein Rad neben mein Auto. Put your bike next to my car.
Sie legten ein Brett über das Loch. They put a board over the hole.

ⓘ Note that when there is no movement involved after these prepositions, the dative case is used.

Sie geht in die Stadt. (accusative) She's going into town.
Er war in der Stadt. (dative) He was in town.

⇒ For more information on Prepositions followed by the accusative or the dative case, see page 158.

- in many expressions of time and place which do not have a preposition
- Das macht sie jeden Donnerstag. She does that every Thursday.
Die Schule ist einen Kilometer entfernt. The school is a kilometre away.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- in some set expressions

Guten Abend! Good evening!
Vielen Dank! Thank you very much!

3 The genitive case

- Der for masculine nouns and das for neuter nouns change to des. Ein changes to eines. The endings of masculine and neuter singular nouns also change in the genitive case.

- s is added to masculine and neuter nouns ending in -en, -el, -er.

der Wagen car → des Wagens das Rauchen smoking → des Rauchens der Esel donkey → des Esels der Computer computer → des Computers

Ich mag die Farbe des Wagens. I like the colour of the car.
Die Größe des Computers ist nicht wichtig. The size of the computer isn't important.

- es is added to most masculine and neuter nouns of one syllable ending in a consonant.

der Freund friend → des Freundes der Mann man → des Mannes der Sitz seat → des Sitzes der Arzt doctor → des Arztes der Tisch table → des Tisches
das Schloss castle → des Schlosses

Die Schwester des Arztes hilft manchmal in der Sprechstunde. The doctor's sister helps him in the surgery sometimes.
Das Museum befindet sich in der Nähe des Schlosses. The museum is near the castle.

- Die changes to der and eine to einer in the genitive. The endings of feminine singular nouns in the genitive case are the same as in the nominative.

die Ärztin (female) doctor → der Ärztin

| Case | Masculine | Feminine | Neuter |
|------------|--|--------------------------------------|--|
| Nominative | der Wagen ein Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |
| Accusative | den Wagen einen Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |
| Genitive | des Wagens eines Wagens | der Dose einer Dose | des Lieds eines Lieds |

⇒ For more information on Articles, see page 25.

➤ The genitive case is used:

- to show that something belongs to someone

Das Auto der Frau war rot.

The woman's car was red.

Der Hund meiner Mutter ist ganz klein.

My mother's dog is really small.

- after certain prepositions which always take the genitive

Wegen des schlechten Wetters müssen wir nach Hause gehen.

We'll have to go home because of the bad weather.

Trotz ihrer Krankheit geht sie jeden Tag spazieren.

She goes for a walk every day, despite her illness.

- in some expressions of time

eines Tages

one day

4 The dative case

➤ Der changes to dem and ein to einem in the dative. Singular nouns in the dative have the same form as in the nominative.

dem Auto to the car

dem Mädchen

to the girl

➤ Die changes to der and eine to einer in the dative. Singular nouns in the dative have the same form as in the nominative.

| Case | Masculine | Feminine | Neuter |
|------------|--|--------------------------------------|--|
| Nominative | der Wagen ein Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |
| Accusative | den Wagen einen Wagen | die Dose eine Dose | das Lied ein Lied |
| Genitive | des Wagens eines Wagens | der Dose einer Dose | des Lieds eines Lieds |
| Dative | dem Wagen einem Wagen | der Dose einer Dose | dem Lied einem Lied |

➤ For more information on Articles, see page 25.

➤ -e is added to some nouns in certain set phrases.

Wir gehen nach Hause.

We're going home.

Er hat sich zu Tode gearbeitet.

He worked himself to death.

Grammar Extra!

-e may also be added to the dative singular of masculine and neuter nouns to make the phrase easier to pronounce zu welchem Zwecke?

➤ The dative case is used:

- to show the indirect object of a verb – an indirect object answers the question who to/for? or to/for what?

He gave the man the book. → Who did he give the book to? → the man (= noun indirect object)

Er gab dem Mann das Buch.

- after certain verbs

Er hilft seiner Mutter im Haushalt.

He helps his mother with the housework.

➤ For more information on Verbs followed by the dative case, see page 148.

- after certain prepositions which always take the dative

Nach dem Essen gingen wir spazieren.

After eating we went for a walk.

Er kam mit einer Freundin.

He came with a friend.

➤ For more information on Prepositions followed by the dative case, see page 153.

- after certain prepositions to show position

auf hinter in neben über unter vor zwischen on, to, at on, in, to, at behind in, into, to next to, beside over, across, above under, among in front of, before between

Ich sitze neben dem Fenster.

I'm sitting next to the window.

Die Katze lag unter dem Tisch.

The cat lay under the table.

- ☐ Note that when there is some movement involved after these prepositions, the accusative case is used.

Er war in der Stadt. (dative)

He was in town.

Sie geht in die Stadt. (accusative)

She's going into town.

- ⇒ For more information on Prepositions followed by the accusative or the dative case, see page 158.

- in certain expressions

Mir ist kalt.

I'm cold.

- instead of the possessive adjective (my, your, his, her, its, our or their) to refer to parts of the body and items of clothing

Ich habe mir die Haare gewaschen.

I washed my hair.

Zieh dir die Jacke aus.

Take your jacket off.

- ⇒ For more information on Possessive adjectives, see page 37.

- Changes to the definite and indefinite articles der, die or das and ein, eine or ein for each case are summarized in the table below, to help make it easier for you to remember them.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|
| Nominative | der ein | die eine | das ein |
| Accusative | den einen | die eine | das ein |
| Genitive | des eines | der einer | des eines |
| Dative | dem einem | der einer | dem einem |

- ⇒ For more information on Articles, see page 25.

Key points

- ✓ In German, there are four grammatical cases – nominative, accusative, genitive and dative.
- ✓ The case you use depends on the grammatical function of the noun in the sentence.
- ✓ The nominative case is used to show the subject of a sentence and after the verbs, sein and werden.
- ✓ The accusative case is used to show the direct object of a sentence and after certain prepositions.
- ✓ The genitive case is used to show that something belongs to somebody, and after certain prepositions.
- ✓ The dative case is used to show the indirect object of a sentence, and after certain prepositions and verbs.

Forming plurals

- In English we usually make nouns plural by adding an -s to the end (garden → gardens; house → houses), although we do have some nouns which are irregular and do not follow this pattern (mouse → mice; child → children).
- In German, there are several different ways of making nouns plural.
- The definite article changes in the plural, as shown in the table below:

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | der | die | das | die |
| Accusative | den | die | das | die |
| Genitive | des | der | des | der |
| Dative | dem | der | dem | den |

➡ For more information on Articles, see page 25.

Tip

Nouns in the dative plural ALWAYS end in -n, except those nouns which come from other languages. Most of their plural forms end in -s. For example:

Mit den Autos hatte sie ständig Probleme. The cars caused her constant problems.

1 Feminine plural nouns ending in -n, -en, -nen

- Most German feminine nouns form their plural by adding -n, -en or -nen to their singular form.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|--|---|
| Nominative | die Blume (flower) die Frau (woman) die Lehrerin (teacher) | die Blumen die Frauen die Lehrerinnen |
| Accusative | die Blume die Frau die Lehrerin | die Blumen die Frauen die Lehrerinnen |
| Genitive | der Blume der Frau der Lehrerin | der Blumen der Frauen der Lehrerinnen |
| Dative | der Blume der Frau der Lehrerin | den Blumen den Frauen den Lehrerinnen |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Die Blumen waren nicht teuer.
Die Lehrerinnen sind ziemlich jung.
Das Leben der Frauen in vielen Ländern ist schwierig.
Wo gehst du mit den Blumen hin?

The flowers weren't expensive.
The (female) teachers are quite young.
In many countries, women's lives are difficult.
Where are you going with the flowers?

2 Nouns with no ending in the plural

- Many nouns have no plural ending – these are mostly masculine or neuter nouns ending in -en, -er or -el.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|--|---|
| Nominative | der Kuchen (cake) der Lehrer (teacher) der Onkel (uncle) | die Kuchen die Lehrer die Onkel |
| Accusative | den Kuchen den Lehrer den Onkel | die Kuchen die Lehrer die Onkel |
| Genitive | des Kuchens des Lehrers des Onkels | der Kuchen der Lehrer der Onkel |
| Dative | dem Kuchen dem Lehrer dem Onkel | den Kuchen den Lehrern den Onkeln |

Die Kuchen sehen lecker aus.
Die Onkel kommen morgen an.
Das war die Schuld der Lehrer.
Es gibt ein kleines Problem mit den Kuchen.

The cakes look delicious.
The uncles are coming tomorrow.
That was the teachers' fault.
There's a slight problem with the cakes.

- Some of these nouns also have an umlaut added to the first vowel a, o or u in the plural.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|--|--------------------------|
| Nominative | der Apfel (apple) der Garten (garden) | die Äpfel die Gärten |
| Accusative | den Apfel den Garten | die Äpfel die Gärten |
| Genitive | des Apfels des Gartens | der Äpfel der Gärten |
| Dative | dem Apfel dem Garten | den Äpfeln den Gärten |

Die Äpfel sind nicht reif genug. The apples aren't ripe enough.
 Die Gärten waren wunderschön. The gardens were beautiful.
 Schau mal die Größe der Äpfel an! Look at the size of the apples!
 Den Äpfeln fehlt ein bisschen Sonne. The apples need a bit of sun.

3 Plural nouns ending in -e

- Some masculine nouns add an umlaut above the first vowel a, o or u and an -e ending to form the plural. A few feminine nouns with a in the stem also follow this pattern. Nouns in this group often have one syllable only.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|---------------------------------------|----------------------------|
| Nominative | der Stuhl (chair) die Angst (fear) | die Stühle die Ängste |
| Accusative | den Stuhl die Angst | die Stühle die Ängste |
| Genitive | des Stuhl(e)s der Angst | der Stühle der Ängste |
| Dative | dem Stuhl der Angst | den Stühlen den Ängsten |

Die Stühle sind neu. The chairs are new.
 Die Regierung muss die Ängste der Bevölkerung ernst nehmen. The government has to take the population's fears seriously.
 Die Farbe der Stühle. The colour of the chairs.
 Der Tischler macht den Stühlen neue Beine. The carpenter is making new legs for the chairs.

4 Masculine and neuter plural nouns ending in -e, -er or -er

- Masculine or neuter nouns often add -e or -er to form the plural.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|---|--|
| Nominative | das Geschenk (present) der Tisch (table) das Kind (child) | die Geschenke die Tische die Kinder |
| Accusative | das Geschenk den Tisch das Kind | die Geschenke die Tische die Kinder |
| Genitive | des Geschenks des Tisches des Kindes | der Geschenke der Tische der Kinder |
| Dative | dem Geschenk dem Tisch dem Kind | den Geschenken den Tischen den Kindern |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Die Geschenke sind auf dem Tisch. The presents are on the table.
 Ich muss die Kinder abholen. I have to pick up the children.
 Die Auswahl der Tische im Laden The shop had a large selection war groß. of tables.
 Sie geht mit den Kindern spazieren. She's going for a walk with the children.

- Some masculine and neuter nouns add an umlaut above the first vowel a, o or u and an -er ending in the plural.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|-----------------------------------|----------------------------|
| Nominative | das Dach (roof) der Mann (man) | die Dächer die Männer |
| Accusative | das Dach den Mann | die Dächer die Männer |
| Genitive | des Dach(e)s des Mannes | der Dächer der Männer |
| Dative | dem Dach dem Mann | den Dächern den Männern |

Die Dächer werden repariert. The roofs are being repaired.
 Man hatte die Männer völlig vergessen. The men had been completely forgotten.
 Was ist die Rolle der Männer in unserer Gesellschaft? What is the role of men in our society?
 Die Frauen sollten den Männern nicht immer recht geben. Women should not always agree with men.

5 Some unusual plurals

- There is another group of German nouns which don't follow any of the rules for forming plurals – you just have to remember them! Here are some of the most common ones. As you will see, many of them are words from other languages, and it is common for such words to form their plural by adding -s:

| Singular | Meaning | Plural |
|----------------|-----------------------|-----------------|
| das Auto | car | die Autos |
| das Hotel | hotel | die Hotels |
| das Restaurant | restaurant | die Restaurants |
| das Baby | baby | die Babys |
| das Thema | theme, topic, subject | die Themen |
| das Drama | drama | die Dramen |
| das Risiko | risk | die Risiken |
| der Park | park | die Parks |
| der Chef | boss, chief, head | die Chefs |
| die Firma | firm | die Firmen |

Die Hotels in der Stadt sind ziemlich teuer.

Die Risiken sind sehr hoch.

Die Kinder finden die Babys ganz niedlich.

Was hältst du von den Preisen der Autos?

Das ist die Stadt mit den vielen Parks.

The hotels in town are quite expensive.

The risks are very high.

The children think the babies are really cute.

What do you think of the prices of the cars?

That's the town with all the parks.

6 Plural versus singular

- Some nouns are always plural in English, but singular in German.

| | |
|-------------|---------------------|
| eine Brille | glasses, spectacles |
| eine Schere | scissors |
| eine Hose | trousers |

- These nouns are only used in the plural in German to mean more than one pair.

| | |
|------------|-----------------------|
| zwei Hosen | two pairs of trousers |
|------------|-----------------------|

7 Nouns of measurement and quantity

- These nouns, used to describe the quantity or size of something, usually remain singular, even if preceded by a plural number.

|-------------------------|----------------------|
| Möchten Sie zwei Stück? | Would you like two? |
| Ich wiege fünfzig Kilo. | I weigh eight stone. |

- The substance which they measure follows in the same case as the noun of quantity, and NOT in the genitive case as in English.

|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Sie hat drei Tassen Kaffee getrunken. | She drank three cups of coffee. |
| Er wollte zwei Kilo Kartoffeln. | He wanted two kilos of potatoes. |
| Drei Glas Weißwein, bitte! | Three glasses of white wine, please. |

Key points

- ✓ Most German feminine nouns form their plural by adding -n, -en or -nen to their singular form.
- ✓ Many nouns have no plural ending – these are mostly masculine or neuter singular nouns ending in -en, -er or -el. Some of these nouns also have an umlaut added to the vowel in the plural.
- ✓ Some masculine nouns add an umlaut above the first vowel a, o or u and an -e ending to form the plural. A few feminine nouns with a in the stem also follow this pattern.
- ✓ Masculine and neuter nouns often add -e or -er in the plural, and can sometimes add an umlaut above the first vowel a, o or u.
- ✓ There are some unusual plural nouns in German which don't follow any pattern.
- ✓ Some nouns are always plural in English, but singular in German.
- ✓ Nouns of measurement and quantity usually remain singular even if preceded by a plural number.
- ✓ The substance which they measure follows in the same case as the noun of quantity.

Weak nouns

- As we have seen, German nouns may change, according to their gender, case and number. This is called declension.
- Some masculine nouns have a weak declension – this means that they end in -en or, if the word ends in a vowel, in -n, in every case EXCEPT in the nominative singular case.
- Weak masculine nouns follow the pattern shown:

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|------------|------------|
| Nominative | der Junge | die Jungen |
| Accusative | den Jungen | die Jungen |
| Genitive | des Jungen | der Jungen |
| Dative | dem Jungen | den Jungen |

- Weak masculine nouns include:

- those ending in -og(e) referring to men
 - der Psychologe the psychologist
 - Der Psychologe half ihm in seiner Krise. The psychologist helped him through his crisis.
- those ending in -aph (or -af) or -oph
 - der Paragraf the paragraph
 - der Philosoph the philosopher
 - Der Paragraf umfasste 350 Wörter. The paragraph was 350 words long.
- those ending in -ant
 - der Elefant the elephant
 - der Diamant the diamond
 - Der Diamant war sehr viel Geld wert. The diamond was worth a lot of money.
- those ending in -t referring to men
 - der Astronaut the astronaut
 - der Komponist the composer
 - der Architekt the architect
 - Um Astronaut zu werden, muss man jahrelang trainieren. You have to train for years to become an astronaut.

- some other common masculine nouns:

| | |
|---|--|
| der Bauer | farmer |
| der Chirurg | surgeon |
| der Franzose | Frenchman |
| der Kollege | colleague |
| der Mensch | human being |
| der Ochse | ox |
| der Spatz | sparrow |
| Der junge Franzose wollte Schottland besuchen. | The young French guy wanted to visit Scotland. |
| Ich habe den Franzosen seit einer Woche nicht mehr gesehen. | I haven't seen the French guy for a week. |

Grammar Extra!

The noun der Name follows the same pattern as der Junge, except in the genitive singular, where it adds -ns instead of just -n. Der Buchstabe (meaning letter (of the alphabet)), der Funke (meaning spark) and der Gedanke (meaning thought) also follow this pattern.

| Case | Singular | Plural |
|------------|------------|-----------|
| Nominative | der Name | die Namen |
| Accusative | den Namen | die Namen |
| Genitive | des Namens | der Namen |
| Dative | dem Namen | den Namen |

|--|--|
| Das hängt von der Wichtigkeit des Namens ab. | That depends on how important the name is. |
|--|--|

Proper nouns

What is a proper noun?

A proper noun is the name of a person, place, organization or thing. Proper nouns are always written with a capital letter, for example, Kevin, Glasgow, Europe, London Eye.

- In German, names of people and places only change in the genitive singular when they add -s, unless they are preceded by the definite article or a demonstrative adjective (in English, this, that, these and those).

|----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| Annas Buch | Anna's book |
| Klaras Mantel | Klara's coat |
| die Werke Goethes | Goethe's works |
| BUT | |
| der Untergang der Titanic | the sinking of the Titanic |

⇒ For more information on Articles and Demonstrative adjectives, see pages 25 and 31.

Grammar Extra!

Where proper names end in -s, -sch, -ss, -ß, -x, -z, or -tz, adding an extra -s for the genitive makes them very difficult to pronounce. This is best avoided by using von + the dative case.

|-------------------------------|--------------------|
| das Buch von Hans | Hans's book |
| die Werke von Marx | the works of Marx |
| die Freundin von Klaus | Klaus's girlfriend |

- Herr (meaning Mr) is always declined when it is part of a proper name.

|----------------------------|---------------|
| an Herrn Schmidt | to Mr Schmidt |
| Sehr geehrte Herren | Dear Sirs |

- Surnames usually form their plurals by adding -s, unless they end in -s, -sch, -ss, -ß, -x, -z, or -tz, in which case they add -ens. They are often preceded by the definite article.

|--|---|
| Die Schmidts haben uns zum Abendessen eingeladen. | The Schmidts have invited us to dinner. |
| Die Schultzens waren nicht zu Hause. | The Schultzes weren't at home. |

Articles

What is an article?

In English, an article is one of the words the, a, and an which is used in front of a noun.

1 Different types of articles

- There are two types of article:

- the definite article: the in English. This is used to identify a particular thing or person.
I'm going to the supermarket.
That's the woman I was talking to.
- the indefinite article: a or an in English, some or any (or no word at all) in the plural. This is used to refer to something unspecific, or something that you do not really know about.
Is there a supermarket near here?
I need a day off.

2 The definite article

- In English the definite article the always keeps the same form.

the book
the books
with the books

- In German, however, the definite article has many forms. All German nouns are either masculine, feminine or neuter and, just as in English, they can be either singular or plural. The word you choose for the depends on whether the noun it is used with is masculine, feminine or neuter, singular or plural AND it also depends on the case of the noun. This may sound complicated, but it is not too difficult.

|---|--|
| Die Frau ging spazieren. | The woman went for a walk. |
| Der Mann ist geschieden. | The man is divorced. |
| Sie fährt mit dem Auto in die Stadt. | She travels into town by car. |
| Die Farbe der Jacke gefällt mir nicht. | I don't like the colour of the jacket. |
| Ich muss die Kinder abholen. | I have to pick up the children. |
| Das will ich mit den Behörden besprechen. | I want to discuss that with the authorities. |

⇒ For more information on Nouns, see page 1.

- The definite article changes for masculine, feminine and neuter singular nouns.

| | Definite Article + Noun | Meaning |
|-----------|----------------------------|-----------|
| Masculine | der Mann | the man |
| Feminine | die Frau | the woman |
| Neuter | das Mädchen | the girl |

- The plural forms of the definite article are the same for all genders.

| | Definite Article + Plural Noun | Meaning |
|-----------|-----------------------------------|-----------|
| Masculine | die Männer | the men |
| Feminine | die Frauen | the women |
| Neuter | die Mädchen | the girls |

Tip

It is a good idea to learn the article or the gender with the noun when you come across a word for the first time, so that you know whether it is masculine, feminine or neuter. A good dictionary will also give you this information.

- The definite article also changes according to the case of the noun in the sentence – nominative, accusative, genitive or dative.

➡ For more information on Cases, see page 9.

- The forms of the definite article in each case are as follows:

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|-----------------------|----------------------|--------------------|-----------------------|
| Nominative | der | die | das | die |
| Accusative | den | die | das | die |
| Genitive | des | der | des | der |
| Dative | dem | der | dem | den |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Der Mann ging ins Haus.

Die Frau geht jeden Abend schwimmen.

Sie wollen das Mädchen adoptieren.

Die zwei Frauen nebenan wollen ihr Haus renovieren.

Der Mann mit der reichen Frau.

Die Mädchen gehen morgen ins Kino.

Ich will nicht nur mit den Männern arbeiten.

The man went into the house.

The woman goes swimming every night.

They want to adopt the girl.

The two women next door want to renovate their house.

The man with the rich wife.

The girls are going to the cinema tomorrow.

I don't just want to work with the men.

Key points

- ✓ The definite article changes for masculine, feminine and neuter singular nouns.
- ✓ The plural forms of the definite article are the same for all genders.
- ✓ The form of the definite article also changes depending on the case of the noun in the sentence.

3 Using the definite article

- The definite article in German (der, die or das) is used in more or less the same way as we use the in English, but it is also used in German in a few places where you might not expect it.

- The definite article is used with words like prices, life and time that describe qualities, ideas or experiences (called abstract nouns) rather than something that you can touch with your hand. Usually, the is missed out in English with this type of word.

Die Preise sind wirklich hoch.

Prices are really high.

Das Leben ist schön.

Life is wonderful.

Die Zeit vergeht schnell.

Time passes quickly.

- ⓘ Note that these nouns are sometimes used WITHOUT the article.

Es braucht Mut.

It needs (some) courage.

Gibt es dort Leben?

Is there (any) life there?

- You also use the definite article with the genitive case to show that something belongs to someone.

die Jacke der Frau

the woman's jacket

- i Note that you do not usually use the definite article with the genitive case if the noun is a proper name or is being used as a proper name.
A proper name is the name of a person, place, organization or thing.

Jans Auto Jan's car
Muttis Auto Mummy's car

Occasionally, the definite article IS used with proper names:

- to make the sex of the person or the case clearer
Er hat es der Frau Kekilli gegeben. He gave it to Frau Kekilli.
- where an adjective is used before the proper name Die alte Frau Schnorr ist gestorben. Old Frau Schnorr has died.
- in certain informal situations or to emphasize something Ich habe heute den Kevin gesehen. I saw Kevin today.

- In German, you have to use the definite article in front of masculine and feminine countries and districts, but you don't need it for neuter ones.

Die Schweiz ist auch schön. Switzerland is also beautiful.
Deutschland ist sehr schön. Germany is very beautiful.

Grammar Extra!

You also use the definite article when geographical names are preceded by an adjective.

das heutige Deutschland today's Germany

- The definite article is used with names of seasons.

Der Winter kommt bald. Soon it will be winter.

- You often use the definite article with meals.

Im Hotel wird das Abendessen ab acht Uhr serviert. Dinner is served from eight o'clock in the hotel.

- i Note that there are certain expressions with meals when you don't use the definite article.

Um acht Uhr ist Frühstück. Breakfast is at eight o'clock.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- You also use the definite article with the names of roads.

Sie wohnt jetzt in der Geisener Straße. She lives in Geisener Road now.

- The definite article is used with months of the year, except after the prepositions seit, nach and vor.

Der Dezember war ziemlich kalt. The December was quite cold.
Wir sind seit September hier. We have been here since September.

- ➡ For more information on Prepositions, see page 153.

- If you're talking about prices and want to say each, per or a, you use the definite article.

Die kosten fünf Euro das Pfund. They cost five euros a pound.
Ich habe sechs Euro das Stück bezahlt. I paid six euros each.

- In certain common expressions the definite article is used.

in die Stadt fahren to go into town mit der Post by post mit dem Zug/Bus/Auto by train/bus/car

Grammar Extra!

In German, the definite article can be used instead of a demonstrative adjective.

Du willst das Buch lesen! You want to read that book!

- ➡ For more information on Demonstrative adjectives, see page 31.

- In German, the definite article is left out:

- of certain set expressions
von Beruf by profession
Nachrichten hören to listen to the news

4 Shortened forms of the definite article

➤ After certain prepositions, the definite article can be shortened, though it is best to avoid using some of these forms in writing:

- für das → fürs
Es ist fürs Baby. It's for the baby.
- vor dem → vorm
Es liegt vorm Haus. It's lying in front of the house.
- um das → ums
Es geht ums Geld. It's a question of money.

➤ The following shortened forms can be used in writing:

- an dem → am
Am 1. Mai fahren wir in die Ferien. We go on holiday on the 1st of May.
- in dem → im
Das Buch liegt im Haus. The book's in the house.
- zu dem → zum
Ich muss zum Bahnhof gehen. I have to go to the station.
- zu der → zur
Sie geht jeden Tag zur Schule. She goes to school every day.

➡ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

Key points

- ✓ The definite article is used in German with:
 - abstract nouns
 - the genitive case to show possession
 - proper names, in certain exceptional cases
 - masculine and feminine countries and districts
 - names of seasons and with months of the year, except after the prepositions seit, nach and vor
 - names of roads
 - meals and prices
- ✓ The definite article in German can be used in certain set expressions.
- ✓ When combined with certain prepositions, the definite article can be shortened.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Is there still something left?

► The words listed above can be used as:

- articles
Dieser Mann kommt aus Südamerika. This man comes from South America.
Sie geht jeden Tag ins Büro. She goes to the office every day.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- pronouns – a pronoun is a word you use instead of a noun, when you do not need or want to name someone or something directly, for example, it, you, none.

Willst du diesen?

Do you want this one?

Man kann ja nicht alles wissen.

You can't know everything.

Es gibt manche, die keinen Alkohol mögen.

There are some people who don't like alcohol.

⇒ For more information on Pronouns, see page 69.

Grammar Extra!

einiger and irgendwelcher end in -en in the genitive before masculine or neuter nouns ending in -s.

Er musste wegziehen wegen irgendwelchen Geredes.

He had to move away because of some gossip.

jeder, welcher, mancher and solcher can also do this or can have the usual -es ending.

Das Kind solcher Eltern wird Probleme haben.

The child of such parents will have problems.

Trotz jeden Versuchs scheiterten die Verhandlungen.

Despite all attempts, the negotiations failed.

► solcher, beide and sämtliche can be used after another article or possessive adjective (in English, one of the words my, your, his, her, its, our or their).

Ein solches Rad habe ich früher auch gehabt.

I used to have a bike like that too.

Diese beiden Männer haben es gesehen.

Both of these men have seen it.

► Although beide generally has plural forms only, there is one singular form, beides. While beide is more common and can refer to both people and things, beides refers only to things. Beide is used for two examples of the same thing or person, while beides is used for two different examples.

Es gab zwei Bleistifte und er hat beide genommen.

There were two pencils and he took both.

BUT

Es gab einen Bleistift und ein Bild und er hat beides genommen.

There was one pencil and one picture and he took both.

📌 Note that beides is singular in German, whereas both is plural in English.

Beides ist richtig.

Both are correct.

- dies often replaces the nominative and accusative dieses and diese when it is used as a pronoun.

Hast du dies schon gelesen?

Have you already read this?

Dies sind meine neuen Sachen.

These are my new things.

- ➡ For more information on Pronouns, see page 69.

- alle also has a fixed form – all – which is used together with other articles or possessive pronouns.

All sein Mut war verschwunden.

All his courage had disappeared.

Was machst du mit all diesem Geld?

What are you doing with all this money?

- ganz can be used to replace both alle and all and is declined like an adjective.

Sie ist mit dem ganzen Geld verschwunden.

She disappeared with all the money.

- ➡ For more information on Adjectives, see page 40.

- ganz must be used:

- in time phrases

Es hat den ganzen Tag geschneit.

It snowed the whole day long.

- when talking about geography

Im ganzen Land gab es keinen besseren Wein.

There wasn't a better wine in the whole country.

- with nouns referring to a collection of people or animals (collective nouns)

Die ganze Gesellschaft war auf der Versammlung vertreten.

The entire company was represented at the meeting.

Grammar Extra!

derjenige/diejenige/dasjenige (the one, those) is declined in the same way as the definite article (der) + a weak adjective.

- ➡ For more information on Weak adjectives, see page 42.

| Case | Masculine | Feminine | Neuter |
|------------|----------------------------|------------------------|----------------------------|
| Nominative | derjenige Mann | diejenige Frau | dasjenige Kind |
| Accusative | denjenigen Mann | diejenige Frau | dasjenige Kind |
| Genitive | desjenigen Mann(e)s | derjenigen Frau | desjenigen Kind(e)s |
| Dative | demjenigen Mann | derjenigen Frau | demjenigen Kind |

derselbe/dieselbe/dasselbe (the same, the same one) is declined in the same way as derjenige. However, after prepositions, the shortened forms of the definite article are used for the appropriate parts of derselbe.

zur selben (=zu derselben) Zeit at the same time

im selben (=in demselben) Zimmer

in the same room

- ➡ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Key points

- ✓ There is a group of words which are declined like the definite article der.
- ✓ These words can be used as articles or pronouns.
- ✓ solcher, beide and sämtliche can be used after another article or possessive adjective.
- ✓ beide generally has plural forms only, but there is one singular form, beides.
- ✓ When it is used as a pronoun dies often replaces the nominative and accusative dieses and diese.
- ✓ alle also has a fixed form, all.
- ✓ ganz must be used instead of alle in certain situations.

6 The indefinite article

- In English we have the indefinite article a, which changes to an in front of a word that starts with a vowel. In the plural we say either some, any or nothing at all.

- In German the word you choose for a depends on whether the noun it is used with is masculine, feminine or neuter, singular or plural AND it also depends on the case of the noun.

Da ist ein Auto.

There's a car.

Sie hat eine Wohnung.

She has a flat.

Er gab es einem Kind.

He gave it to a child.

- It has no plural forms.

Computer sind in letzter Zeit teurer geworden.

Computers have become more expensive recently.

- The indefinite article is formed as follows:

| Case | Masculine | Feminine | Neuter |
|------------|--------------|--------------|--------------|
| Nominative | ein | eine | ein |
| Accusative | einen | eine | ein |
| Genitive | eines | einer | eines |
| Dative | einem | einer | einem |

7 Using the indefinite article

- The indefinite article is used very much as in English.

Da ist ein Bus.

There's a bus.

Sie hat eine neue Jacke.

She has a new jacket.

Sie gab es einer alten Dame.

She gave it to an old lady.

► In certain situations, you do not use the indefinite article:

- when talking about the job someone does

Sie ist Ärztin. She's a doctor.

- when talking about someone's nationality or religion

Sie ist Deutsche. She's (a) German.

Er ist Moslem. He's (a) Muslim.

? Note that the indefinite article IS used when an adjective comes before the noun.

Sie ist eine sehr begabte Journalistin. She's a very talented journalist.

- in certain fixed expressions

Es ist Geschmacksache. It's a question of taste.

Tatsache ist ... It's a fact ...

- after als (meaning as a)

Als Lehrerin verdiene ich nicht gut. I don't earn very much as a teacher.

Als Großmutter darf ich meine Enkel verwöhnen. As a grandmother, I'm allowed to spoil my grandchildren.

8 The indefinite article in negative sentences

► In English we use words like not and never to indicate that something is not happening or is not true. The sentences that these words are used in are called negative sentences.

I don't know him.

I never do my homework on time.

► In German, you use a separate negative form of the indefinite article, which is formed exactly like ein in the singular, and also has plural forms. It means no/not a/not one/not any.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | kein | keine | kein | keine |
| Accusative | keinen | keine | kein | keine |
| Genitive | keines | keiner | keines | keiner |
| Dative | keinem | keiner | keinem | keinen |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Er hatte keine Geschwister.

He had no brothers or sisters.

Ich sehe keinen Unterschied.

I don't see any difference.

Das ist keine richtige Antwort.

That's no answer.

Kein Mensch hat es gesehen.

Not one person has seen it.

Tip

This negative form of the indefinite article is even used when the positive form of the phrase has no article.

Er hatte Angst davor.

He was frightened.

Er hatte keine Angst davor.

He wasn't frightened.

Grammar Extra!

The negative form of the indefinite article is also used in many informal expressions.

Sie hatte kein Geld mehr.

All her money was gone.

Es waren keine drei Monate vergangen, als ...

It was less than three months later that ...

Es hat mich keine zehn Euro gekostet.

It cost me less than ten euros.

If you want to emphasize the ein in the sentence, nicht ein can be used instead of kein.

Nicht ein Kind hat es singen können.

Not one child could sing it.

➡ For more information on Negatives, see page 179.

Key points

- ✓ The indefinite article is used in German:
 - to translate the English a and any in the singular
 - to translate the English some or any in the plural
 - in negative sentences in its separate negative form, kein, to translate not or never
- ✓ The indefinite article in German is NOT used when:
 - talking about someone's job, nationality or religion, unless an adjective is used before the noun
 - in certain set expressions or after als meaning as a

9 Words declined like the indefinite article

► The following words are possessive adjectives, one of the words my, your, his, her, its, our or their used with a noun to show that one person or thing belongs to another. They follow the same pattern as the indefinite articles ein and kein.

| | |
|-------|-----------------------------------|
| mein | my |
| dein | your (singular familiar) |
| sein | his/its |
| ihr | her/its |
| unser | our |
| euer | your (plural familiar) |
| ihr | their |
| Ihr | your (polite singular and plural) |

► Possessive adjectives are formed in the following way.

| | Nominative | Accusative | Genitive | Dative |
|----------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Singular | mein, meine, mein | meinen, meine, mein | meines, meiner, meines | meinem, meiner, meinem |
| Plural | meine | meine | meiner | meinen |
| Singular | dein, deine, dein | deinen, deine, dein | deines, deiner, deines | deinem, deiner, deinem |
| Plural | deine | deine | deiner | deinen |
| Singular | sein, seine, sein | seinen, seine, sein | seines, seiner, seines | seinem, seiner, seinem |
| Plural | seine | seine | seiner | seinen |
| Singular | ihr, ihre, ihr | ihren, ihre, ihr | ihres, ihrer, ihres | ihrem, ihrer, ihrem |
| Plural | ihre | ihre | ihrer | ihren |
| Singular | unser, unsere, unser | unseren, unsere, unser | unseres, unserer, unseres | unserem, unserer, unserem |
| Plural | unsere | unsere | unserer | unseren |
| Singular | euer, eu(e)re, eu(e)res | eu(e)ren, eu(e)re, eu(e)res | eu(e)res, eu(e)rer, eu(e)res | eu(e)rem, eu(e)rer, eu(e)rem |
| Plural | eu(e)re | eu(e)re | eu(e)rer | eu(e)ren |
| Singular | ihr, ihre, ihr | ihren, ihre, ihr | ihres, ihrer, ihres | ihrem, ihrer, ihrem |
| Plural | ihre | ihre | ihrer | ihren |
| Singular | Ihr, Ihre, Ihr | Ihren, Ihre, Ihr | Ihres, Ihrer, Ihres | Ihrem, Ihrer, Ihrem |
| Plural | Ihre | Ihre | Ihrer | Ihren |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Mein kleiner Bruder will auch mitkommen.

My little brother wants to come too.

Wo steht dein altes Auto?

Where is your old car?

Er spielt Fußball mit seiner Tante.

He is playing football with his aunt.

Was ist mit ihrem Computer los?

What is wrong with her computer?

Ihre Kinder sind wirklich verwöhnt.

Their children are really spoiled.

Wie geht es Ihrer Schwester?

How is your sister?

Ich will meine Kinder regelmäßig sehen.

I want to see my children regularly.

Grammar Extra!

Possessive adjectives are often followed by other adjectives in German sentences. These adjectives then have the same endings as the indefinite article.

Er liebt sein altes Auto.

He loves his old car.

Sie hat nur ihren neuen Computer verkauft.

She sold her new computer.

Wo ist deine rote Jacke?

Where is your red jacket?

irgendein (meaning some ... or other) and its plural form irgendwelche also take these endings.

Er ist irgendein bekannter Schauspieler.

He's some famous actor or other.

Sie ist nur irgendeine alte Frau.

She's just some old woman or other.

Sie hat irgendein neues Buch gekauft.

She bought some new book or other.

Ich muss irgendwelche blöden Touristen herumführen.

I have to show some stupid tourists or other round.

Key point

- ✓ Possessive adjectives, one of the words my, your, his, her, its, our or their, are declined like the indefinite articles ein and kein.

ADJECTIVES

What is an adjective?

An adjective is a 'describing' word that tells you more about a person or thing, such as their appearance, colour, size or other qualities, for example, pretty, blue, big.

Using adjectives

- Adjectives are words like clever, expensive and silly that tell you more about a noun (a living being, thing or idea). They can also tell you more about a pronoun, such as he or they. Adjectives are sometimes called 'describing words'. They can be used right next to a noun they are describing, or can be separated from the noun by a verb like be, look, feel and so on.

a clever girl

an expensive coat

a silly idea

He's just being silly.

- ➡ For more information on Nouns and Pronouns, see pages 1 and 69.

- In English, the only time an adjective changes its form is when you are making a comparison.

She's cleverer than her brother.

That's the silliest idea I ever heard!

- In German, however, adjectives usually agree with what they are describing. This means that their endings change depending on whether the person or thing you are referring to is masculine, feminine or neuter, and singular or plural. It also depends on the case of the person or thing you are describing and whether it is preceded by the definite or indefinite article.

Das neue Buch ist da.

The new book has arrived.

Ich wollte es der alten Frau geben.

I wanted to give it to the old woman.

Sie erzählte mir eine langweilige Geschichte.

She told me a boring story.

Die deutschen Traditionen

German traditions

- ➡ For more information on Cases and Articles, see pages 9 and 25.

- As in English, German adjectives come BEFORE the noun they describe, but AFTER the verb in the sentence. The only time the adjective does not agree with the word it describes is when it comes AFTER the verb.

eine schwarze Katze

a black cat

Das Buch ist neu.

The book is new.

Key points

- ✓ Most German adjectives change their form according to the case of the noun they are describing and whether the noun is masculine, feminine or neuter, singular or plural.
- ✓ In German, as in English, adjectives come before the noun they describe, but AFTER the verb in the sentence.

Making adjectives agree

1 The basic rules

- In dictionaries, only the basic form of German adjectives is shown. You need to know how to change it to make it agree with the noun or pronoun the adjective describes.
- To make an adjective agree with the noun or pronoun it describes, you simply add one of three sets of different endings:

2 The Weak Declension

- The endings used after the definite articles der, die and das and other words declined like them are shown below.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | -e | -e | -e | -en |
| Accusative | -en | -e | -e | -en |
| Genitive | -en | -en | -en | -en |
| Dative | -en | -en | -en | -en |

- The following table shows you how these different endings are added to the adjective alt, meaning old, when it is used with the definite article.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular |
|------------|---------------------------|-----------------------|-------------------------|
| Nominative | der alte Mann | die alte Frau | das alte Haus |
| Accusative | den alten Mann | die alte Frau | das alte Haus |
| Genitive | des alten Mann(e)s | der alten Frau | des alten Hauses |
| Dative | dem alten Mann | der alten Frau | dem alten Haus |

Nominative:

Der alte Mann wohnt nebenan.

The old man lives next door.

Accusative:

Ich habe die alte Frau in der Bibliothek gesehen.

I saw the old woman in the library.

Genitive:

Die Besitzerin des alten Hauses ist ganz reich.

The owner of the old house is very rich.

Dative:

Er hilft dem alten Mann beim Einkaufen.

He helps the old man to do his shopping.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- These are the plural endings of adjectives in the weak declension.

| Plural | All Genders |
|------------|---|
| Nominative | die alten Männer/Frauen/Häuser |
| Accusative | die alten Männer/Frauen/Häuser |
| Genitive | der alten Männer/Frauen/Häuser |
| Dative | den alten Männern/Frauen/Häusern |

3 The Mixed Declension

- The endings used after ein, kein, irgendein and the possessive adjectives are shown below.
- 7 Note that this declension differs from the weak declension only in the three forms underlined below.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | -er | -e | -es | -en |
| Accusative | -en | -e | -es | -en |
| Genitive | -en | -en | -en | -en |
| Dative | -en | -en | -en | -en |

- For more information on the Possessive adjectives, see page 37.

- The following table shows you how these different endings are added to the adjective lang, meaning long.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular |
|------------|-----------------------------|---------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Nominative | ein langer Weg | eine lange Reise | ein langes Spiel |
| Accusative | einen langen Weg | eine lange Reise | ein langes Spiel |
| Genitive | eines langen Weg(e)s | einer langen Reise | eines langen Spiel(e)s |
| Dative | einem langen Weg | einer langen Reise | einem langen Spiel |

| | | |
|-------------|---|--|
| Nominative: | Eine lange Reise muss geplant werden. | You have to plan a long trip. |
| Accusative: | Ich habe einen langen Weg nach Hause. | It takes me a long time to get home. |
| Genitive: | Die vielen Nachteile einer langen Reise ... | The many disadvantages of a long journey ... |
| Dative: | Bei einem langen Spiel kann man sich langweilen. | You can get bored with a long game. |

- These are the plural endings of adjectives when they have a mixed declension.

| Plural | All Genders |
|------------|---|
| Nominative | ihre langen Wege/Reisen/Spiele |
| Accusative | ihre langen Wege/Reisen/Spiele |
| Genitive | ihrer langen Wege/Reisen/Spiele |
| Dative | ihren langen Wegen/Reisen/Spielen |

4 The Strong Declension

- The endings used when there is no article before the noun are shown below.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | -er | -e | -es | -e |
| Accusative | -en | -e | -es | -e |
| Genitive | -en | -er | -en | -er |
| Dative | -em | -er | -em | -en |

- The following table shows you how these different endings are added to the adjective gut, meaning good.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular |
|------------|--------------------|------------------------|-----------------------|
| Nominative | guter Käse | gute Marmelade | gutes Bier |
| Accusative | guten Käse | gute Marmelade | gutes Bier |
| Genitive | guten Käses | guter Marmelade | guten Bier(e)s |
| Dative | gutem Käse | guter Marmelade | gutem Bier |

| | | |
|-------------|---|---|
| Nominative: | Gutes Bier ist sehr wichtig auf einer Party. | Good beer is very important at a party. |
| Accusative: | Wo finde ich guten Käse? | Where will I get good cheese? |
| Genitive: | Das ist ein Zeichen guter Marmelade. | That is a sign of good jam. |
| Dative: | Zu gutem Käse braucht man auch Oliven. | You need olives to go with good cheese. |

- These are the plural endings of adjectives when they have a strong declension.

- 7 Note that the plural form of Käse is normally Käsesorten.

| Plural | All Genders |
|------------|--|
| Nominative | gute Käsesorten/Marmeladen/Biere |
| Accusative | gute Käsesorten/Marmeladen/Biere |
| Genitive | guter Käsesorten/Marmeladen/Biere |
| Dative | guten Käsesorten/Marmeladen/Bieren |

- 7 Note that these endings allow the adjective to do the work of the missing article by showing the case of the noun and whether it is singular or plural, masculine, feminine or neuter.

- The article is omitted more often in German than in English, especially where you have preposition + adjective + noun combinations.

|--|--|
| Nach kurzer Fahrt kamen wir in Glasgow an. | After a short journey we arrived in Glasgow. |
| Mit gleichem Gehalt wie du würde ich mir einen Urlaub leisten können. | I'd be able to afford a holiday on the same salary as you. |

- These strong declension endings are also used after any of the following words when the noun they refer to is not preceded by an article.

| Word | Meaning |
|----------------------------|--------------------------|
| ein bisschen | a little, a bit of | | ein wenig | a little |
| ein paar | a few, a couple |
| weniger | fewer, less |
| einige (plural forms only) | some |
| etwas | some, any (singular) |
| mehr | more |
| lauter | nothing but, sheer, pure |
| solch | such |
| was für | what, what kind of |
| viel | much, many, a lot of |
| welch ...! | what ...! what a ...! |
| manch | many a |
| wenig | little, few, not much |
| zwei, drei etc | two, three etc |

Morgen hätte ich ein wenig freie Zeit für dich.

I could spare you some time tomorrow.

Sie hat mir ein paar gute Tipps gegeben.

She gave me a few good tips.

Er isst weniger frisches Obst als ich.

He eats less fresh fruit than me.

Heutzutage wollen mehr junge Frauen Ingenieurinnen werden.

Nowadays, more young women want to be engineers.

Solche leckere Schokolade habe ich schon lange nicht mehr gegessen.

I haven't had such good chocolate for a long time.

Wir haben viel kostbare Zeit verschwendet.

We have wasted a lot of valuable time.

Welch herrliches Wetter!

What wonderful weather!

- With wenig and numbers from zwei onwards, adjectives behave as follows:

- Strong, when there is no article:

Es gab damals nur wenig frisches Obst.

There was little fresh fruit at that time.

Zwei kleine Jungen kamen die Straße entlang.

Two small boys came along the street.

- Weak, when the definite article comes first:

Das wenige frische Obst, das es damals gab, war teuer.

The little fresh fruit that was available then, was expensive.

Die zwei kleinen Jungen, die die Straße entlangkamen.

The two small boys who came along the street.

- Mixed, when a possessive adjective comes first:

Meine zwei kleinen Jungen sind manchmal frech.

My two small sons are cheeky sometimes.

- These strong declension endings also need to be used after possessives where no other word shows the case of the following noun and whether it's masculine, feminine or neuter, singular or plural.

Sebastians altes Buch lag auf dem Tisch.

Sebastian's old book was lying on the table.

Mutters neuer Computer sieht toll aus.

Mother's new computer looks great.

Tip

When these various endings are added to adjectives, you have to watch out for some spelling changes.

When endings are added to the adjective hoch, meaning high, the simple form changes to hoh.

Das Gebäude ist hoch.

The building is high.

Das ist ein hohes Gebäude.

That is a high building.

Adjectives ending in -el lose the -e when endings are added.

Das Zimmer ist dunkel.

The room is dark.

Man sieht nichts in dem dunklen Zimmer.

You can't see anything in the dark room.

Adjectives ending in -er often lose the -e when endings are added.

Das Auto war teuer.

The car was expensive.

Sie kaufte ein teures Auto.

She bought an expensive car.

Key points

- ✓ To make an adjective agree with the noun it is describing, you simply add one of three sets of endings: weak, mixed or strong.
- ✓ Strong endings are also used after particular words when not preceded by an article, for example, ein bisschen, ein paar, wenig and after possessive adjectives.

5 Participles as adjectives

- In English, the present participle is a verb form ending in -ing, which may be used as an adjective or a noun. In German, you simply add -d to the infinitive of the verb to form the present participle, which may then be used as an adjective with all the usual endings.

Auf dem Tisch stand ein Foto von einem lachenden Kind.

There was a photo of a laughing child on the table.

- ⚠ Note that the present participles of sein and haben cannot be used like this.

- The past participle of a verb can also be used as an adjective.

Meine Mutter hat meine verlorenen Sachen gefunden.

My mother found my lost things.

- ➡ For more information on Past participles, see page 113.

6 Adjectives preceded by the dative case

- With many adjectives you use the dative case, for example:

- ähnlich similar to
Er ist seinem Vater sehr ähnlich. He's very like his father.
- bekannt familiar to
Sie kommt mir bekannt vor. She seems familiar to me.
- dankbar grateful to
Ich bin dir sehr dankbar. I'm very grateful to you.
- fremd strange, alien to Das ist mir fremd. That's alien to me.
- gleich all the same to/like
Es ist mir gleich. It's all the same to me.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- leicht easy for
Du machst es dir wirklich zu leicht. You really make things too easy for yourself.
- nah(e) close to Unser Haus ist nahe der Universität. Our house is near the university.
- peinlich embarrassing for Das war ihr aber peinlich. She was really embarrassed.
- unbekannt unknown to Das war mir unbekannt. I didn't know that.

Key points

- ✓ In German, both present and past participles can also be used as adjectives.
- ✓ With many German adjectives you use the dative case.

Adjectives used as nouns

➤ All adjectives in German, and participles used as adjectives, can also be used as nouns. These are often called adjectival nouns.

➤ Adjectives and participles used as nouns have:

- a capital letter like other nouns

Der neue Angestellte ist früh angekommen.

The new employee arrived early.

- weak, strong or mixed endings, depending on which article, if any, comes before them

Sie ist die neue Angestellte.

She is the new employee.

Das Gute daran ist, dass ich mehr verdiene.

The good thing about it is that I'm earning more.

Es bleibt beim Alten.

Things remain as they were.

Key points

- ✓ Adjectives in German, and participles used as adjectives, can also be used as nouns. These are often called adjectival nouns.
- ✓ Adjectival nouns begin with a capital letter and take the same endings as normal adjectives.

Some other points about adjectives

1 Adjectives describing nationality

➤ These are not spelt with a capital letter in German except in public or official names.

Die deutsche Sprache ist schön.

The German language is beautiful.

Das französische Volk war entsetzt.

The people of France were horrified.

BUT:

Die Deutsche Bahn hat Erfolg.

The German railways are successful.

➤ However, when these adjectives are used as nouns to refer to a language, a capital letter is used.

Sie sprechen kein Englisch.

They don't speak English.

➤ In German, for expressions like he is English/he is German etc a noun or adjectival noun is used instead of an adjective.

Er ist Deutscher.

He is German.

Sie ist Deutsche.

She is German.

2 Adjectives taken from place names

➤ These are formed by adding -er to names of towns. They never change by adding endings to show case.

Kölner, Frankfurter, Berliner etc

from Cologne, Frankfurt, Berlin etc

Der Kölner Dom ist wirklich beeindruckend.

Cologne cathedral is really impressive.

Ich möchte ein Frankfurter Würstchen.

I'd like a frankfurter sausage.

➤ Adjectives from die Schweiz, meaning Switzerland, and some other regions can also be formed in this way.

Schweizer Käse mag ich gern.

I really like Swiss cheese.

➤ Adjectives like these can be used as nouns denoting the inhabitants of a town, in which case they take the same endings as normal nouns.

Die Sprache des Kölners heißt Kölsch.

People from Cologne speak Kölsch.

Die Entscheidung wurde von den Frankfurtern begrüßt.

People from Frankfurt welcomed the decision.

❗ Note that the feminine form of such nouns is formed by adding -in in the singular and -innen in the plural.

Christine, die Londonerin war, wollte nach Glasgow ziehen.

Christine, who was from London, wanted to move to Glasgow.

Key points

- ✓ Adjectives describing nationality are not spelt with a capital letter in German except in public or official names. BUT when they are used as nouns to refer to a language, they do have a capital letter.
- ✓ Adjectives taken from place names are formed by adding -er to the name of the town and never change by adding endings to show case.
- ✓ They can also be used as nouns denoting the inhabitants of a place.

Comparatives of adjectives

What is a comparative adjective?

A comparative adjective in English is one with -er added to it or more or less in front of it, that is used to compare people or things, for example, slower, more beautiful.

- In German, to say that something is easier, more expensive and so on, you add -er to the simple form of most adjectives.

einfach → einfacher

Das war viel einfacher für dich.

That was much easier for you.

- ❗ Note that adjectives whose simple form ends in -en or -er may drop the final -e to form the comparative, as in teurer.

teuer → teurer

Diese Jacke ist teurer.

This jacket is more expensive.

- To introduce the person or thing you are making the comparison with, use als (meaning than).

Er ist kleiner als seine Schwester.

He is smaller than his sister.

Diese Frage ist einfacher als die erste.

This question is easier than the first one.

- To say that something or someone is as ... as something or someone else, you use so ... wie or genauso ... wie, if you want to make it more emphatic. To say not as ... as, you use nicht so ... wie.

Sie ist so gut wie ihr Bruder.

She is as good as her brother.

Er war genauso glücklich wie ich.

He was just as happy as I was.

Sie ist nicht so alt wie du.

She is not as old as you.

- Here are some examples of commonly used adjectives which have a vowel change in the comparative form:

| Adjective | Meaning | Comparative | Meaning |
|-----------|---------|-------------|----------|
| alt | old | älter | older |
| stark | strong | stärker | stronger |
| schwach | weak | schwächer | weaker |
| scharf | sharp | schärfer | sharper |
| lang | long | länger | longer |
| kurz | short | kürzer | shorter |
| warm | warm | wärmer | warmer |
| kalt | cold | kälter | colder |
| hart | hard | härter | harder |
| groß | big | größer | bigger |

- Adjectives whose simple form ends in -el lose the -e before adding the comparative ending -er.

eitel → eitler
Er ist eitler als ich.

dunkel → dunkler
Deine Haare sind dunkler als ihre.

- When used before the noun, comparative forms of adjectives take the same weak, strong or mixed endings as their simple forms.

Die jüngere Schwester ist größer als die ältere.

Mein jüngerer Bruder geht jetzt zur Schule.

vain → vainer
He is vainer than me.
dark → darker
Your hair is darker than hers.

The younger sister is bigger than the older one.

My younger brother goes to school now.

- ⇒ For more information on Making adjectives agree, see pages 42-48.

Grammar Extra!

- With a few adjectives, comparative forms may also be used to translate the idea of -ish or rather ...

| Comparative | Meaning |
|-------------|----------|
| älter | elderly |
| dünn | thin |
| dicker | fattish |
| größer | largish |
| jünger | youngish |
| kleiner | smallish |
| kürzer | shortish |
| neuer | newish |

Eine ältere Frau kam die Straße entlang.

An elderly woman was coming along the street.

Er war von jüngerem Aussehen.

He was of youngish appearance.

Key points

- ✓ In German, to form the comparative you add -er to the simple form of most adjectives.
- ✓ To compare people or things in German, you use so ... wie, genauso ... wie, if you want to make it more emphatic, or nicht so ... wie.
- ✓ Than in comparatives corresponds to als.
- ✓ There is a change in the vowel in many of the simple forms of German adjectives when forming their comparatives.
- ✓ Adjectives whose simple form ends in -el, such as dunkel, lose the -e before adding the comparative ending -er.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Superlatives of adjectives

What is a superlative adjective?

A superlative adjective in English is one with -est on the end of it or most or least in front of it, that is used to compare people or things, for example, thinnest, most beautiful.

- In German, to say that something or someone is easiest, youngest, most expensive and so on, you add -st to the simple form of the adjective. As with comparative forms, the vowel in the simple form can change. Superlative forms are generally used with the definite article and take the same weak endings as their simple forms.

Deine Hausaufgaben waren die einfachsten.

Your homework was easiest.

Sie ist die jüngste in der Familie.

She is the youngest in the family.

Ich wollte die teuerste Jacke im Laden kaufen.

I wanted to buy the most expensive jacket in the shop.

- Adjectives ending in -t, -tz, -z, -sch, -ss or -ß form the superlative by adding -est instead of -st.

der/die/das schlechteste

the worst

Das war der schlechteste Film seit Jahren.

That was the worst film in years.

der/die/das schmerzhafteste

the most painful

Das war ihre schmerzhafteste Verletzung.

That was her most painful injury.

der/die/das süßeste

the sweetest

Ich möchte den süßesten Nachtisch.

I would like the sweetest dessert.

der/die/das stolzeste

the proudest

Sie war die stolzeste Mutter in der Gegend.

She was the proudest mother in the area.

der/die/das frischeste

the freshest

Für dieses Rezept braucht man das frischeste Obst.

You need the freshest fruit for this recipe.

- Adjectives ending in -eu and -au also add -est to form the superlative.

der/die/das neueste

the newest, the latest

Ich brauche die neueste Ausgabe des Wörterbuchs.

I need the latest edition of the dictionary.

der/die/das schlaueste

the cleverest

Sie ist die schlaueste Schülerin in der Klasse.

She is the cleverest student in the class.

- The English superlative most, meaning very, can be expressed in German by any of the following words.

| Superlative | Meaning |
|-----------------|---|
| äußerst | extremely |
| sehr | very |
| besonders | especially |
| außerordentlich | exceptionally |
| höchst | extremely (not used with words of one syllable) |
| furchtbar | terribly (used only in conversation) |
| richtig | really/most (used only in conversation) |

Sie ist ein äußerst begabter Mensch. She is a most gifted person.
 Das Essen war besonders schlecht. The food was really dreadful.
 Der Wein war furchtbar teuer. The wine was terribly expensive.
 Das sieht richtig komisch aus. That looks really funny.

Tip

Just as English has some irregular comparative and superlative forms – better instead of 'more good', and worst instead of 'most bad' – German also has a few irregular forms.

| Adjective | Meaning | Comparative | Meaning | Superlative | Meaning |
|-----------|------------|-------------|---------|-------------|-------------|
| gut | good | besser | better | der beste | the best |
| hoch | high | höher | higher | der höchste | the highest |
| viel | much/a lot | mehr | more | der meiste | the most |
| nah | near | näher | nearer | der nächste | the nearest |

Ich habe eine bessere Idee. I have a better idea.
 Wo liegt der nächste Bahnhof? Where is the nearest station?

Key points

- ✓ Most German superlatives are formed by adding -st to the simple form of the adjective.
- ✓ Adjectives ending in -t, -tz, -z, -sch, -ss, -ß, -eu or -au, form the superlative by adding -est instead of -st.
- ✓ Gut, hoch, viel and nah have irregular comparative and superlative forms: gut/besser/der beste, hoch/höher/der höchste, viel/mehr/der meiste, nah/näher/der nächste.

ADVERBS

What is an adverb?

An adverb is a word usually used with verbs, adjectives or other adverbs that gives more information about when, how, where, or in what circumstances something happens: quickly, happily, now are all adverbs.

How adverbs are used

- In general, adverbs are used together with:
 - verbs (act quickly, speak strangely, smile cheerfully)
 - adjectives (rather ill, a lot better, deeply sorry)
 - other adverbs (really fast, too quickly, very well)
- Adverbs can also relate to the whole sentence; they often tell you what the speaker is thinking or feeling.

Fortunately, Jan had already left.

Actually, I don't think I'll come.

How adverbs are formed

The basic rules

- Many English adverbs end in -ly, which is added to the end of the adjective (quick → quickly; sad → sadly; frequent → frequently).
- In contrast, most German adverbs used to comment on verbs are simply adjectives used as adverbs. And the good news is that unlike adjectives, they do not change by adding different endings.

Habe ich das richtig gehört?

Did I hear that correctly?

Er war schick angezogen.

He was stylishly dressed.

- A small number of German adverbs which do not directly comment on the verb are formed by adding -weise or -sweise to a noun.

| Noun | Meaning | Adverb | Meaning |
|---------------|----------------------|-----------------|------------------------------|
| das Beispiel | example | beispielsweise | for example |
| die Beziehung | relation, connection | beziehungsweise | or/or rather/ that is to say |
| der Schritt | step | schrittweise | step by step |
| die Zeit | time | zeitweise | at times |
| der Zwang | compulsion | zwangsweise | compulsorily |

Grammar Extra!

Some German adverbs are also formed by adding -erweise to an uninflected adjective. These adverbs are mainly used by the person speaking to express an opinion.

| Adjective | Meaning | Adverb | Meaning |
|-------------|------------------|--------------------|----------------------|
| erstaunlich | astonishing | erstaunlicherweise | astonishingly enough |
| glücklich | happy, fortunate | glücklicherweise | fortunately |
| komisch | strange, funny | komischerweise | strangely enough |

- There is another important group of adverbs which are NOT formed from adjectives or nouns, for example, words like unten, oben and leider.

Das beste Buch lag unten auf dem Stapel.

The best book was at the bottom of the pile.

Die Schlafzimmer sind oben.

The bedrooms are upstairs.

Ich kann leider nicht kommen.

Unfortunately I can't come.

- Adverbs of time fit into this category and the following are some common ones:

| Adverb of time | Meaning |
|----------------|-----------------|
| endlich | finally |
| heute | today |
| immer | always |
| morgen | tomorrow |
| morgens | in the mornings |
| sofort | at once |

Sie kann erst morgen kommen.

She can't come till tomorrow.

Priska hat immer Hunger.

Priska is always hungry.

Ja, ich mache das sofort.

Yes, I'll do it at once.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- Adverbs often express the idea of 'to what extent', for example, words in English like extremely and especially. These are sometimes called adverbs of degree. Some common adverbs of this type in German are:

| Adverb of degree | Meaning |
|------------------|------------------|
| äußerst | extremely |
| besonders | especially |
| beträchtlich | considerably |
| fast | almost |
| kaum | hardly, scarcely |
| ziemlich | fairly |

Es hat mir nicht besonders gefallen.

I didn't particularly like it.

Ich bin fast fertig.

I'm almost finished.

Er war ziemlich sauer.

He was quite angry.

Adverbs of place

➤ Adverbs of place are words such as where?, there, up, nowhere. German adverbs of place behave very differently from their English counterparts in the following ways:

- Where there is no movement involved and the adverb is simply referring to a location, you use the form of the adverb you find in the dictionary.

Wo ist sie?

Where is she?

Sie sind nicht da.

They're not there.

Hier darf man nicht parken.

You can't park here.

- To show some movement AWAY from the person speaking, you use the adverb hin.

Oliver und Andrea geben heute eine Party. Gehen wir hin?

Oliver and Andrea are having a party today. Shall we go?

In German, hin is often added to another adverb to create what are called compound adverbs, which show there is some movement involved. In English, we would just use adverbs in this case.

| Compound adverb | Meaning |
|--------------------|-------------------------|
| dahin | (to) there |
| dorthin | there |
| hierhin | here |
| irgendwohin | (to) somewhere or other |
| überallhin | everywhere |
| wohin? | where (to)? |

Wohin fährst du?

Where are you going?

Sie laufen überallhin.

They ran everywhere.

- To show some movement TOWARDS the person speaking, you use the adverb her. As with hin, this is often added to another adverb.

| Compound adverb | Meaning |
|--------------------|-------------------------|
| daher | from there |
| hierher | here |
| irgendwoher | from somewhere or other |
| überallher | from all over |
| woher? | where from? |

Woher kommst du?

Where do you come from?

Woher hast du das?

Where did you get that from?

Das habe ich irgendwoher gekriegt.

I got that from somewhere or other.

Key points

- ✓ Many German adverbs are simply adjectives used as adverbs, but they are not declined, unlike adjectives.
- ✓ In German, some adverbs are formed by adding -weise or -sweise to a noun.
- ✓ Compound adverbs formed by adding hin or her are often used to show movement away from or towards the person speaking (or writing).

Comparatives and superlatives of adverbs

1 Comparative adverbs

What is a comparative adverb?

A comparative adverb is one which, in English, has -er on the end of it or more or less in front of it, for example, earlier, later, sooner, more/less frequently.

- Adverbs can be used to make comparisons in German, just as they can in English. The comparative of adverbs is formed in exactly the same way as that of adjectives, that is by adding -er to the basic form. Als is used for than.

Sie läuft schneller als ihr Bruder. She runs faster than her brother.
Ich sehe ihn seltener als früher. I see him less often than before.

- To make as ... as or not as ... as comparisons with adverbs, you use the same phrases as with adjectives.

- so ... wie as ... as Er läuft so schnell wie sein Bruder. He runs as fast as his brother.
- nicht so ... wie not as ... as Sie kann nicht so gut schwimmen wie du. She can't swim as well as you.

- The idea of more and more ... is expressed in German by using immer and the comparative form.

Die Männer sprachen immer lauter. The men were talking louder and louder.

- the more ... the more ... is expressed in German by je ... desto ... or je ... umso ...

Je eher, desto besser. The sooner the better.
Je schneller sie fährt, umso mehr Angst habe ich! The faster she drives, the more frightened I am!

⇒ For more information on Comparative adjectives, see page 53.

2 Superlative adverbs

What is a superlative adverb?

A superlative adverb is one which, in English, has -est on the end of it or most or least in front of it, for example, soonest, fastest, most/least frequently.

- The superlative of adverbs in German is formed in the following way and, unlike adjectives, is not declined:

am + adverb + -sten

Wer von ihnen arbeitet am schnellsten? Which of them works fastest?

Er hat es am langsamsten gemacht. He did it slowest.

- Adverbs ending in -d, -t, -tz, -z, -sch, -ss, or -ß form the superlative by adding -esten. This makes pronunciation easier.

Das Erdbeereis war bei den Kindern am beliebtesten. The strawberry ice cream was the most popular one with the kids.
Am heißesten war es im Südspanien. It was hottest in southern Spain.

⇒ For more information on Superlative adjectives, see page 55.

- 7 Note that some superlative adverbs are used to show the extent of a quality rather than a comparison. The following adverbs are used in this way:

| Adverb | Meaning |
|-------------------|---------------------|
| bestens | very well |
| höchstens | at the most/at best |
| meistens | mostly/most often |
| spätestens | at the latest |
| wenigstens | at least |

Die Geschäfte gehen bestens. Business is going very well.

Er kommt meistens zu spät an. He usually arrives late.

Wenigstens bekomme ich mehr Geld dafür. At least I'm getting more money for it.

3 Adverbs with irregular comparatives and superlatives

- A few German adverbs have irregular comparative and superlative forms.

| Adverb | Meaning | Comparative | Meaning | Superlative | Meaning |
|--------|-------------|-------------|---------|-------------|---------|
| gern | well | lieber | better | am liebsten | best |
| bald | soon | eher | sooner | am ehesten | soonest |
| viel | much, a lot | mehr | more | am meisten | most |

Am liebsten lese ich Kriminalromane. I like detective stories best.

Sie hat am meisten gewonnen. She won the most.

Key points

- ✓ Comparatives of adverbs are formed in the same way as comparatives of adjectives, adding -er to the basic form.
- ✓ To compare people or things, you use so ... wie, ebenso ... wie or nicht so ... wie.
- ✓ Than in comparatives of adverbs corresponds to als.
- ✓ Superlatives of adverbs are formed by using the formula am + adverb + -sten/-esten.
- ✓ Unlike adjectives, adverbs do not change their form to agree with the verb, adjective or other adverb they relate to.

Word order with adverbs

- In English, adverbs can come in different places in a sentence.

I'm never coming back.

See you soon!

Suddenly the phone rang.

I'd really like to come.

- This is also true of adverbs in German, but as a general rule they are placed close to the word to which they refer.

- Adverbs of time often come first in the sentence, but this is not fixed.

Morgen gehen wir ins Theater OR:

Wir gehen morgen ins Theater. We're going to the theatre tomorrow.

- Adverbs of place can be put at the beginning of a sentence to provide emphasis.

Dort haben sie Fußball gespielt OR:

Sie haben dort Fußball gespielt They played football there.

- Adverbs of manner are adverbs which comment on verbs. These are likely to come after the verb to which they refer, but in tenses which are made up of haben or sein + the past participle of the main verb, they come immediately before the past participle.

Sie spielen gut. They play well.

Sie haben heute gut gespielt. They played well today.

Du benimmst dich immer schlecht. You always behave badly.

Du hast dich schlecht benommen. You have behaved badly.

- ⇔ For more information on Forming the past participle, see page 114.

- Where there is more than one adverb in a sentence, it's useful to remember the following rule:

"time, manner, place"

Wir haben gestern gut dorthin gefunden.

We found our way there all right yesterday.

gestern = adverb of time

gut = adverb of manner

dorthin = adverb of place

- Where there is a pronoun object (a word like her, it, me or them) in a sentence, it comes before all adverbs.

Sie haben es gestern sehr billig gekauft.

They bought it very cheaply yesterday.

es = pronoun object

gestern = adverb of time

billig = adverb of manner

- ⇒ For more information on Pronoun objects, see page 74.

Key points

- ✓ In German, the position of adverbs in a sentence is not fixed, but they generally come close to the words they refer to.
- ✓ Where there is more than one adverb in a sentence, it is useful to remember the rule: time, manner, place.
- ✓ Where there is a pronoun object in a sentence, it comes before all adverbs.

Emphasizers

What is an emphazer?

An emphasizer is a type of word commonly used in both German and English, especially in the spoken language, to emphasize or change the meaning of a sentence.

- The following words are the most common emphazers.

- aber is used to add emphasis to a statement

| | |
|------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| Das ist aber schön! | Oh, that's pretty! |
| Diese Jacke ist aber teuer! | This jacket is really expensive! |
- denn is also used as a conjunction, but here it is used as an adverb to emphasize the meaning.

| | |
|-------------------------------|----------------------------|
| Was ist denn hier los? | What's going on here then? | | Wo denn ? | Where? |

Tip

You can't always translate emphazers directly, especially denn and aber.

- ⇒ For more information on Conjunctions, see page 168.

- doch is used in one of three ways:

As a positive reply to a negative statement or question:

| | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| Hat es dir nicht gefallen? – Doch ! | Didn't you like it? – Oh yes, I did! |
|--|--------------------------------------|

To strengthen an imperative, that is the form of a verb used when giving instructions:

| | |
|------------------------|-----------------|
| Lass ihn doch ! | Just leave him. |
|------------------------|-----------------|

To make a question out of a statement:

| | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| Das schaffst du doch ? | You'll manage it, won't you? |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|

- ⇒ For more information on Imperatives, see page 105.

- mal can be used in one of two ways:

With imperatives:

| | |
|----------------------------|----------------|
| Komm mal her! | Come here! |
| Moment mal , bitte! | Just a minute! |

In informal language:

Mal sehen.

We'll see.

Hören Sie mal ...

Look here now ...

Er soll es nur mal versuchen!

Just let him try it!

- Ja can also be used in one of two ways.

To strengthen a statement:

Er sieht ja wie seine Mutter aus.

He looks like his mother.

Das kann ja sein.

That may well be.

In informal language:

Ja und?

So what?/What then?

Das ist ja lächerlich.

That's ridiculous.

Das ist es ja.

That's just it.

- Schon also has more than one use.

It is used informally with an imperative:

Mach schon!

Get on with it!

It is also used in other informal statements:

Da kommt sie schon wieder!

Here she comes again!

Schon gut. Ich habe verstanden.

Okay, I get the message.

Key points

- ✓ There are lots of little adverbs used in both English and German to emphasize or soften the meaning of a sentence in some way.
- ✓ The most common of these are aber, denn, doch, mal, ja and schon.

PRONOUNS

What is a pronoun?

A pronoun is a word you use instead of a noun, when you do not need or want to name someone or something directly, for example, it, you, none.

► There are several different types of pronoun:

- Personal pronouns such as I, you, he, her and they, which are used to refer to yourself, the person you are talking to, or other people and things. They can be either subject pronouns (I, you, he and so on) or object pronouns (him, her, them and so on).
- Possessive pronouns like mine and yours, which show who someone or something belongs to.
- Indefinite pronouns like someone or nothing, which refer to people or things in a general way without saying exactly who or what they are.
- Relative pronouns like who, which or that, which link two parts of a sentence together.
- Demonstrative pronouns like this or those, which point things or people out.
- Reflexive pronouns – a type of object pronoun that forms part of German reflexive verbs like sich setzen (meaning to sit down) or sich waschen (meaning to wash).

➡ For more information on Reflexive verbs, see page 102.

- The pronouns wer? (meaning who?) and was? (meaning what?) and their different forms, which are used to ask questions.

► Pronouns often stand in for a noun to save repeating it.

I finished my homework and gave it to my teacher.

Do you remember Jack? I saw him at the weekend.

► Word order with personal pronouns is usually different in German and English.

Personal pronouns: subject

What is a subject pronoun?

A subject pronoun is a word such as I, he, she and they. It refers to the person or thing which performs the action expressed by the verb. Pronouns stand in for nouns when it is clear who is being talked about, for example: My brother isn't here at the moment. He'll be back in an hour.

1 Using subject pronouns

► Here are the German subject pronouns or personal pronouns in the nominative case:

| Subject Pronoun (Nominative Case) | Meaning |
|--------------------------------------|----------------|
| ich | I |
| du | you (familiar) |
| er | he/it |
| sie | she/it |
| es | it/he/she |
| man | one |
| wir | we |
| ihr | you (plural) |
| sie | they |
| Sie | you (polite) |

Ich fahre nächste Woche nach Italien.

I'm going to Italy next week.

Wir wohnen in Frankfurt.

We live in Frankfurt.

⇒ For more information on the Nominative case, see page 9.

2 du, ihr or Sie?

► In English we have only one way of saying you. In German, there are three words: du, ihr and Sie. The word you use depends on:

- whether you are talking to one person or more than one person
- whether you are talking to a friend or family member, or someone else

► Use the familiar du if talking to one person you know well, such as a friend, someone younger than you or a relative Kommst du mit ins Kino?

Are you coming to the cinema?

► Use the formal or polite Sie if talking to one person you do not know so well, such as your teacher, your boss or a stranger.

Was haben Sie gesagt?

What did you say?

Tip

If you are in doubt as to which form of you to use, it is safest to use Sie and you will not offend anybody. However, once a colleague or acquaintance has suggested you call each other du, starting to use Sie again may be considered insulting.

► Use the familiar ihr if talking to more than one person you know well or relatives.

Also, was wollt ihr heute Abend essen?

So, what do you want to eat tonight?

► Use Sie if talking to more than one person you do not know so well.

Wo fahren Sie hin?

Where are you going to?

Tip

Use Sie in more formal situations for both the singular and plural you.

Tip

All of the subject pronouns only have a capital letter when they begin a sentence, except for the polite form of you, Sie, which always has a capital letter.

Ich gebe dir das Buch zurück, wenn ich es zu Ende gelesen habe.

I'll give you the book back when I've finished reading it.

Du kannst mich morgen besuchen, wenn du Zeit hast.

You can come and visit me tomorrow, if you have time.

Wir wären Ihnen sehr dankbar, wenn Sie uns telefonisch benachrichtigen würden.

We'd be very grateful if you could phone and let us know.

3 Er/sie/es

- In English we generally refer to things (such as table, book, car) only as it. In German, er (meaning he), sie (meaning she) and es (meaning it) are used to talk about a thing, as well as about a person or an animal. You use er for masculine nouns, sie for feminine nouns and es for neuter nouns.

| | | |
|--------------------|---|-----------------|
| Der Tisch ist groß | → | Er ist groß |
| The table is large | → | It is large |
| Die Jacke ist blau | → | Sie ist blau |
| The jacket is blue | → | It is blue |
| Das Kind stand auf | → | Es stand auf |
| The child stood up | → | He/she stood up |

- 📌 Note that English speakers often make the mistake of calling all objects es.

- The subject pronoun sie (meaning they) is used in the plural to talk about things, as well as people or animals. Use sie for masculine, feminine and neuter nouns.

| | |
|--|--|
| 'Wo sind Michael und Sebastian?' – | 'Where are Michael and Sebastian?' – |
| 'Sie sind im Garten.' | 'They're in the garden.' |
| 'Hast du die Karten gekauft?' – | 'Did you buy the tickets?' – |
| 'Nein, sie waren ausverkauft.' | 'No, they were sold out.' |
| 'Nimmst du die Hunde mit?' – | 'Are you taking the dogs with you?' – |
| 'Nein, die Nachbarin passt auf sie auf.' | 'No, the next-door neighbour is looking after them.' |

4 Man

- This is often used in German in the same way as we use you in English to mean people in general.

| | |
|-----------------------|------------------------|
| Wie schreibt man das? | How do you spell that? |
| Man kann nie wissen. | You never know. |

- Man can also mean they used in a vague way.

|---|-------------------------------------|
| Man sagt, dass das Wetter immer schlecht ist. | They say the weather is always bad. |
|---|-------------------------------------|

Tip

Man is often used to avoid a passive construction in German.

Man hat das schon oft im Fernsehen gezeigt.

It's already been shown a lot on TV.

- ➡ For more information on the Passive, see page 150.

The form of the verb you use with man is the same as the er/sie/es form.

- ➡ For more information on Verbs, see pages 91-152.

Key points

- ✓ The German subject pronouns are: ich, du, er, sie, es, Sie and man in the singular, and wir, ihr, sie and Sie in the plural.
- ✓ To say you in German, use du if you are talking to one person you know well or to someone younger than you; use ihr if you are talking to more than one person you know well and use Sie if you are talking to one or more people you do not know well.
- ✓ Er/sie/es (masculine/feminine/neuter singular) and sie (masculine or feminine or neuter plural) are used to refer to things, as well as to people or animals.
- ✓ Man can mean you, they or people in general. It is often used instead of a passive construction.

Personal pronouns: direct object

What is a direct object pronoun?

A direct object pronoun is a word such as me, him, us and them which is used instead of the noun to stand in for the person or thing most directly affected by the action expressed by the verb.

1 Using direct object pronouns

- Direct object pronouns stand in for nouns when it is clear who or what is being talked about, and save having to repeat the noun.

I've lost my glasses. Have you seen them?

'Have you met Jo?' – 'Yes, I really like her!'

- Here are the German direct object pronouns or personal pronouns in the accusative case:

| Direct Object Pronoun (Accusative Case) | Meaning |
|--|----------------|
| mich | me |
| dich | you (familiar) |
| ihn | him/it |
| sie | her/it |
| es | it/him/her |
| einen | one |
| uns | us |
| euch | you (plural) |
| sie | them |
| Sie | you (polite) |

Ich lade dich zum Essen ein.

I'll invite you for a meal.

Sie hat ihn letztes Jahr kennengelernt.

She met him last year.

2 Word order with direct object pronouns

- In tenses consisting of one verb part only, for example the present and the simple past, the direct object pronoun usually comes directly AFTER the verb.

Sie bringen ihn nach Hause.

They'll take him home.

- In tenses such as the perfect that are formed with haben or sein and the past participle, the direct object pronoun comes AFTER the part of the verb that comes from haben or sein and BEFORE the past participle.

Er hat mich durchs Fenster gesehen.

He saw me through the window.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- When a modal verb like wollen (meaning to want) or können (meaning to be able to, can) is followed by another verb in the infinitive (the 'to' form of the verb), the direct object pronoun comes directly AFTER the modal verb.

Wir wollen Sie nicht mehr sehen.

We don't want to see you anymore.

- For more information on Modal verbs, see page 136.

Key points

- The German direct object pronouns are: mich, dich, ihn, sie, es, Sie and einen in the singular, and uns, euch, sie and Sie in the plural.
- The direct object pronoun usually comes directly after the verb, but in tenses like the perfect comes after the part of the verb that comes from haben or sein and before the past participle.
- When a modal verb such as wollen is followed by the infinitive of another verb, the direct object pronoun comes directly after the modal verb.

Personal pronouns: indirect object

What is an indirect object pronoun?

When a verb has two objects (a direct one and an indirect one), the indirect object pronoun is used instead of a noun to show the person or thing the action is intended to benefit or harm, for example, me in He gave me a book; Can you get me a towel?

1 Using indirect object pronouns

► It is important to understand the difference between direct and indirect object pronouns, as they have different forms in German:

- an indirect object answers the question who to? or who for? and to what? or for what?
He gave me a book. → Who did he give the book to? → me (=indirect object pronoun)
Can you get me a towel? → Who can you get a towel for? → me (=indirect object pronoun)
- if something answers the question what? or who?, then it is the direct object and NOT the indirect object
He gave me a book → What did he give me? → a book (=direct object)
Can you get me a towel? → What can you get me? → a towel (=direct object)

► Here are the German indirect object pronouns in the dative case:

| Indirect Object Pronoun (Dative Case) | Meaning |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| mir | to/for me |
| dir | to/for you (familiar) |
| ihm | to/for him/it |
| ihr | to/for her/it |
| ihm | to/for it/him/her |
| einem | to/for one |
| uns | to/for us |
| euch | to/for you (plural) |
| ihnen | to/for them |
| Ihnen | to/for you (polite) |

Er hat mir das geschenkt.
Sie haben ihnen eine tolle
Geschichte erzählt.

He gave me that as a present.
They told them a great story.

2 Word order with indirect object pronouns

► Word order for indirect object pronouns is the same as for direct object pronouns. The pronoun usually comes directly after the verb, except with tenses like the perfect and modal verbs such as wollen.

Sie bringt mir das Schwimmen bei. She's teaching me how to swim.
Sie hat es ihm gegeben. She gave it to him.
Ich will dir etwas sagen. I want to tell you something.

► When you have both a direct object pronoun AND an indirect object pronoun in the same sentence, the direct object pronoun or personal pronoun in the accusative always comes first. A good way of remembering this is to think of the following:

PAD = Pronoun Accusative Dative

Sie haben es ihm verziehen. They forgave him for it.
Ich bringe es dir schon bei. I'll teach you.

Key points

- ✓ The German indirect object pronouns are: mir, dir, ihm, ihr, ihm, Ihnen and einem in the singular, and uns, euch, ihnen and Ihnen in the plural.
- ✓ The indirect object pronoun comes after the verb, except with tenses like the perfect and when used with modal verbs such as wollen.
- ✓ The indirect object pronoun always comes after the direct object pronoun.

Personal pronouns: after prepositions

- When a personal pronoun is used after a preposition and refers to a person, the personal pronoun is in the case required by the preposition. For example, the preposition mit is always followed by the dative case.

Ich bin mit ihm spazieren gegangen. I went for a walk with him.

- When a thing rather than a person is referred to, da- is added at the beginning of the preposition:

Manuela hatte ein Messer geholt und wollte damit den Kuchen schneiden. Manuela had brought a knife and was about to cut the cake with it.

- [i] Note that before a preposition beginning with a vowel, the form dar- + preposition is used.

Lege es bitte darauf. Put it there please.

- The following prepositions are affected in this way:

| Preposition | Preposition + da or dar |
|-------------|-------------------------|
| an | daran |
| auf | darauf |
| aus | daraus |
| bei | dabei |
| durch | dadurch |
| für | dafür |
| in | darin |
| mit | damit |
| nach | danach |
| neben | daneben |
| über | darüber |
| unter | darunter |
| zwischen | dazwischen |

➞ For more information on Prepositions, see page 153.

- [i] Note that these combined forms are also used after verbs followed by prepositions.

sich erinnern an + accusative case = to remember
Ich erinnere mich nicht daran I don't remember (it)

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Grammar Extra!

After certain prepositions used to express movement, that is aus (meaning out or from), auf (meaning on) and in (meaning in or into), combined forms with hin and her are used to give more emphasis to the action being carried out.

| Preposition | hin or her + Preposition |
|-------------|--------------------------|
| aus | hinaus/heraus |
| auf | hinauf/herauf |
| in | hinein/herein |

Er ging die Treppe leise hinauf.

He went up the stairs quietly.

Endlich fand sie unser Zelt und kam herein.

She finally found our tent and came inside.

Sie öffnete die Reisetasche und legte die Hose hinein.

She opened the bag and put in her trousers.

Key points

- ✓ When a personal pronoun referring to a person is used after a preposition, the personal pronoun is in the case required by the preposition.
- ✓ When a personal pronoun referring to a thing is used after a preposition, the construction da(r)- + preposition is used.

Possessive pronouns

What is a possessive pronoun?

In English you can say This is my car or This car is mine. In the first sentence my is a possessive adjective. In the second, mine is a possessive pronoun.

A possessive pronoun is one of the words mine, yours, hers, his, ours or theirs, which are used instead of a noun to show that one thing or person belongs to another, for example, Ask Carol if this pen is hers.

- German possessive pronouns are the same words as the possessive adjectives mein, dein, sein, ihr, unser, euer, ihr, Ihr, with the same endings, EXCEPT in the masculine nominative singular, the neuter nominative singular and the neuter accusative singular, as shown below.

| | Possessive Adjective | Meaning | Possessive Pronoun | Meaning |
|-------------------------------|-----------------------------------|-----------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------|
| Masculine Nominative Singular | Das ist mein Wagen | That is my car | Dieser Wagen ist meiner | That car is mine |
| Neuter Nominative Singular | Das ist mein Buch | That is my book | Dieses Buch ist meins | That book is mine |
| Neuter Accusative Singular | Sie hat mein Buch genommen | She has taken my book | Sie hat meins genommen | She has taken mine |

- Here is the German possessive pronoun meiner, meaning mine, in all its forms:

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | meiner | meine | mein(e)s | meine |
| Accusative | meinen | meine | mein(e)s | meine |
| Genitive | meines | meiner | meines | meiner |
| Dative | meinem | meiner | meinem | meinen |

- ⓘ Note that the nominative and accusative neuter forms only of all the possessive pronouns are often pronounced without the last -e, for example meins instead of meines.

Der Wagen da drüben ist meiner.

The car over there is mine.

Er ist kleiner als deiner.

It is smaller than yours.

Das ist besser als meins!

That's better than mine!

Das Haus nebenan ist schöner als seins.

The house next door is nicer than his.

Meine Jacke war teurer als ihre.

My jacket was more expensive than hers.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- ⓘ Note that deiner, meaning yours (familiar), seiner, meaning his/its, ihrer, meaning hers/its/theirs, Ihrer, meaning yours (polite), unserer, meaning ours and euerer, meaning yours (plural familiar) have the same endings as meiner.

Tip

Unserer, meaning ours is often pronounced unsrer and euerer, meaning yours (plural familiar) is often pronounced eurer. This pronunciation is occasionally reflected in writing.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|------------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | uns(e)rer | uns(e)re | uns(e)res | uns(e)re |
| Accusative | uns(e)ren | uns(e)re | uns(e)res | uns(e)re |
| Genitive | uns(e)res | uns(e)rer | uns(e)res | uns(e)rer |
| Dative | uns(e)rem | uns(e)rer | uns(e)rem | uns(e)ren |

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | eu(e)rer | eu(e)re | eu(e)res | eu(e)re |
| Accusative | eu(e)ren | eu(e)re | eu(e)res | eu(e)re |
| Genitive | eu(e)res | eu(e)rer | eu(e)res | eu(e)rer |
| Dative | eu(e)rem | eu(e)rer | eu(e)rem | eu(e)ren |

War euer Urlaub billiger als unsrer?

Was your holiday cheaper than ours?

- ⓘ Note the translation of of mine, of yours etc, where the personal pronoun in the dative is used:

Er ist ein Freund von mir.

He is a friend of mine.

Ich habe eine CD von dir bei mir zu Hause.

I have a CD of yours at home.

Key points

- ✓ German possessive pronouns have the same form and endings as the possessive adjectives mein, dein, sein, ihr, unser, euer, ihr, Ihr, except in the masculine nominative singular, the neuter nominative singular and the neuter accusative singular.
- ✓ The nominative and accusative neuter forms of all the possessive pronouns are often pronounced without the last -e, for example meins instead of meines.
- ✓ Unserer, meaning ours is often pronounced unsrer and euerer, meaning yours (plural familiar) is often pronounced eurer. This pronunciation is occasionally reflected in writing.

Indefinite pronouns

What is an indefinite pronoun?

An indefinite pronoun is one of a small group of pronouns such as everything, nobody and something which are used to refer to people or things in a general way without saying exactly who or what they are.

- In German, the indefinite pronouns jemand (meaning someone, somebody) and niemand (meaning no-one, nobody) are often used in speech without any endings. In written German, the endings are added.

| Case | Indefinite Pronoun |
|------------|-------------------------------|
| Nominative | jemand/niemand |
| Accusative | jemanden/niemanden |
| Genitive | jemand(e)s/niemand(e)s |
| Dative | jemandem/niemandem |

Ich habe es jemandem gegeben.

I gave it to someone.

Jemand hat es genommen.

Someone has stolen it.

Sie hat niemanden gesehen.

She didn't see anyone.

Ich bin unterwegs niemandem begegnet.

I didn't meet anyone on the way.

Tip

If you want to express the sense of somebody or other, use irgendjemand which is declined like jemand.

Ich habe es irgendjemandem gegeben. I gave it to somebody or other.

- The indefinite pronoun keiner has the same endings as the article kein, keine, kein except in the nominative masculine and nominative and accusative neuter forms, and can be used to refer to people or things. When referring to people it means nobody, not ... anybody or none and when referring to things, it means not ... any or none.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | keiner | keine | keins | keine |
| Accusative | keinen | keine | keins | keine |
| Genitive | keines | keiner | keines | keiner |
| Dative | keinem | keiner | keinem | keinen |

Ich kenne hier keinen.

I don't know anybody here.

Keiner weiß Bescheid über ihn.

Nobody knows about him.

Das trifft auf keinen zu.

That does not apply to anybody here.

Er wollte ein Stück Schokolade, aber ich hatte keine.

He wanted a piece of chocolate, but I didn't have any.

„Hast du Geld?“ – „Nein, gar keins.“

“Have you got any money?” – “No, none at all.”

- The indefinite pronoun einer (meaning one) only has a singular form and can also be used to refer to people or things.

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|
| Nominative | einer | eine | ein(e)s |
| Accusative | einen | eine | ein(e)s |
| Genitive | eines | einer | eines |
| Dative | einem | einer | einem |

Sie trifft sich mit einem ihrer alten Studienfreunde.

She's meeting one of her old friends from university.

Ich brauche nur einen (e.g. einen Wagen, einen Pullover etc) OR:

Ich brauche nur eine (e.g. eine Blume, eine Tasche etc) OR:

Ich brauche nur eins (e.g. ein Buch, ein Notizbuch etc) I only need one.

Key points

- ✓ Jemand and niemand can be used without endings in spoken German but have endings added in written German.
- ✓ Keiner has the same endings as the article kein, keine, kein except in the nominative masculine and nominative and accusative neuter forms, and refers to people or things.
- ✓ Einer only has a singular form and refers to people or things.

Reflexive pronouns

What is a reflexive pronoun?

A reflexive pronoun is an object pronoun such as myself, yourself, himself, herself and ourselves that forms part of German reflexive verbs like sich waschen (meaning to wash) or sich setzen (meaning to sit down). A reflexive verb is a verb whose subject and object are the same and whose action is "reflected back" to its subject.

- German reflexive pronouns have two forms: accusative (for the direct object pronoun) and dative (for the indirect object pronoun), as follows:

| Accusative Form | Dative Form | Meaning |
|-----------------|-------------|------------------------------|
| mich | mir | myself |
| dich | dir | yourself (familiar) |
| sich | sich | himself/herself/itself |
| uns | uns | ourselves |
| euch | euch | yourselves (plural) |
| sich | sich | themselves |
| sich | sich | yourself/yourselves (polite) |

Er hat sich rasiert.

He had a shave.

Du hast dich gebadet.

You had a bath.

Ich will es mir zuerst überlegen.

I'll have to think about it first.

- ❗ Note that unlike personal pronouns and possessives, the polite forms have no capital letter.

Setzen Sie sich bitte.

Please take a seat.

Nehmen Sie sich ruhig etwas Zeit.

Take your time.

- The reflexive pronoun usually follows the first verb in the sentence, with certain exceptions:

Sie wird sich darüber freuen.

She'll be pleased about that.

- If the subject and verb are swapped round in the sentence, and the subject is a personal pronoun, then the reflexive pronoun must come AFTER the personal pronoun.

Darüber wird sie sich freuen.

She'll be pleased about that.

- If the sentence is made of up two parts or clauses, then the reflexive pronoun comes AFTER the subject in the second clause.

Ich frage mich, ob sie sich darüber freuen wird.

I wonder if she'll be pleased about that.

➡ For more information on Word order, see page 175.

➡ For more information on Reflexive verbs, see page 102.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- Unlike English, reflexive pronouns are also used after prepositions when the pronoun "reflects back" to the subject of the sentence.

Er hatte nicht genug Geld bei sich.

He didn't have enough money on him.

Hatten Sie nicht genug Geld bei sich?

Didn't you have enough money on you?

- Another use of reflexive pronouns in German is with transitive verbs where the action is performed for the benefit of the subject, as in the English phrase: I bought myself a new hat. The pronoun is not always translated in English.

Ich hole mir einen Kaffee.

I'm going to get (myself) a coffee.

Sie hat sich eine neue Jacke gekauft.

She bought (herself) a new jacket.

- Reflexive pronouns are usually used in German where each other and one another would be used in English.

Wir sind uns letzte Woche begegnet.

We met (each other) last week.

- ❗ Note that einander, (meaning one another, each other), which does not change in form, may be used instead of a reflexive pronoun in such cases.

Wir kennen uns schon OR

Wir kennen einander schon.

We already know each other.

- After prepositions, einander is always used instead of a reflexive pronoun. The preposition and einander are then joined to form one word.

Sie redeten miteinander.

They were talking to each other.

- In English, pronouns used for emphasis are the same as normal reflexive pronouns, for example, I did it myself. In German selbst or, in informal spoken language, selber are used instead of reflexive pronouns for emphasis. They never change their form and are always stressed, regardless of their position in the sentence:

Ich selbst habe es nicht gelesen, aber ...

I haven't read it myself, but ...

Key points

- ✓ German reflexive pronouns have two forms: accusative for the direct object pronoun and dative for the indirect object pronoun.
- ✓ Reflexive pronouns are also used after prepositions when the pronoun "reflects back" to the subject of the sentence.
- ✓ Reflexive pronouns are usually used in German where each other or one another would be used in English, but einander can be used as an alternative and is always used after prepositions.
- ✓ Selbst or, in informal spoken German, selber are used instead of reflexive pronouns for emphasis.

Relative pronouns

What is a relative pronoun?

In English a relative pronoun is one of the words who, which and that (and the more formal whom). These pronouns are used to introduce information that makes it clear which person or thing is being talked about, for example, The man who has just come in is Ann's boyfriend; The vase that you broke was quite valuable.

Relative pronouns can also introduce further information about someone or something, for example, Peter, who is a brilliant painter, wants to study art; Jane's house, which was built in 1890, needs a lot of repairs.

- In German the most common relative pronouns der, den, dessen, dem etc have the same forms as the definite article, except in the dative plural and genitive singular and plural. They are declined as follows:

| Case | Masculine Singular | Feminine Singular | Neuter Singular | All Genders Plural |
|------------|--------------------|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Nominative | der | die | das | die |
| Accusative | den | die | das | die |
| Genitive | dessen | deren | dessen | deren |
| Dative | dem | der | dem | denen |

- Relative pronouns must agree in gender and number with the noun to which they refer, but the case they have depends on their function in the relative clause. The relative clause is simply the part of the sentence in which the relative pronoun appears. Relative clauses are ALWAYS separated by commas from the rest of the sentence.

- In the following example, the relative pronoun den is in the accusative because it is the direct object in the relative clause.

Der Mann, den ich gestern gesehen habe, kommt aus Zürich.

The man that I saw yesterday comes from Zürich.

- In this second example, the relative pronoun dessen is in the genitive because it is used to show that something belongs to someone.

Das Mädchen, dessen Fahrrad gestohlen worden ist.

The girl whose bike was stolen.

Tip

In English we often miss out the object pronouns who, which and that. For example, we can say both the friends that I see most, or the friends I see most, and the house which we want to buy, or the house we want to buy. In German you can NEVER miss out the relative pronoun in this way.

Die Frau, mit der ich gestern gesprochen habe, kennt deine Mutter.

The woman I spoke to yesterday knows your mother.

- ❗ Note that the genitive forms are used in relative clauses in much the same way as in English, but to translate one of whom, some of whom use the following constructions.

Das Kind, dessen Fahrrad gestohlen worden war, fing an zu weinen.

The child whose bicycle had been stolen started to cry.

Die Kinder, von denen einige schon lesen konnten, ...

The children, some of whom could already read, ...

Meine Freunde, von denen einer ...

My friends, one of whom ...

Grammar Extra!

When a relative clause is introduced by a preposition, the relative pronoun can be replaced by wo- or wor- if the noun or pronoun it stands for refers to an object or something abstract. The full form of the pronoun plus preposition is much more common.

Das Buch, woraus ich vorgelesen habe, gehört dir.

OR:

Das Buch, aus dem ich vorgelesen habe, gehört dir.

The book I read aloud from belongs to you.

- In German wer and was are normally used as interrogative pronouns (meaning who? and what?) to ask questions. They can also be the subject of a sentence or a relative pronoun. For example, he who, a woman who, anyone who, those who etc.

Wer das glaubt, ist verrückt.

Anyone who believes that is mad.

Was du gestern gekauft hast, steht dir ganz gut.

The things you bought yesterday really suit you.

i Note that was is the relative pronoun used in set expressions with certain neuter forms. For example:

| | |
|---|--|
| alles, was ... | everything which |
| das, was ... | that which |
| nichts, was ... | nothing that |
| vieles, was ... | a lot that |
| wenig, was ... | little that |
| Nichts, was er sagte, hat gestimmt. | Nothing that he said was right. |
| Das, was du jetzt machst, ist unpraktisch. | What you are doing now is impractical. |
| Mit allem, was du gesagt hast, sind wir einverstanden. | We agree with everything you said. |

Key points

- ✓ The most common relative pronouns der, den, dessen, dem etc have the same forms as the definite article, except in the dative plural and genitive singular and plural.
- ✓ Relative pronouns must agree in gender and number with the noun to which they refer, but take their case from their function in the relative clause.
- ✓ In German you can NEVER miss out the relative pronoun, unlike in English.
- ✓ Relative clauses are always separated by commas from the rest of the sentence.
- ✓ Wer and was are normally used as interrogative pronouns but can also be the subject of a sentence or a relative pronoun.

Interrogative pronouns

What is an interrogative pronoun?

This is one of the words who, whose, whom, what and which when they are used instead of a noun to ask questions, for example, What's happening?; Who's coming?

1 Wer? and was?

➤ Wer and was only have a singular form.

| Case | Persons | Things |
|------------|----------------|-------------|
| Nominative | wer? | was? |
| Accusative | wen? | was? |
| Genitive | wessen? | – |
| Dative | wem? | – |

- They can be used in direct questions.

Wer hat es gemacht?

Who did it?

Mit wem bist du gekommen?

Who did you come with?

Wo ist der Kugelschreiber, mit dem du es geschrieben hast?

Where is the pen you wrote it with?

- They can also be used in indirect questions.

Ich weiß nicht, wer es gemacht hat.

I don't know who did it.

Sie wollte wissen, mit wem sie fahren sollte.

She wanted to know who she was to travel with.

2 Interrogative pronouns with prepositions

➤ When used with prepositions, was usually becomes wo- and is combined with the preposition to form one word. Where the preposition begins with a vowel, wor- is used instead.

Wodurch ist es zerstört worden?

How was it destroyed?

Worauf sollen wir sitzen? Es gibt keine Stühle.

What should we sit on?

There aren't any chairs.

3 Was für ein?, welcher?

- These are used to mean what kind of ...? and which one? and are declined like the definite article.

„Er hat jetzt ein Auto.“ –

“He has a car now.” –

„Was für eins hat er gekauft?“

“What kind (of one) did he buy?”

Welches hast du gewollt?

Which one did you want?

➡ For more information on Words declined like the definite article, see page 31.

- They can refer to people or things and require the appropriate endings.

Für welchen (e.g. welchen Job, welchen Whisky etc) hat sie sich entschieden? OR:

Für welches (e.g. welches Haus, welches Buch etc) hat sie sich entschieden? OR:

Für welche (e.g. welche Person, welche Jacke etc) hat sie sich entschieden?

Which one did she choose?

Key points

- ✓ The interrogative pronouns wer and was can be used for direct and indirect questions and only have a singular form.
- ✓ When used with prepositions, was becomes wo-, or wor- when the preposition begins with a vowel.
- ✓ Was für ein? and welcher? are used to mean what kind of ...? and which one?

VERBS

What is a verb?

A verb is a 'doing' word which describes what someone or something does, what someone or something is, or what happens to them, for example, be, sing, live.

Weak, strong and mixed verbs

- Verbs are usually used with a noun, with a pronoun such as I, you or she, or with somebody's name. They can relate to the present, the past and the future; this is called their tense.

➡ For more information on Nouns and Pronouns, see pages 1 and 69.

- Verbs are either:

- weak; their forms follow a set pattern. These verbs may also be called regular.
 - strong and irregular; their forms change according to different patterns.
- OR
- mixed; their forms follow a mixture of the patterns for weak and strong verbs.

- Regular English verbs have a base form (the form of the verb without any endings added to it, for example, walk). This is the form you look up in a dictionary. The base form can have to in front of it, for example, to walk. This is called the infinitive.
- German verbs also have an infinitive, which is the form shown in a dictionary; most weak, strong and mixed verbs end in -en. For example, holen (meaning to fetch) is weak, helfen (meaning to help) is strong and denken (meaning to think) is mixed. All German verbs belong to one of these groups. We will look at each of these three groups in turn on the next few pages.
- English verbs have other forms apart from the base form and infinitive: a form ending in -s (walks), a form ending in -ing (walking), and a form ending in -ed (walked).
- German verbs have many more forms than this, which are made up of endings added to a stem. The stem of a verb can usually be worked out from the infinitive and can change, depending on the tense of the verb and who or what you are talking about.
- German verb endings also change, depending on who or what you are talking about: ich (I), du (you (informal)), er/sie/es (he/she/it), Sie (you (formal)) in the singular, or wir (we), ihr (you (informal)), Sie (you (formal)) and sie (they) in the plural. German verbs also have different forms depending on whether you are referring to the present, future or past.

➡ For Verb Tables, see supplement.

Key points

- ✓ German verbs have different forms depending on what noun or pronoun they are used with, and on their tense.
- ✓ They are made up of a stem and an ending. The stem is based on the infinitive and can change in form.
- ✓ All German verbs fit into one of three patterns or conjugations: weak (and regular), strong (and irregular) or mixed (a mixture of the two).

The present tense

What is the present tense?

The present tense is used to talk about what is true at the moment, what happens regularly and what is happening now, for example, I'm a student, I travel to college by train, I'm studying languages.

1 Using the present tense

- In English there are two forms of the present tense. One is used to talk about things happening now and the other is used for things that happen all the time. In German, you use the same form for both of these.

- things that are happening now

Es regnet.

It's raining.

Sie spielen Fußball.

They're playing football.

- things that happen all the time, or things that you do as a habit

Hier regnet es viel.

It rains a lot here.

Samstags spielen sie Fußball.

They play football on Saturdays.

- In German there are three alternative ways of emphasizing that something is happening now:

- present tense + an adverb

Er kocht gerade das Abendessen.

He's cooking dinner.

- beim + an infinitive being used as a noun

Ich bin beim Bügeln.

I am ironing

- eben/gerade dabei sein zu (meaning to be in the process of) + an infinitive

Sie ist gerade dabei, eine E-Mail zu schreiben.

She is just writing an email.

- In English you can also use the present tense to talk about something that is going to happen in the near future. You can do the same in German.

Morgen spiele ich Tennis.

I'm going to play tennis tomorrow.

Wir nehmen den Zug um zehn Uhr.

We're getting the ten o'clock train.

Tip

Although English sometimes uses parts of the verb to be to form the present tense of other verbs (for example, I am listening, she's talking), German NEVER uses the verb sein in this way.

When using seit or seitdem to describe an action which began in the past and is continuing in the present, the present tense is used in German, where in English a verb form with have or has is used.

Ich wohne seit drei Jahren hier.

I have been living here for three years.

Seit er krank ist, hat er uns nicht besucht.

He hasn't visited us since he's been ill.

Seitdem sie am Gymnasium ist, hat sie kaum mehr Zeit.

Since she's been going to grammar school, she's hardly had any time.

Note that if the action is finished, the perfect tense is used in German.

Seit seinem Unfall habe ich ihn nur ein einziges Mal gesehen.

I have only seen him once since his accident.

2 Forming the present tense of weak verbs

- Nearly all weak verbs in German end in -en in their infinitive form. This is the form of the verb you find in the dictionary, for example, spielen, machen, holen. Weak verbs are regular and their changes follow a set pattern or conjugation.
- To know which form of the verb to use in German, you need to work out what the stem of the verb is and then add the correct ending. The stem of most verbs in the present tense is formed by chopping the -en off the infinitive.

| Infinitive | Stem (without -en) |
|--------------------------|--------------------|
| spielen (to play) | spiel- |
| machen (to make) | mach- |
| holen (to fetch) | hol- |

- Where the infinitive of a weak verb ends in -eln or -ern, only the -n is chopped off to form the stem.

| Infinitive | Stem (without -n) |
|------------------------------|-------------------|
| wandern (to hillwalk) | wander- |
| segeln (to sail) | segel- |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- Now you know how to find the stem of a verb, you can add the correct ending. Which one you choose will depend on whether you are referring to ich, du, er, sie, es, wir, ihr, Sie or sie.

➡ For more information on Pronouns, see page 69.

- Here are the present tense endings for weak verbs ending in -en:

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. spiel- | Meanings |
|--------------------------------------|------------|---|---|
| ich | -e | ich spiele | I play I am playing |
| du | -st | du spielst | you play you are playing |
| er sie es | -t | er spielt sie spielt es spielt | he/she/it plays he/she/it is playing |
| wir | -en | wir spielen | we play we are playing |
| ihr | -t | ihr spielt | you (plural) play you are playing |
| sie | -en | sie spielen | they play they are playing |
| Sie | | Sie spielen | you (polite) play you are playing |

Sie macht ihre Hausaufgaben.

She's doing her homework.

Er holt die Kinder.

He's fetching the children.

- Note that you add -n, not -en to the stem of weak verbs ending in -ern and -eln to get the wir, sie and Sie forms of the present tense.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. wander- | Meanings |
|------------|-----------|----------------------------------|--|
| wir | -n | wir wandern | we hillwalk we are hillwalking |
| sie | -n | sie wandern | they hillwalk they are hillwalking |
| Sie | | Sie wandern | you (polite) hillwalk you are hillwalking |

Sie wandern gern, oder?

You like hillwalking, don't you?

Im Sommer wandern wir fast jedes Wochenende.

In the summer we go hillwalking most weekends.

- If the stem of a weak verb ends in -d or -t, an extra -e is added before the usual endings in the du, er, sie and es and ihr parts of the verb to make pronunciation easier.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. red- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|---|
| du | -est | du redest | you talk you are talking |
| er sie es | -et | er redet sie redet es redet | he/she/it talks he/she/it is talking |
| ihr | -et | ihr redet | you (plural) talk you are talking |

Du redest doch die ganze Zeit über deine Arbeit!

You talk about your work all the time!

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. arbeit- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|---|---|
| du | -est | du arbeitest | you work you are working |
| er sie es | -et | er arbeitet sie arbeitet es arbeitet | he/she/it works he/she/it is working |
| ihr | -et | ihr arbeitet | you (plural) work you are working |

Sie arbeitet übers Wochenende.
Ihr arbeitet ganz schön viel.

She's working over the weekend.
You work a lot.

- If the stem of a weak verb ends in -m or -n, this extra -e is added to make pronunciation easier. If the -m or -n has a consonant in front of it, the -e is added, except if the consonant is l, r or h, for example lernen.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. atm- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|--|
| du | -est | du atmest | you breathe you are breathing |
| er sie es | -et | er atmet sie atmet es atmet | he/she/it breathes he/she/it is breathing |
| ihr | -et | ihr atmet | you (plural) breathe you are breathing |

Du atmest ganz tief.

You're breathing very deeply.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. lern- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|---|
| du | -est | du lernst | you learn you are learning |
| er sie es | -t | er lernt sie lernt es lernt | he/she/it learns he/she/it is learning |
| ihr | -t | ihr lernt | you (plural) learn you are learning |

Sie lernt alles ganz schnell.

She learns everything very quickly.

Key points

- ✓ Weak verbs are regular and most of them form their present tense stem by losing the -en from the infinitive.
- ✓ The present tense endings for weak verbs ending in -en are:
-e, -st, -t, -en, -t, -en, -en.
- ✓ If the stem of a weak verb ends in -d, -t, -m or -n, an extra -e is added before the endings to make pronunciation easier.

3 Forming the present tense of strong verbs

- The present tense of most strong verbs is formed with the same endings that are used for weak verbs.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. sing- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|---|
| ich | -e | ich singe | I sing I am singing |
| du | -st | du singst | you sing you are singing |
| er sie es | -t | er singt sie singt es singt | he/she/it sings he/she/it is singing |
| wir | -en | wir singen | we sing we are singing |
| ihr | -t | ihr singt | you (plural) sing you are singing |
| sie | -en | sie singen | they sing they are singing |
| Sie | | Sie singen | you (polite) sing you are singing |

Sie singen in einer Gruppe.

They sing in a band.

- However, the vowels in stems of most strong verbs change for the du and er/sie/es forms. The vowels listed below change as shown in nearly all cases:

long e → ie (see sehen) short e → i (see helfen) a → ä (see fahren) au → äu (see laufen)
o → ö (see stoßen)

- long e → ie

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. seh- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|---------------------------------------|
| ich | -e | ich sehe | I see I am seeing |
| du | -st | du siehst | you see you are seeing |
| er sie es | -t | er sieht sie sieht es sieht | he/she/it sees he/she/it is seeing |
| wir | -en | wir sehen | we see we are seeing |
| ihr | -t | ihr seht | you (plural) see you are seeing |
| sie | -en | sie sehen | they see they are seeing |
| Sie | | Sie sehen | you (polite) see you are seeing |

Siehst du fern?

Are you watching TV?

- short e → i

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. helf- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|---|
| ich | -e | ich helfe | I help I am helping |
| du | -st | du hilfst | you help you are helping |
| er sie es | -t | er hilft sie hilft es hilft | he/she/it helps he/she/it is helping |
| wir | -en | wir helfen | we help we are helping |
| ihr | -t | ihr helft | you (plural) help you are helping |
| sie | -en | sie helfen | they help they are helping |
| Sie | | Sie helfen | you (polite) help you are helping |

Heute hilft er beim Kochen.

He's helping with the cooking today.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- a → ä

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. fahr- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|--|
| ich | -e | ich fahre | I drive I am driving |
| du | -st | du fährst | you drive you are driving |
| er sie es | -t | er fährt sie fährt es fährt | he/she/it drives he/she/it is driving |
| wir | -en | wir fahren | we drive we are driving |
| ihr | -t | ihr fahrt | you (plural) drive you are driving |
| sie | -en | sie fahren | they drive they are driving |
| Sie | | Sie fahren | you (polite) drive you are driving |

Am Samstag fährt sie nach Italien.

She's driving to Italy on Saturday.

- au → äu

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. lauf- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|--|
| ich | -e | ich laufe | I run I am running |
| du | -st | du läufst | you run you are running |
| er sie es | -t | er läuft sie läuft es läuft | he/she/it runs he/she/it is running |
| wir | -en | wir laufen | we run we are running |
| ihr | -t | ihr lauft | you (plural) run you are running |
| sie | -en | sie laufen | they run they are running |
| Sie | | Sie laufen | you (polite) run you are running |

Er läuft die 100 Meter in Rekordzeit.

He runs the 100 metres in record time.

• o → ö

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. stoß- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|-----------------------------------|---|
| ich | -e | ich stoße | I push I am pushing |
| du | -st | du stößt | you push you are pushing |
| er sie es | -t | er stößt sie stößt es stößt | he/she/it pushes he/she/it is pushing |
| wir | -en | wir stoßen | we push we are pushing |
| ihr | -t | ihr stoßt | you (plural) push you are pushing |
| sie Sie | -en | sie stoßen Sie stoßen | they push they are pushing you (polite) push you are pushing |

Pass auf, dass du nicht an den
Tisch stößt.

Watch out that you don't bump into the table.

- i Note that strong AND weak verbs whose stem ends in -s, -z, -ss or -ß (such as stoßen) add -t rather than -st to get the du form in the present tense. However, if the stem ends in -sch, the normal -st is added.

| Verb | Stem | Du Form |
|---------|--------|---------|
| wachsen | wachs- | wächst |
| waschen | wasch- | wäschst |

Key points

- ✓ Strong verbs have the same endings in the present tense as weak verbs.
- ✓ The vowel or vowels of the stem of strong verbs change(s) in the present for the du and er/sie/es forms.

4 Forming the present tense of mixed verbs

- There are nine mixed verbs in German. They are very common and are formed according to a mixture of the rules already explained for weak and strong verbs.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- The nine mixed verbs are:

| Mixed Verb | Meaning | Mixed Verb | Meaning | Mixed Verb | Meaning |
|------------|----------|------------|---------|------------|---------|
| brennen | to burn | kennen | to know | senden | to send |
| bringen | to bring | nennen | to name | wenden | to turn |
| denken | to think | rennen | to run | wissen | to know |

- The present tense of mixed verbs has the same endings as weak verbs and has no vowel or consonant changes in the stem: ich bringe, du bringst, er/sie/es bringt, wir bringen, ihr bringt, sie bringen, Sie bringen.

Sie bringt mich nach Hause.

She's bringing me home.

Bringst du mir etwas mit?

Will you bring something for me?

- i Note that the present tense of the most important strong, weak and mixed verbs is shown in the Verb Tables.

- ➡ For Verb Tables, see supplement.

Key points

- ✓ There are nine mixed verbs in German.
- ✓ The present tense of mixed verbs has the same endings as weak verbs and has no vowel or consonant changes in the stem.

Reflexive verbs

What is a reflexive verb?

A reflexive verb is one where the subject and object are the same, and where the action 'reflects back' on the subject. Reflexive verbs are used with a reflexive pronoun such as myself, yourself and herself in English, for example, I washed myself; He shaved himself.

1 Using reflexive verbs

- In German, reflexive verbs are much more common than in English, and many are used in everyday German. Reflexive verbs consist of two parts: the reflexive pronoun sich (meaning himself, herself, itself, themselves or oneself) and the infinitive of the verb.

➡ For more information on Reflexive pronouns, see page 84.

2 Forming the present tense of reflexive verbs

- Reflexive verbs are often used to describe things you do (to yourself) every day or that involve a change of some sort (getting dressed, sitting down, getting excited, being in a hurry).
- The reflexive pronoun is either the direct object in the sentence, which means it is in the accusative case, or the indirect object in the sentence, which means it is in the dative case. Only the reflexive pronouns used with the ich and du forms of the verb have separate accusative and dative forms:

| Accusative Form | Dative Form | Meaning |
|-----------------|-------------|--------------------------------------|
| mich | mir | myself |
| dich | dir | yourself (familiar) |
| sich | sich | himself/herself/itself |
| uns | uns | ourselves |
| euch | euch | yourselves (plural) |
| sich | sich | themselves |
| sich | sich | yourself/yourselfs (polite) |

- The present tense forms of a reflexive verb work in just the same way as an ordinary verb, except that the reflexive pronoun is used as well.
- Below you will find the present tense of the common reflexive verbs sich setzen (meaning to sit down) which has its reflexive pronoun in the accusative and sich erlauben (meaning to allow oneself) which has its reflexive pronoun in the dative.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

| Reflexive Forms | Meaning |
|-----------------------------|---|
| ich setze mich | I sit (myself) down |
| du setzt dich | you sit (yourself) down |
| er/sie/es setzt sich | he/she/it sits down |
| wir setzen uns | we sit down |
| ihr setzt euch | you (plural familiar) sit down |
| sie setzen sich | they sit down |
| Sie setzen sich | you (polite form) sit down |

Ich setze mich neben dich.

I'll sit beside you.

Sie setzen sich aufs Sofa.

They sit down on the sofa.

| Reflexive Forms | Meaning |
|-------------------------------|---|
| ich erlaube mir | I allow (myself) |
| du erlaubst dir | you allow (yourself) |
| er/sie/es erlaubt sich | he/she/it allows himself/herself/itself |
| wir erlauben uns | we allow ourselves |
| ihr erlaubt euch | you (plural familiar) allow yourselves |
| sie erlauben sich | they allow themselves |
| Sie erlauben sich | you (polite form) allow yourself |

Ich erlaube mir jetzt ein Bier.

Now I'm going to allow myself a beer.

Er erlaubt sich ein Stück Kuchen.

He's allowing himself a piece of cake.

- Some of the most common German reflexive verbs are listed here:

| Reflexive Verb with Reflexive Pronoun in Accusative | Meaning |
|---|--|
| sich anziehen | to get dressed |
| sich aufregen | to get excited |
| sich beeilen | to hurry |
| sich beschäftigen mit | to be occupied with |
| sich bewerben um | to apply for |
| sich erinnern an | to remember |
| sich freuen auf | to look forward to |
| sich interessieren für | to be interested in |
| sich irren | to be wrong |
| sich melden | to report (for duty etc) or to volunteer |
| sich rasieren | to shave |
| sich setzen or hinsetzen | to sit down |
| sich trauen | to dare |
| sich umsehen | to look around |

Ich ziehe mich schnell an und dann gehen wir.

I'll get dressed quickly and then we can go.

Wir müssen uns beeilen.

We must hurry.

| Reflexive Verb with Reflexive Pronoun in Dative | Meaning |
|---|------------------------|
| sich abgewöhnen | to give up (something) |
| sich ansehen | to have a look at |
| sich einbilden | to imagine (wrongly) |
| sich erlauben | to allow oneself |
| sich leisten | to treat oneself |
| sich nähern | to get close to |
| sich vornehmen | to plan to do |
| sich vorstellen | to imagine |
| sich wünschen | to want |

- Ich muss mir das Rauchen abgewöhnen. I must give up smoking.
 Sie kann sich ein neues Auto nicht leisten. She can't afford a new car.
 Was wünscht ihr euch zu Weihnachten? What do you want for Christmas?

[i] Note that a direct object reflexive pronoun changes to an indirect object pronoun if another direct object is present.

- Ich wasche mich. I'm having a wash.
 mich = direct object reflexive pronoun
 Ich wasche mir die Hände. I am washing my hands.
 mir = indirect object reflexive pronoun die Hände = direct object

➡ For more information on Pronouns, see page 69.

➤ Some German verbs which are not usually reflexive can be made reflexive by adding a reflexive pronoun.

- Soll ich es melden? Should I report it?
 Ich habe mich gemeldet. I volunteered.

➡ For more information on word order with Reflexive pronouns, see page 84.

Key points

- ✓ A reflexive verb is made up of a reflexive pronoun and a verb.
- ✓ The direct object pronouns in the accusative are mich, dich, sich, uns, euch, sich, sich.
- ✓ The indirect object pronouns in the dative are mir, dir, sich, uns, euch, sich, sich.
- ✓ In the present tense the reflexive pronoun usually comes after the verb.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

The imperative

What is the imperative?

An imperative is a form of the verb used when giving orders and instructions, for example, Shut the door!; Sit down!; Don't go!

1 Using the imperative

➤ In German, there are three main forms of the imperative that are used to give instructions or orders to someone. These correspond to the three different ways of saying you: du, ihr and Sie. However, it is only in the Sie form of the imperative that the pronoun usually appears – in the du and ihr forms, the pronoun is generally dropped, leaving only the verb.

- Hör zu! Listen!
 Hören Sie zu! Listen!

2 Forming the present tense imperative

➤ Most weak, strong and mixed verbs form the present tense imperative in the following way:

| Pronoun | Form of Imperative | Verb Example | Meaning |
|----------------------------------|------------------------|--------------|---------|
| du (singular) | verb stem (+e) | hol(e)! | fetch! |
| ihr (plural) | verb stem +t | holt! | fetch! |
| Sie (polite singular and plural) | verb stem +en + Sie | holen Sie! | fetch! |

[i] Note that the -e of the du form is often dropped, but NOT where the verb stem ends, for example, in chn-, fn-, or tm-. In such cases, the -e is kept to make the imperative easier to pronounce.

- Hör zu! Listen!
 Hol es! Fetch it!
 BUT: Öffne die Tür! Open the door!
 Atme richtig durch! Take a deep breath!
 Rechne nochmal nach! Do your sums again!

Grammar Extra!

Weak verbs ending in -eln or -ern also retain this -e, but the other -e in the stem itself is often dropped in spoken German.

| Verb | Meaning | Imperative | Meaning |
|---------|---------|------------|---------|
| wandern | to walk | wand(e)re! | walk! |
| handeln | to act | hand(e)le! | act! |

- Any vowel change in the present tense of a strong verb also occurs in the du form of its imperative and the -e mentioned above is generally not added. However, if this vowel change in the present tense involves adding an umlaut, this umlaut is NOT added to the du form of the imperative.

| Verb | Meaning | 2 nd Person Singular | Meaning | 2 nd Person Singular Imperative | Meaning |
|--------|---------|---------------------------------|----------|--|---------|
| nehmen | to take | du nimmst | you take | nimm! | take! |
| helfen | to help | du hilfst | you help | hilf! | help! |
| laufen | to run | du läufst | you run | lauf(e)! | run! |
| stoßen | to push | du stößt | you push | stoß(e)! | push! |

3 Word order with the imperative

- An object pronoun is a word like es (meaning it), mir (meaning me) or ihnen (meaning them/to them) that is used instead of a noun as the object of a sentence. In the imperative, the object pronoun comes straight after the verb. However, you can have orders and instructions containing both direct object and indirect object pronouns. In these cases, the direct object pronoun always comes before the indirect object pronoun.

| | |
|-------------------------|---------------------|
| Hol mir das Buch! | Fetch me that book! |
| Hol es mir! | Fetch me it! |
| Holt mir das Buch! | Fetch me that book! |
| Holt es mir! | Fetch me it! |
| Holen Sie mir das Buch! | Fetch me that book! |
| Holen Sie es mir! | Fetch me it! |

➡ For more information on Word order with indirect object pronouns, see page 77.

- In the imperative form of a reflexive verb such as sich waschen (meaning to wash oneself) or sich setzen (meaning to sit down), the reflexive pronoun comes immediately after the verb.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

| Reflexive verb | Meaning | Imperative Forms | Meaning |
|----------------|-------------|------------------|--------------|
| sich setzen | to sit down | setz dich! | sit down! |
| | | setzt euch! | sit down! |
| | | setzen Sie sich! | do sit down! |

➡ For more information on Reflexive pronouns, see page 84.

- In verbs which have separable prefixes, the prefix comes at the end of the imperative.

| Verb with Separable Prefix | Meaning | Imperative Example | Meaning |
|----------------------------|----------|-----------------------|-----------------|
| zumachen | to close | Mach die Tür zu! | Close the door! |
| aufhören | to stop | Hör aber endlich auf! | Do stop it! |

➡ For more information on Separable prefixes, see page 109.

4 Other points about the imperative

- In German, imperatives are usually followed by an exclamation mark, unless they are not being used to give an order or instruction. For example, they can also be used where we might say Can you... or Could you... in English.

| | |
|---------------------------------------|---|
| Lass ihn in Ruhe! | Leave him alone! |
| Sagen Sie mir bitte, wie spät es ist. | Can you tell me what time it is please? |

- The verb sein (meaning to be) is a strong, irregular verb. Its imperative forms are also irregular and the du, Sie and less common wir forms are not the same as the present tense forms of the verb.

| | |
|------------------|-----------|
| Sei ruhig! | be quiet! |
| Seid ruhig! | be quiet! |
| Seien Sie ruhig! | be quiet! |

Tip

The words auch, nur, mal and doch are frequently used with imperatives to change their meanings in different ways, but are often not translated since they have no direct equivalent in English.

| | |
|-----------------------|----------------------------|
| Geh doch! | Go on!/Get going! |
| Sag mal, wo warst du? | Tell me, where were you? |
| Versuchen Sie es mal! | Give it a try! |
| Komm schon! | Do come/Please come. |
| Mach es auch richtig! | Be sure to do it properly. |

Grammar Extra!

There are some alternatives to using the imperative in German:

- Infinitives (the to form of a verb) are often used instead of the imperative in written instructions or public announcements

Einsteigen!

All aboard!

Zwiebeln abziehen und in Ringe schneiden.

Peel the onions and slice them.

- Nouns, adjectives or adverbs can also be used as imperatives

Ruhe!

Be quiet!/Silence!

Vorsicht!

Careful!/Look out!

Some of these have become set expressions

Achtung!

Listen!/Attention!

Rauchen verboten!

No smoking.

Key points

- ✓ The imperative has four forms: du, ihr, Sie and wir.
- ✓ The forms are the same as the ihr, Sie and wir forms of the present tense for most strong, weak and mixed verbs, but the du form drops the -st present tense ending and sometimes adds an -e on the end.
- ✓ Any vowel change in the stem of a strong verb also occurs in the imperative, except if it involves adding an umlaut.
- ✓ Object pronouns always go after the verb, with the direct object pronoun coming before the indirect object pronoun.
- ✓ Reflexive pronouns also come after the verb, while separable verb prefixes come at the end of the imperative sentence.
- ✓ Sein has irregular imperative forms.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Verb prefixes in the present tense

What is a verb prefix?

In English, a verb prefix is a word such as up or down which is used with verbs to create new verbs with an entirely different meaning.

get → get up → get down put → put up → put down

shut → shut up → shut down

- In German there is a similar system, but the words are put before the infinitive and joined to it:

zu (meaning to) + geben (meaning to give) = zugeben (meaning to admit) an (meaning on, to, by) + ziehen (meaning to pull) = anziehen (meaning to put on or to attract)

- Prefixes can be found in strong, weak and mixed verbs. Some prefixes are always joined to the verb and never separated from it – these are called inseparable prefixes. However, the majority are separated from the verb in certain tenses and forms, and come at the end of the sentence. They are called separable prefixes.

1 Inseparable prefixes

- There are eight inseparable prefixes in German, highlighted in the table of common inseparable verbs below:

| Inseparable Verb | Meaning | Inseparable Verb | Meaning | Inseparable Verb | Meaning | Inseparable Verb | Meaning |
|--------------------|-------------|--------------------|---------------|-------------------|-------------|------------------|--------------|
| beschreiben | to describe | enttäuschen | to disappoint | gehören | to belong | verlieren | to lose |
| empfangen | to receive | erhalten | to preserve | misstrauen | to mistrust | zerlegen | to dismantle |

- 7 Note that when you pronounce an inseparable verb, the stress is NEVER on the inseparable prefix:

erhalten

verlieren

empfangen vergessen

Das muss ich wirklich nicht vergessen. I really mustn't forget that.

2 Separable prefixes

- There are many separable prefixes in German and some of them are highlighted in the table below which shows a selection of the most common separable verbs:

| Separable Verb | Meaning | Separable Verb | Meaning |
|--------------------|------------------|-----------------------|---------------------|
| abfahren | to leave | mitmachen | to join in |
| ankommen | to arrive | nachgeben | to give way/in |
| aufstehen | to get up | vorziehen | to prefer |
| ausgehen | to go out | weglaufen | to run away |
| einsteigen | to get on | zuschauen | to watch |
| feststellen | to establish/see | zurechtkommen | to manage |
| freihalten | to keep free | zurückkehren | to return |
| herkommen | to come (here) | zusammenpassen | to be well-suited; |
| hinlegen | to put down | | to go well together |

Der Zug fährt in zehn Minuten ab.

The train is leaving in ten minutes.

Ich stehe jeden Morgen früh auf.

I get up early every morning.

Sie gibt niemals nach.

She'll never give in.

3 Word order with separable prefixes

- In tenses consisting of one verb part only, for example the present and the imperfect, the separable prefix is placed at the end of the main clause.

Der Bus kam immer spät an.

The bus was always late.

➡ For more information on Separable prefixes in the perfect tense, see page 115.

- In subordinate clauses, the prefix is attached to the verb, which is then placed at the end of the subordinate clause.

Weil der Bus spät ankam, verpasste sie den Zug.

Because the bus arrived late,
she missed the train.

➡ For more information on Subordinate clauses, see page 177.

- In infinitive phrases using zu, the zu is inserted between the verb and its prefix to form one word.

Um rechtzeitig aufzustehen, muss ich den Wecker stellen.

In order to get up on time I'll have to set the alarm.

➡ For more information on the Infinitive, see page 134.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

4 Verb combinations

- Below you will see some other types of word which can be combined with verbs. These combinations are mostly written as two separate words and behave like separable verbs:

- Noun + verb combinations

Ski fahren

to ski

Ich fahre gern Ski.

I like skiing

Schlittschuh laufen

to ice-skate

Im Winter kann man Schlittschuh laufen.

You can ice-skate in Winter.

- Infinitive + verb combinations

kennenlernen

to meet or to get to know

Meine Mutter möchte dich

My mother wants to meet you.

kennenlernen.

Er lernt sie nie richtig kennen.

He'll never get to know her properly.

sitzen bleiben

to remain seated

Blieben Sie bitte sitzen.

Please remain seated.

spazieren gehen

to go for a walk

Er geht jeden Tag spazieren.

He goes for a walk every day.

- Other adjective + verb combinations

bekannt machen

to announce

Die Regierung will das morgen

The government plans to announce it tomorrow.

bekannt machen.

- Some adverb + verb combinations

kaputt machen to break

Mach mir bloß mein Fahrrad

Don't you dare break my bike!

nicht kaputt!

- Verb combinations with -seits

abseitsstehen to stand apart

Sie steht immer abseits von den anderen.

She always stands apart from the others.

- Prefix combinations with sein

auf sein

to be open or to be up

Das Fenster ist auf.

The window is open.

Die Geschäfte sind am Sonntag

The shops are closed on Sundays.

nicht auf.

Sie ist noch nicht auf.

She isn't up yet.

zu sein

Das Fenster ist zu.

to be shut

The window is shut.

- 7 Note that auf (meaning open) is another word for geöffnet and zu (meaning shut or closed) is another word for geschlossen.

Key points

- ✓ Prefixes can be found in strong, weak and mixed verbs.
- ✓ Eight prefixes are inseparable and are never separated from the verb.
- ✓ Most prefixes are separable and are separated from the verb in certain tenses and forms and come at the end of the sentence.

The perfect tense

What is the perfect tense?

The perfect is one of the verb tenses used to talk about the past, especially about a single, rather than a repeated action.

Den Nachttisch habe ich schon gegessen.

I've already eaten dessert.

1 Using the perfect tense

- The German perfect tense is the one generally used to translate an English form such as I have finished.

I have finished the book.

Ich habe das Buch zu Ende gelesen.

- The perfect tense is also sometimes used to translate an English form such as I gave.

I gave him my phone number.

Ich habe ihm meine Nummer gegeben.

Tip

When a specific time in the past is referred to, you use the perfect tense in German. In English you use the -ed form instead.

Gestern Abend habe ich einen Krimi im Fernsehen gesehen.

Last night I watched a thriller on TV.

- The perfect tense is used with seit or seitdem to describe a completed action in the past, whereas the present tense is used to describe an action which started in the past and is still continuing in the present.

Seit dem Unfall habe ich sie nur einmal gesehen.

I've only seen her once since the accident.

- ➡ For more information on this use of the Present tense, see page 94.

2 Forming the perfect tense

- Unlike the present and imperfect tenses, the perfect tense has TWO parts to it:

- the present tense of the irregular weak verb haben (meaning to have) or the irregular strong verb sein (meaning to be). They are also known as auxiliary verbs.
- a part of the main verb called the past participle, like given, finished and done in English.

- In other words, the perfect tense in German is like the form I have done in English.

| Pronoun | Ending | Present Tense | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|-------------------|
| ich | -e | ich habe | I have |
| du | -st | du hast | you have |
| er sie es | -t | er hat sie hat es hat | he/she/it has |
| wir | -en | wir haben | we have |
| ihr | -t | ihr habt | you (plural) have |
| sie | -en | sie haben | they have |
| Sie | | Sie haben | you (polite) have |

| Pronoun | Ending | Present Tense | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|------------------|
| ich | - | ich bin | I am |
| du | - | du bist | you are |
| er sie es | - | er ist sie ist es ist | he/she/it is |
| wir | - | wir sind | we are |
| ihr | - | ihr seid | you (plural) are |
| sie | - | sie sind | they are |
| Sie | - | Sie sind | you (polite) are |

3 Forming the past participle

- To form the past participle of weak verbs, you add ge- to the beginning of the verb stem and -t to the end.

| Infinitive | Take off -en | Add ge- and -t |
|------------------|--------------|------------------------------|
| holen (to fetch) | hol- | geh olt |
| machen (to do) | mach- | gem acht |

- ⚠ Note that one exception to this rule is weak verbs ending in -ieren, which omit the ge.

studieren (to study)

studiert (studied)

- To form the past participle of strong verbs, you add ge- to the beginning of the verb stem and -en to the end. The vowel in the stem may also change.

| Infinitive | Take off -en | Add ge- and -en |
|------------------|--------------|-------------------------------|
| laufen (to run) | lauf- | gela ufen |
| singen (to sing) | sing- | gesu ngen |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- To form the past participle of mixed verbs, you add ge- to the beginning of the verb stem and, like weak verbs, -t to the end. As with many strong verbs, the stem vowel may also change.

| Infinitive | Take off -en | Add ge- and -t |
|-------------------|--------------|------------------------------|
| bringen (to run) | bring- | gebr acht |
| denken (to think) | denk- | ged acht |

- The perfect tense of separable verbs is also formed in the above way, except that the separable prefix is joined on to the front of the ge-: ich habe die Flasche aufgemacht, du hast die Flasche aufgemacht and so on.
- With inseparable verbs, the only difference is that past participles are formed without the ge-: ich habe Kaffee bestellt, du hast Kaffee bestellt and so on.

➡ For more information on Separable and Inseparable verbs, see page 109.

4 Verbs that form their perfect tense with haben

- Most weak, strong and mixed verbs form their perfect tense with haben, for example machen:

| Pronoun | haben | Past Participle | Meaning |
|-----------------|--------------|-----------------|--|
| ich | habe | gemacht | I did, I have done |
| du | hast | gemacht | you did, you have done |
| er sie es | hat | gemacht | he/she/it did, he/she/it has done |
| wir | haben | gemacht | we did, we have done |
| ihr | habt | gemacht | you (plural familiar) did, you have done |
| sie | haben | gemacht | they did, they have done |
| Sie | haben | gemacht | you (singular/plural formal) did, you have done |

Sie hat ihre Hausaufgaben schon gemacht.

She has already done her homework.

Haben Sie gut geschlafen?

Did you sleep well?

Er hat fleißig gearbeitet.

He has worked hard.

5 haben or sein?

➤ MOST verbs form their perfect tense with haben.

Ich habe das schon gemacht.

I've already done that.

Wo haben Sie früher gearbeitet?

Where did you work before?

➤ With reflexive verbs the reflexive pronoun comes immediately after haben.

Ich habe mich heute Morgen geduscht.

I had a shower this morning.

Sie hat sich nicht daran erinnert.

She didn't remember.

➡ For more information on Reflexive verbs, see page 102.

➤ There are two main groups of verbs which form their perfect tense with sein instead of haben, and most of them are strong verbs:

- verbs which take no direct object and are used mainly to talk about movement or a change of some kind, such as:

gehen

to go kommen

to come ankommen to arrive

abfahren to leave aussteigen to get off einsteigen

to get on sterben

to die

sein to be werden to become bleiben

to remain

begegnen

to meet gelingen

to succeed

aufstehen to get up fallen to fall

Gestern bin ich ins Kino gegangen.

I went to the cinema yesterday.

Sie ist heute Morgen ganz früh abgefahren.

She left really early this morning.

An welcher Haltestelle sind Sie ausgestiegen?

Which stop did you get off at?

- two verbs which mean to happen.

Was ist geschehen/passiert?

What happened?

➡ Here are the perfect tense forms of a very common strong verb, gehen, in full:

| Pronoun | sein | Past Participle | Meanings |
|-----------------|------|-----------------|---|
| ich | bin | gegangen | I went, I have gone |
| du | bist | gegangen | you went, you have gone |
| er sie es | ist | gegangen | he/she/it went, he/she/it has gone |
| wir | sind | gegangen | we went, we have gone |
| ihr | seid | gegangen | you (plural familiar) went, you have gone |
| sie | sind | gegangen | they went, they have gone |
| Sie | sind | gegangen | you (singular/plural formal) went, you have gone |

7 Note that the perfect tense of the most important strong, weak and mixed verbs is shown in the Verb Tables.

➡ For Verb Tables, see supplement.

Key points

- ✓ The perfect tense describes things that happened and were completed in the past.
- ✓ The perfect tense is formed with the present tense of haben or sein and a past participle.
- ✓ The past participle begins in ge- and ends in -t for weak verbs, in ge- and -en for strong verbs often with a stem vowel change, and in ge- and -t for mixed verbs, with a stem vowel change.
- ✓ Most verbs take haben in the perfect tense. Many strong verbs, especially those referring to movement or change, take sein.

The imperfect tense

What is the imperfect tense?

The imperfect tense is one of the verb tenses used to talk about the past, especially in descriptions, and to say what used to happen, for example, It was sunny at the weekend; I used to walk to school.

1 Using the imperfect tense

► The German imperfect tense is used:

- to describe actions in the past which the speaker feels have no link with the present

Er kam zu spät, um teilnehmen zu können.

He arrived too late to take part.

- to describe what things were like and how people felt in the past

Ich war ganz traurig, als sie wegging.

I was very sad when she left.

Damals gab es ein großes Problem mit Drogen.

There was a big problem with drugs at that time.

- to say what used to happen or what you used to do regularly in the past

Wir machten jeden Tag einen Spaziergang.

We used to go for a walk every day.

Samstags spielte ich Tennis.

I used to play tennis on Saturdays.

- ⚠ Note that if you want to talk about an event or action that took place and was completed in the past, you normally use the perfect tense in German conversation. The imperfect tense is normally used in written German.

Was hast du heute gemacht?

What have you done today?

➡ For more information on the Perfect tense, see page 113.

- When using seit or seitdem to describe something that had happened or had been true at a point in the past, the imperfect is used in German, where in English a verb form with had is used.

Sie war seit ihrer Heirat als Lehrerin beschäftigt.

She had been working as a teacher since her marriage.

➡ For more information on the Pluperfect tense, see page 127.

Tip

Remember that you NEVER use the verb sein to translate was or were in forms like was raining or were looking and so on. You change the German verb ending instead.

2 Forming the imperfect tense of weak verbs

- To form the imperfect tense of weak verbs, you use the same stem of the verb as for the present tense. Then you add the correct ending, depending on whether you are referring to ich, du, er, sie, es, wir, ihr, sie or Sie.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. spiel- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--|--|
| ich | -te | ich spielte | I played I was playing |
| du | -test | du spieltest | you played you were playing |
| er sie es | -te | er spielte sie spielte es spielte | he/she/it played he/she/it played he/she/it were playing |
| wir | -ten | wir spielten | we played we were playing |
| ihr | -tet | ihr spieltet | you (plural) played you were playing |
| sie | -ten | sie spielten | they played they were playing |
| Sie | | Sie spielten | you (polite) played you were playing |

Sie holte ihn jeden Tag von der Arbeit ab.

She picked him up from work every day.

Normalerweise machte ich nach dem Abendessen meine Hausaufgaben.

I usually did my homework after dinner.

- As with the present tense, some weak verbs change their spellings slightly when they are used in the imperfect tense.
- If the stem ends in -d, -t, -m or -n an extra -e is added before the usual imperfect endings to make pronunciation easier.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. arbeit- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|---|--|
| ich | -ete | ich arbeitete | I worked I was working |
| du | -etest | du arbeitetest | you worked you were working |
| er sie es | -ete | er arbeitete sie arbeitete es arbeitete | he/she/it worked he/she/it was working |
| wir | -eten | wir arbeiteten | we worked we were working |
| ihr | -etet | ihr arbeitetet | you (plural) worked you were working |
| sie | -eten | sie arbeiteten | they worked they were working |
| Sie | -eten | Sie arbeiteten | you (polite) worked you (polite) were working |

Sie arbeitete übers Wochenende. She was working over the weekend.
Ihr arbeitetet ganz schön viel. You worked a lot.

- If the -m or -n has one of the consonants l, r or h in front of it, the -e is not added as shown in the du, er, sie and es, and ihr forms below.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. lern- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--------------------------------------|---|
| du | -test | du lerntest | you learned you were learning |
| er sie es | -te | er lernte sie lernte es lernte | he/she/it learned he/she/it was learning |
| ihr | -tet | ihr lernetet | you (plural) learned you were learning |

Sie lernte alles ganz schnell. She learned everything very quickly.

3 Forming the imperfect tense of strong verbs

- The main difference between strong verbs and weak verbs in the imperfect is that strong verbs have a vowel change and take a different set of endings. For example, let's compare sagen and rufen:

| | Infinitive | Meaning | Present | Imperfect |
|--------|------------|----------|---------|-----------|
| Weak | sagen | to say | er sagt | er sagte |
| Strong | rufen | to shout | er ruft | er rief |

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- To form the imperfect tense of strong verbs you add the following endings to the stem, which undergoes a vowel change.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. rief- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--------------------------------|--|
| ich | - | ich rief | I shouted I was shouting |
| du | -st | du riefst | you shouted you were shouting |
| er sie es | - | er rief sie rief es rief | he/she/it shouted he/she/it were shouting |
| wir | -en | wir riefen | we shouted we were shouting |
| ihr | -t | ihr riefet | you (plural) shouted you were shouting |
| sie | -en | sie riefen | they shouted they were shouting |
| Sie | | Sie riefen | you (polite) shouted you were shouting |

Sie rief mich immer freitags an. She always called me on Friday.
Sie liefen die Straße entlang. They ran along the street.
Als Kind sangst du viel. You used to sing a lot as a child.

- As in other tenses, the verb sein is a very irregular strong verb since the imperfect forms seem to have no relation to the infinitive form of the verb: ich war, du warst, er/sie/es war, wir waren, ihr wart, sie/Sie waren.

4 Forming the imperfect tense of mixed verbs

- The imperfect tense of mixed verbs is formed by adding the weak verb endings to a stem whose vowel has been changed as for a strong verb.

| Pronoun | Ending | Add to Stem, e.g. kann- | Meanings |
|-----------------|--------|--------------------------------------|-------------------|
| ich | -te | ich kannte | I knew |
| du | -test | du kanntest | you knew |
| er sie es | -te | er kannte sie kannte es kannte | he/she/it knew |
| wir | -ten | wir kannten | we knew |
| ihr | -tet | ihr kanntet | you (plural) knew |
| sie | -ten | sie kannten | they knew |
| Sie | | Sie kannten | you (polite) knew |

Er kannte die Stadt nicht. He didn't know the town.

- Bringen (meaning to bring) and denken (meaning to think) have a vowel AND a consonant change in their imperfect forms bringen (to bring) ich brachte

 du brachtest
 er/sie/es brachte
 wir brachten
 ihr brachtet
 sie/Sie brachten

denken (to think) ich dachte
 du dachtest er/sie/es dachte
 wir dachten
 ihr dachtet
 sie/Sie dachten

- ❗ Note that the imperfect tense of the most important strong, weak and mixed verbs is shown in the Verb Tables.

➡ For Verb Tables, see supplement.

Key points

- ✓ The imperfect tense is generally used for things that happened regularly or for descriptions in the past, especially in written German.
- ✓ The imperfect of weak verbs is formed using the same stem of the verb as for the present tense + these endings: -te, -test, -te, -ten, -tet, -ten.
- ✓ If the stem of a weak verb ends in -d, -t, -m or -n an extra -e is added before the usual imperfect endings to make pronunciation easier. If the -m or -n has one of the consonants l, r or h in front of it, the -e is not added.
- ✓ The imperfect tense of strong verbs is formed by adding the following endings to the stem, which undergoes a vowel change: -st, -en, -t, -en.
- ✓ The imperfect tense of mixed verbs is formed by adding the weak verb endings to a stem whose vowel has been changed as for a strong verb. The verbs bringen and denken also have a consonant change.

The future tense

What is the future tense?

The future tense is a verb tense used to talk about something that will happen or will be true.

1 Using the future tense

- In English the future tense is often shown by will or its shortened form 'll.

What will you do?

The weather will be warm and dry tomorrow.

He 'll be here soon.

I 'll give you a call.

- Just as in English, you can use the present tense in German to refer to something that is going to happen in the future.

Wir fahren nächstes Jahr nach Griechenland.

We're going to Greece next year.

Ich nehme den letzten Zug heute Abend.

I'm taking the last train tonight.

- The future tense IS used however to:

- emphasize the future

Das werde ich erst nächstes Jahr machen können.

I won't be able to do that until next year.

- express doubt or suppose something about the future

Wenn sie zurückkommt, wird sie mir bestimmt helfen.

I'm sure she'll help me when she returns.

- In English we often use going to followed by an infinitive to talk about something that will happen in the immediate future. You CANNOT use the German verb gehen (meaning to go) followed by an infinitive in the same way. Instead, you use either the present or the future tense.

Das wirst du bereuen.

You're going to regret that.

Wenn er sich nicht beeilt, verpasst er den Zug.

He's going to miss the train if he doesn't hurry up.

2 Forming the future tense

- The future tense has TWO parts to it and is formed in the same way for all verbs, be they weak, strong or mixed:

- the present tense of the strong verb werden (meaning to become), which acts as an auxiliary verb like haben and sein in the perfect tense

| Pronoun | Ending | Present Tense | Meanings |
|-----------------|------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| ich | -e | ich werde | I become |
| du | -st | du wirst | you become |
| er sie es | - | er wird sie wird es wird | he/she/it becomes |
| wir | -en | wir werden | we become |
| ihr | -t | ihr werdet | you (plural) become |
| sie Sie | -en -en | sie werden Sie werden | they become you (polite) become |

- the infinitive of the main verb, which normally goes at the end of the clause or sentence.

| Pronoun | Present Tense of werden | Infinitive of Main Verb | Meanings |
|-----------------|-------------------------|-------------------------|--|
| ich | werde | holen | I will fetch |
| du | wirst | holen | you will fetch |
| er sie es | wird | holen | he/she/it will fetch |
| wir | werden | holen | we will fetch |
| ihr | werdet | holen | you (plural) will fetch |
| sie Sie | werden | holen | they will fetch you (polite) will fetch |

Morgen werde ich mein Fahrrad holen. I'll fetch my bike tomorrow.
 Sie wird dir meine Adresse geben. She'll give you my address.
 Wir werden draußen warten. We'll wait outside.

- [i] Note that in reflexive verbs, the reflexive pronoun comes after the present tense of werden.

Ich werde mich nächste Woche vorbereiten. I'll prepare next week.

Key points

- ✓ You can use a present tense in German to talk about something that will happen or be true in the future, just as in English.
- ✓ The future tense is formed from the present tense of werden and the infinitive of the main verb.
- ✓ You CANNOT use gehen with an infinitive to refer to things that will happen in the immediate future.
- ✓ The future tense is used to emphasize the future and express doubt or suppose something about the future.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

The conditional

What is the conditional?

The conditional is a verb form used to talk about things that would happen or that would be true under certain conditions, for example, I would help you if I could. It is also used to say what you would like or need, for example, Could you give me the bill?

1 Using the conditional

- You can often recognize a conditional in English by the word would or its shortened form 'd.

I would be sad if you left.

If you asked him, he'd help you.

- In German, the conditional is also used to express would.

Ich würde dir schon helfen, ich habe aber keine Zeit.
 Was würden Sie an meiner Stelle tun?

I would help you, but I don't have the time.
 What would you do in my position?

2 Forming the conditional

- The conditional has TWO parts to it and is formed in the same way for all verbs, be they weak, strong or mixed:

- the würde form or subjunctive of the verb werden (meaning to become)
- the infinitive of the main verb, which normally goes at the end of the clause.

| Pronoun | Subjunctive of werden | Infinitive of Main Verb | Meanings |
|-----------------|-----------------------|-------------------------|--|
| ich | würde | holen | I would fetch |
| du | würdest | holen | you would fetch |
| er sie es | würde | holen | he/she/it would fetch |
| wir | würden | holen | we would fetch |
| ihr | würdet | holen | you (plural) would fetch |
| sie Sie | würden | holen | they would fetch you (polite) would fetch |

Das würde ich nie machen.

I would never do that.

Würdest du mir etwas Geld leihen?

Would you lend me some money?

Würden Sie jemals mit dem Rauchen aufhören?

Would you ever stop smoking?

- [i] Note that you have to be careful not to mix up the present tense of werden, used to form the future tense, and the subjunctive of werden, used to form the conditional. They look similar.

| FUTURE USE | CONDITIONAL USE |
|-----------------------|------------------------|
| ich werde | ich würde |
| du wirst | du würdest |
| er/sie/es wird | er/sie/es würde |
| wir werden | wir würden |
| ihr werdet | ihr würdet |
| sie/Sie werden | sie/Sie würden |

Key points

- ✓ The conditional tense is formed from the subjunctive or würde part of werden and the infinitive of the main verb.
- ✓ The conditional tense is often used with the subjunctive.

The pluperfect tense

What is the pluperfect tense?

The pluperfect is a verb tense which describes something that had happened or had been true at a point in the past, for example, I'd forgotten to finish my homework.

1 Using the pluperfect tense

- You can often recognize a pluperfect tense in English by a form like I had arrived, you'd fallen.

Sie waren schon weggefahren.

They had already left.

Diese Bücher hatten sie schon gelesen.

They had already read these books.

Meine Eltern waren schon ins Bett gegangen.

My parents had gone to bed early.

- [i] Note that when translating had done/had been doing in conjunction with seit/seitdem, you use the imperfect tense in German.

Sie machte es seit Jahren.

She had been doing it for years.

- ➡ For more information on the Imperfect tense, see page 118.

2 Forming the pluperfect tense

- Like the perfect tense, the pluperfect tense in German has two parts to it:
- the imperfect tense of the verb haben (meaning to have) or sein (meaning to be)
 - the past participle.
- If a verb takes haben in the perfect tense, then it will take haben in the pluperfect too. If a verb takes sein in the perfect, then it will take sein in the pluperfect.

- ➡ For more information on the Imperfect tense and the Perfect tense, see pages 118 and 113.

3 Verbs taking haben

- Here are the pluperfect tense forms of haben (meaning to fetch) in full.

| Pronoun | haben | Past Participle | Meanings |
|-----------------|---------|-----------------|--------------------------|
| ich | hatte | geholt | I had fetched |
| du | hattest | geholt | you had fetched |
| er sie es | hatte | geholt | he/she/it had fetched |
| wir | hatten | geholt | we had fetched |
| ihr | hattet | geholt | you (plural) had fetched |
| sie | hatten | geholt | they had fetched |
| Sie | | | you (polite) had fetched |

Ich hatte schon mit ihm gesprochen. I had already spoken to him.

4 Verbs taking sein

► Here are the pluperfect tense forms of reisen (meaning to travel) in full.

| Pronoun | sein | Past Participle | Meanings |
|-----------------|-------|-----------------|----------------------------|
| ich | war | gereist | I had travelled |
| du | warst | gereist | you had travelled |
| er sie es | war | gereist | he/she/it had travelled |
| wir | waren | gereist | we had travelled |
| ihr | wart | gereist | you (plural) had travelled |
| sie | waren | gereist | they had travelled |
| Sie | | | you (polite) had travelled |

Sie war sehr spät angekommen. She had arrived very late.

Key points

- ✓ The pluperfect tense describes things that had happened or were true at a point in the past before something else happened.
- ✓ It is formed with the imperfect tense of haben or sein and the past participle.
- ✓ Verbs which take haben in the perfect tense will take haben in the pluperfect tense and those which take sein in the perfect tense will take sein in the pluperfect tense.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

The subjunctive

What is the subjunctive?

The subjunctive is a verb form that is used in certain circumstances to express some sort of feeling, or to show there is doubt about whether something will happen or whether something is true. It is only used occasionally in modern English, for example, If I were you, I wouldn't bother; So be it.

1 Using the subjunctive

► In German, subjunctive forms are used much more frequently than in English, to express uncertainty, speculation or doubt.

Es könnte doch wahr sein. It could be true.

► Subjunctives are also commonly used in indirect speech, also known as reported speech. What a person asks or thinks can be reported directly:

Sie sagte: „Er kennt deine Schwester“ She said, "He knows your sister"

OR indirectly:

Sie sagte, er kenne meine Schwester. She said he knew my sister.

i Note that the change from direct to indirect speech is indicated by a change of tense in English, but is shown by a change to the subjunctive form in German.

Grammar Extra!

► There are two ways of introducing indirect speech in German, as in English:

- The conjunction dass (meaning that) begins the clause containing the indirect speech and the verb goes to the end of the clause.

Sie hat uns gesagt, dass sie Italienisch spreche. She told us that she spoke Italian.

- dass is dropped and normal word order applies in the second clause – the verb comes directly after the subject.

Sie hat uns gesagt, sie spreche Italienisch. She told us she spoke Italian.

► If you want to express a possible situation in English, for example, I would be happy if you came, you use 'if' followed by the appropriate tense of the verb. In German you use the conjunction wenn followed by a subjunctive form of the verb.

i Note that the verb ALWAYS goes to the end of a clause beginning with wenn.

- wenn (meaning if, whenever)

Wenn du käm(e)st (subjunctive), wäre (subjunctive) ich froh.

OR

Wenn du käm(e)st, würde ich froh sein. I would be happy if you came.

- 7 Note that the main clause can either have a subjunctive form or the conditional tense.

Wenn es mir nicht gefielen, würde ich es nicht bezahlen.

OR

Wenn es mir nicht gefielen, bezahlte (subjunctive) ich es nicht. If I wasn't happy with it, I wouldn't pay for it.

Tip

The imperfect forms of bezahlen, and of all weak verbs, are exactly the same as the imperfect subjunctive forms, so it's better to use a conditional tense to avoid confusion.

- wenn ... nur (meaning if only), selbst wenn (meaning even if or even though) and wie (meaning how) work in the same way as wenn. This means that the normal word order is changed and the verb comes at the end of the clause.

- wenn ... nur

Wenn wir nur erfolgreich wären! If only we were successful!

- selbst wenn

Selbst wenn er etwas wüsste, würde er nichts sagen. Even if he knew about it, he wouldn't say anything.

- wie, expressing uncertainty

Er wunderte sich, wie es ihr wohl ginge. He wondered how she was.

- Unlike wenn and wie etc, the word order does not change after als (meaning as if or as though) when it is used in conditional clauses: it is immediately followed by the verb.

Sie sah aus, als sei sie krank. She looked as if she were ill.

Tip

It is quite common to hear the subjunctive used when someone is asking you something politely, for example, the person serving you in a shop might ask:

Wäre da sonst noch etwas? Will there be anything else?

2 Forming the present subjunctive

- The three main forms of the subjunctive are the present subjunctive, the imperfect subjunctive and the pluperfect subjunctive.
- The present subjunctive of weak, strong and mixed verbs has the same endings:

| Pronoun | Present Subjunctive: Weak and Strong Verb Endings |
|-----------|--|
| ich | -e |
| du | -est |
| er/sie/es | -e |
| wir | -en |
| ihr | -et |
| sie/Sie | -en |

- holen (weak verb, meaning to fetch) ich hole I fetch du holest you fetch

- fahren (strong verb, meaning to drive, to go) ich fahre I drive, I go du fahrest you drive, you go

- denken (mixed verb, meaning to think) ich denke I think du denkest you think

Tip

The present and the present subjunctive endings are exactly the same for the ich, wir and sie/Sie forms.

3 Forming the imperfect subjunctive

- The imperfect subjunctive is very common and is not always used to describe actions in the past. It can, for example, express the future.

Wenn ich nur früher kommen könnte! If only I could come earlier!

- The imperfect tense and the imperfect subjunctive of weak verbs are identical.

| Pronoun | Imperfect/Imperfect Subjunctive | Meaning |
|-----------|---------------------------------|---------------------------|
| ich | holte | I fetched |
| du | holtest | you fetched |
| er/sie/es | holte | he/she/it fetched |
| wir | holten | we fetched |
| ihr | holtet | you (plural) fetched |
| sie/Sie | holten | they/you (polite) fetched |

- The imperfect subjunctive of strong verbs is formed by adding the following endings to the stem of the imperfect. If there is an a, o or u in this stem, an umlaut is also added to it.

| Pronoun | Imperfect Subjunctive: Strong Verb Endings |
|-----------|---|
| ich | -e |
| du | -(e)st |
| er/sie/es | -e |
| wir | -en |
| ihr | -(e)t |
| sie/Sie | -en |

- i Note that you add the -e to the du and ihr parts of the verb if it makes pronunciation easier, for example:

du stießest ihr stießet

you pushed you pushed

| Pronoun | Imperfect Subjunctive | Meaning |
|-----------|-----------------------|------------------------|
| ich | gäbe | I gave |
| du | gäb(e)st | you gave |
| er/sie/es | gäbe | he/she/it gave |
| wir | gäben | we gave |
| ihr | gäb(e)t | you (plural) gave |
| sie/Sie | gäben | they/you (polite) gave |

- The imperfect subjunctive forms of the mixed verbs brennen, kennen, senden, nennen, rennen and wenden add weak verb imperfect endings to the stem of the verb, which DOES NOT change the vowel. The imperfect subjunctive forms of the remaining mixed verbs bringen, denken and wissen are also the same as the imperfect with one major difference: not only does the stem vowel change, but an umlaut is also added to the a or u. However, all of these forms are rare, with the conditional tense being used much more frequently instead.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Wenn ich du wäre, würde ich rennen.

INSTEAD OF

Wenn ich du wäre, rennte ich.

If I were you, I would run.

Ich würde so etwas nie denken!

INSTEAD OF

Ich dünkte so etwas nie!

I would never think such a thing!

➡ For more information on the Conditional, see page 125.

Grammar Extra!

The pluperfect subjunctive is formed from the imperfect subjunctive of haben or sein + the past participle. This subjunctive form is frequently used to translate the English structure 'If I had done something, ...'

Wenn ich Geld gehabt hätte, wäre ich gereist.

If I had had money,
I would have travelled.

Key points

- ✓ In German, subjunctive forms are used much more frequently than in English, to express uncertainty, speculation or doubt.
- ✓ Subjunctive forms are commonly used in indirect speech and in conditional sentences.
- ✓ The present subjunctive of weak, strong and mixed verbs have the same endings.
- ✓ The imperfect tense and the imperfect subjunctive of weak verbs are identical.
- ✓ The imperfect subjunctive of strong verbs is formed by adding the endings -e, -(e)st, -e, -en, -(e)t, -en to the stem of the imperfect and often has an umlaut change.
- ✓ The imperfect subjunctive of mixed verbs is rare and the conditional form of würde + infinitive is normally used instead.

The infinitive

What is the infinitive?

The infinitive is the 'to' form of the verb, for example, to go, and is the form you look up in a dictionary. It is the -en form of the verb in German.

Using the infinitive

► zu is used with the infinitive:

- after other verbs

Ich versuchte zu kommen.

I tried to come.

- after adjectives

Es war leicht zu sehen.

It was easy to see.

Es ist schwierig zu verstehen.

It's hard to understand.

- after nouns

Ich habe keine Zeit, Sport zu treiben.

I don't have the time to do any sport.

Ich habe keine Lust, meine Hausaufgaben zu machen.

I don't want to do my homework.

► The infinitive is used without zu after the following:

- modal verbs, such as können (meaning to be able, can)

Sie kann gut schwimmen.

She can swim very well.

➡ For more information on Modal verbs, see page 136.

Tip

The English -ing form is often translated by the German infinitive, as shown in some of the examples below.

- the verbs lassen (meaning to stop, to leave), bleiben (meaning to stay) and gehen (meaning to go)

Sie ließen uns warten.

They kept us waiting.

Sie blieb sitzen.

She remained seated.

Er ging einkaufen.

He went shopping.

- verbs of perception such as hören (meaning to hear, to listen (to)) and sehen (meaning to see, to watch)

Ich sah ihn kommen.

I saw him coming.

Er hörte sie singen.

He heard her singing.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

► The infinitive can be used to give an order or instruction.

Bitte nicht in diesen Zug einsteigen! Please don't board this train!

► It can also be used as a noun with a capital letter. It is always neuter.

rauchen = to smoke

Sie hat das Rauchen aufgegeben.

She's given up smoking.

Key points

- ✓ The infinitive is the 'to' form of the verb, the one you look up in a dictionary.
- ✓ zu is used with the infinitive after other verbs, adjectives and nouns.
- ✓ The infinitive is used WITHOUT zu after certain verbs, mostly modal verbs.
- ✓ The infinitive can be used to give an order or instruction.
- ✓ It can be used as a noun with a capital letter and is always neuter.

Modal verbs

What are modal verbs?

Modal verbs are used to modify or change other verbs to show such things as ability, permission or necessity. For example, he can swim; may I come?; we ought to go.

1 Using modal verbs

➤ In German, the modal verbs are dürfen, können, mögen, müssen, sollen and wollen.

➤ Modal verbs are different from other verbs in their conjugation, which is shown in the Verb Tables.

➡ For Verb Tables, see supplement.

➤ Here are the main uses of dürfen:

- Meaning to be allowed to or may Darfst du mit ins Kino kommen? Are you allowed to/can you come to the cinema with us?
- Meaning must not or may not Ich darf keine Schokolade essen. I mustn't eat any chocolate.
- Expressing politeness
Darf ich? May I?

➤ Here are the main uses of können:

- Meaning to be able to or can Wir können es nicht schaffen. We can't make it.
- Meaning would be able to or could Könntest du morgen hingefahren? Could you go there tomorrow?
- As a more common, informal alternative to dürfen, with the meaning to be allowed to or can Kann ich/darf ich einen Kaffee haben? Can I/may I have a coffee?
- Expressing possibility
Das kann sein. That may be so.
Das kann nicht sein. That can't be true.

➤ Here are the main uses of mögen:

- Meaning to like, when expressing likes and dislikes
Magst du Schokolade? Do you like chocolate?
Sie mögen es nicht. They don't like it.
- Meaning would like to, when expressing wishes and polite requests Möchtest du sie besuchen? Would you like to visit her?
Möchten Sie etwas trinken? Would you like something to drink?

- Expressing possibility or probability

Es mag sein, dass es falsch war.

It may well be that it was wrong.

➤ Here are the main uses of müssen:

- Meaning to have to or must or need to

Sie musste jeden Tag um sechs aufstehen.

She had to get up at six o'clock every day.

- Certain common, informal uses

Muss das sein?

Is that really necessary?

Den Film muss man gesehen haben.

That film is worth seeing.

❗ Note that you can use a negative form of brauchen (meaning to need) instead of müssen for don't have to or need not

Das brauchst du nicht zu sagen.

You don't have to say that.

➤ Here are the main uses of sollen:

- Meaning ought to or should

Das sollten Sie sofort machen.

You ought to do that straight away.

Sie wusste nicht, was sie tun sollte.

She didn't know what to do (what she should do)

- Meaning to be (supposed) to where someone else has asked you to do something

Du sollst deine Freundin anrufen.

You are to/should phone your girlfriend (she has left a message asking you to ring)

- Meaning to be said to be

Sie soll sehr reich sein.

I've heard she's very rich/
She is said to be very rich

➤ Here are the main uses of wollen:

- Meaning to want or to want to

Sie will Lkw-Fahrerin werden.

She wants to be a lorry driver.

- As a common, informal alternative to mögen, meaning to want or wish

Willst du eins?

Do you want one?

Willst du/möchtest du etwas trinken?

Do you want/would you like something to drink?

- Meaning to be willing to

Er will nichts sagen.

He refuses to say anything.

- Expressing something you previously intended to do

Ich wollte gerade anrufen.

I was just about to phone.

2 Modal verb forms

➤ Modal verbs have unusual present tenses:

| dürfen | können | mögen |
|--------------------|--------------------|-------------------|
| ich darf | ich kann | ich mag |
| du darfst | du kannst | du magst |
| er/sie/es/man darf | er/sie/es/man kann | er/sie/es/man mag |
| wir dürfen | wir können | wir mögen |
| ihr dürft | ihr könnt | ihr mögt |
| sie/Sie dürfen | sie/Sie können | sie/Sie mögen |

| müssen | sollen | wollen |
|--------------------|--------------------|--------------------|
| ich muss | ich soll | ich will |
| du musst | du sollst | du willst |
| er/sie/es/man muss | er/sie/es/man soll | er/sie/es/man will |
| wir müssen | wir sollen | wir wollen |
| ihr müsst | ihr sollt | ihr wollt |
| sie/Sie müssen | sie/Sie sollen | sie/Sie wollen |

➤ In tenses consisting of one verb part, the infinitive of the verb used with the modal comes at the end of the sentence or clause.

Sie kann sehr gut schwimmen. She is a very good swimmer.

Grammar Extra!

In sentences with modal verbs where the other verb expresses movement, it can be dropped if there is an adverb or adverbial phrase to show movement instead.

Ich muss nach Hause. I must go home.
Die Kinder sollen jetzt ins Bett. The children have to go to bed now.

➡ For more information on Adverbs, see page 57.

Key points

- ✓ Modal verbs are used to modify the meaning of other verbs.
- ✓ In German, the modal verbs are dürfen, können, mögen, müssen, sollen and wollen.
- ✓ Modal verbs are different from other verbs in their conjugation.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Impersonal verbs

What is an impersonal verb?

An impersonal verb is one that does not relate to a real person or thing and where the subject is represented by it, for example, It's going to rain; It's ten o'clock.

➤ In German, impersonal verbs are used with es (meaning it) and the third person singular form of the verb.

Es regnet. It's raining.
Es gibt ein Problem. There's a problem.

➤ Here are the most common impersonal verbs. In some of these expressions it is possible to drop the es, in which case a personal pronoun such as mich or mir begins the clause. For example:

Es ist mir egal, ob er mitkommt
OR
Mir ist egal, ob er mitkommt I don't care if he comes with us.

➡ For more information on Personal pronouns, see page 70.

➤ These expressions are marked with a * in the list below:

- es freut mich, dass/zu I am glad that/to.
Es freut mich, dass du gekommen bist. I'm pleased that you have come.
- Es freut mich, Sie in unserer Stadt begrüßen zu dürfen. I'm pleased to welcome you to our town.
- es gefällt mir I like it.
Es gefällt mir gar nicht. I don't like it at all.
- es geht mir gut/schlecht. I'm fine/not too good.
- es geht nicht. it's not possible
- es geht um it's about
Es geht um die Liebe. It's about love.
- es gelingt mir (zu) I succeed (in)
Es ist mir gelungen, ihn zu überzeugen. I managed to convince him.
- es handelt sich um it's a question of Es handelt sich um Zeit und Geld. It's a question of time and money.
- es hängt davon ab it depends
Es hängt davon ab, ob ich arbeiten muss. It depends whether I have to work or not.

- es hat keinen Zweck.
- es ist mir egal (ob)
Es ist mir egal, ob du kommst oder nicht.
- es ist möglich(, dass)
Es ist doch möglich, dass sie ihr Handy nicht dabei hat.
- es ist nötig
Es wird nicht nötig sein, mir Bescheid zu sagen.
- es ist schade(, dass)
Es ist schade, dass sie nicht kommt.
- es ist mir warm OR es ist mir kalt
- es klingelt
Es hat gerade geklingelt.
- es klopft
- es kommt darauf an(, ob)
Es kommt darauf an, ob ich arbeiten muss.
- es lohnt sich (nicht)
Ich weiß nicht, ob es sich lohnt oder nicht.
- es macht nichts
- es macht nichts aus
Macht es dir etwas aus, wenn wir morgen gehen?
- es stimmt, dass ...
Es stimmt, dass sie keine Zeit hat.
- es tut mir leid(, dass) ...
- wie geht es (dir)?
- Mir wird schlecht

There's no point.
it's all the same to me (if)
I don't care if you come or not.
it's possible (that)
It's always possible she doesn't have her mobile with her.
it's necessary
It won't be necessary to let me know.
it's a pity (that)
It's a pity (that) she isn't coming.
I'm warm OR I'm cold someone's ringing the bell OR the phone is ringing
The bell just went OR the phone just rang.
someone's knocking (at the door)
it all depends (whether)
It all depends whether I have to work.
it's (not) worth it
I don't know if it's worth it or not.
it doesn't matter
it makes no difference
Would you mind if we went tomorrow?
it's true that ...
It's true that she doesn't have any time.
I'm sorry(that) ...
How are you?
I feel sick

► All weather verbs are impersonal.

| Infinitive | Expression | Meaning |
|---------------------|-----------------------|-------------------------------|
| donnern und blitzen | es donnert und blitzt | there's thunder and lightning |
| frieren | es friert | it's freezing |
| gießen | es gießt | it's pouring |
| regnen | es regnet | it's raining |
| schneien | es schneit | it's snowing |
| sein | es ist warm/kalt | it's cold/warm |

Key points

- ✓ Impersonal verbs are used with es (meaning it) and the third person singular form of the verb.
- ✓ All weather verbs are impersonal.

There is/There are

► There are two main ways of expressing this in German.

1 Es gibt

- This is always used in the singular form and is followed by a singular or plural object in the accusative case.

Es gibt zu viele Probleme dabei. There are too many problems involved.

Es gibt keinen besseren Wein. There is no better wine.

- Es gibt is used to refer to things of a general nature.

Es gibt bestimmt Regen. It's definitely going to rain.

Wenn wir zu spät kommen, gibt es Ärger. If we arrive late, there'll be trouble.

- It is often used informally.

Was gibts (=gibt es) zu essen? What is there to eat?

Was gibts? What's wrong?, What's up?

So was gibts doch nicht! That's impossible!

2 Es ist/es sind

- Here, the es simply introduces the real subject of the sentence, so if the subject is plural, es sind is used. The subject is in the nominative case.

Es sind kaum Leute da. There are hardly any people there.

- Where the subject and verb swap places in the clause or sentence, the es is dropped.

Da sind kaum Leute. There are hardly any people there.

 Note that es gibt is frequently used instead of es ist/es sind in the above two examples.

- Es ist or es sind are used to refer to a temporary situation.

Es war niemand da. There was no-one there.

- They are also used to begin a story.

Es war einmal eine Königin. Once upon a time there was a Queen ...

Key point

- ✓ In German there are two main ways of translating there is/there are: es gibt and es ist/es sind.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Use of "es" as an anticipatory object

- The object of many verbs can be a clause beginning with dass (meaning that) or an infinitive with zu.

Er wusste, dass wir pünktlich kommen würden.

He knew that we would come on time.

Sie fing an zu lachen.

She began to laugh.

- With some verbs, es is often used as the object to anticipate this clause or infinitive phrase.

Er hatte es abgelehnt, mitzukommen. He refused to come.

- When the dass clause or infinitive phrase begins the sentence, es is not used in the main clause. Instead, it can be replaced by the pronoun das (meaning that).

Dass es Karla war, das haben wir ihr verschwiegen.

-  Note that dass is a subordinating conjunction and das is a demonstrative pronoun.

➡ For more information on Subordinating conjunctions, see page 172.

- The following common verbs usually have the es object.

- es ablehnen, zu ... to refuse to
- es aushalten, zu tun/dass ... to stand doing
- Ich halte es nicht mehr aus, bei ihnen zu arbeiten. I can't stand working for them any longer.
- es ertragen, zu tun/dass ... to bear doing
- Ich ertrage es nicht, dass sie mir widerspricht. I can't bear her contradicting me.
- es leicht haben, zu ... to find it easy to
- Sie hatte es nicht leicht, sie zu überreden. She didn't have an easy job persuading them.
- es nötig haben, zu ... to need to
- Ich habe es nicht nötig, mit dir darüber zu reden. I don't have to talk to you about it.
- es satt haben, zu ... to have had enough of (doing)
- Ich habe es satt, englische Verben zu lernen. I've had enough of learning English verbs.
- es verstehen, zu ... to know how to
- Sie versteht es, Autos zu reparieren. She knows about repairing cars.

► The following common verbs often have the es object.

- | | |
|---|---|
| • es jemandem anhören/ansetzen, dass ... | to tell by listening to/looking at someone that |
| Man hörte es ihm an, dass er kein Deutscher war. | You could tell by listening to him that he wasn't German. |
| • es bereuen, zu tun/dass ... | to regret having done/that |
| Ich bereue es nicht, dass ich gekommen bin. | I don't regret coming. |
| • es jemandem verbieten, zu ... | to forbid someone to |
| Ihre Mutter hat es ihr verboten, dort hinzugehen. | Her mother forbade her to go there. |
| es wagen zu ... | to dare to |
| Er wagte es nicht, ein neues Auto zu kaufen. | He didn't dare buy a new car. |

Key points

- ✓ The object of many verbs can be a clause beginning with dass (meaning that) or an infinitive with zu.
- ✓ With some verbs, es is used as the object to anticipate this clause or infinitive phrase.
- ✓ When the dass clause or infinitive phrase begins the sentence, es is not used in the main clause. Instead, it can be replaced by the pronoun das (meaning that).

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Verbs followed by prepositions

► Some English verbs must be followed by prepositions for certain meanings, for example, to wait for, to ask for. This also happens in German:

| | |
|--------------------------------|--------------------|
| sich sehnen nach | to long for |
| warten auf | to wait for |
| bitten um | to ask for |

Tip

As you can see from the examples above, the preposition that is used in German is not always the same as the one that is used in English. Whenever you learn a new verb, try to learn which preposition is used after it too.

► As in English, using different prepositions with a verb creates completely different meanings.

| | |
|--------------------------------|----------------------|
| bestehen | to pass (a test etc) |
| bestehen aus | to consist of |
| bestehen auf | to insist on |
| sich freuen auf | to look forward to |
| sich freuen über | to be pleased about |

 Note that you occasionally need to use a preposition with a German verb whose English equivalent does not have one.

| | |
|--------------------------------|------------|
| diskutieren über | to discuss |
|--------------------------------|------------|

► Prepositions used with these verbs behave like normal prepositions and affect the case of the following noun in the normal way. For instance, with verbs followed by für the accusative case is always used.

| | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| sich interessieren für | to be interested in |
| Sie interessiert sich nicht für den neuen Wagen. | She isn't interested in the new car. |

► A verb plus preposition is not always followed by a noun or pronoun. It can also be followed by a clause containing another verb. This is often used to translate an -ing form in English and is dealt with in one of two ways:

- If the verbs in both parts of the sentence have the same subject, da- or dar- is added to the beginning of the preposition and the following verb becomes an infinitive used with zu.

| | |
|--|--|
| Ich freue mich sehr darauf, mal wieder mit ihr zu arbeiten. | I am looking forward to working with her again. |
|--|--|

- If the subject is not the same for both verbs, a dass (meaning that) clause is used.

Ich freue mich sehr darauf, dass du morgen kommst.

I am looking forward to you coming tomorrow.

1 Verbs followed by a preposition + the accusative case

- The following list contains the most common verbs followed by a preposition plus the accusative case:

- | | |

| ● sich verstehen mit Sie versteht sich ganz gut mit ihr. | to get along with, get on with She gets on really well with her. |

Key points

- ✓ German prepositions after verbs are often not the same as the ones used in English.
- ✓ Using different prepositions with a verb creates completely different meanings.
- ✓ German verbs occasionally use prepositions where their English equivalents don't.
- ✓ Prepositions used with verbs behave like normal prepositions and affect the case of the following noun.

Verbs followed by the dative case

1 Verbs with a direct and indirect object

- Some verbs are generally used with a direct object and an indirect object. For example, in the English sentence, She gave me a book, the direct object of gave is a book and would be in the accusative case in German, and me (= to me) is the indirect object and would be in the dative case in German.

Sie gab mir ein Buch. She gave me a book.

direct object = ein Buch

indirect object = mir

- In German, as in English, this type of verb is usually concerned with giving or telling someone something, or with doing something for someone else.

Sie erzählte ihm eine Geschichte. She told him a story.

direct object = eine Geschichte

indirect object = ihm

- ❗ Note that the normal word order after such verbs is for the direct object to follow the indirect, EXCEPT where the direct object is a personal pronoun.

Kaufst du mir das Buch? Will you buy me the book?

BUT

Kaufst du es mir? Will you buy it for me?

- ➡ For more information on Direct and Indirect object pronouns, see pages 74-77.

- Here are some of the most common examples of verbs which are used with both a direct and an indirect object:

- anbieten to offer
Sie bot ihr die Arbeitsstelle an. She offered her the job.
- bringen to bring
Bringst du mir eins? Will you bring me one?
- beweisen to prove
Können Sie es mir beweisen? Can you prove it to me?
- fehlen to be absent or missing
Mir fehlt das nötige Geld. I don't have enough money.
- geben to give
Gib mir das sofort! Give me that now!

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- schenken to give (as a present)
Ich schenke ihr einen Computer zum Geburtstag. I'm giving her a computer for her birthday.
- schreiben to write
Schreib ihm mal einen Brief. Write him a letter sometime.
- zeigen to show
Zeig es mir! Show me it!

2 Verbs with their object in the dative

- Certain verbs in German, such as helfen (meaning to help) can ONLY be followed by an object in the dative case. In many cases, their English equivalents have a direct object, and you need to learn the most common verbs which are different in this way.

- Here are some of the most common ones.

- begegnen to bump into, meet
Er ist seinem Freund in der Stadt begegnet. He bumped into his friend in town.
- gehören to belong to Wem gehört dieses Buch? Whose book is this?
- helfen to help
Er wollte ihr nicht helfen. He refused to help her.
- danken to thank
Ich danke dir! Thank you!
- schaden to damage
Rauchen schadet der Gesundheit. Smoking is bad for your health.
- schmecken to taste
Das Essen hat ihnen gut geschmeckt. They enjoyed the meal.
- trauen to trust
Ich traue dir nicht. I don't trust you.

Key points

- ✓ Some German verbs are usually used with a direct AND an indirect object.
- ✓ The indirect object is ALWAYS in the dative case.
- ✓ The normal word order after such verbs is for the direct object to follow the indirect, EXCEPT where the direct object is a personal pronoun.
- ✓ Certain German verbs can only be followed by an object in the dative case.

The passive

What is the passive?

The passive is the form of the verb that is used when the subject of the verb is the person or thing that is affected by the action, for example, I was given, we were told, it had been made.

1 Using the passive

- In a normal, or active sentence, the 'subject' of the verb is the person or thing that carries out the action described by the verb. The 'object' of the verb is the person or thing that the verb 'happens' to.

Ryan (subject) hit (active verb) me (object).

- In English, as in German, you can turn an active sentence round to make a passive sentence.

I (subject) was hit (passive verb) by Ryan (agent).

- Very often, however, you cannot identify who is carrying out the action indicated by the verb.

I was hit in the face.

The trees will be chopped down.

I've been chosen to represent the school.

2 Forming the passive

- In English we use the verb to be with the past participle (was hit, was given) to form the passive and the word 'by' usually introduces the agent. In German the passive is formed using werden and the past participle, while the agent is introduced by

- von, for a person or organisation,
- or durch, for a thing.

Das Kind wurde von einem Hund gebissen.

The child was bitten by a dog.

Die Tür wurde durch den Wind geöffnet.

The door was opened by the wind.

- For more information on the Past participle, see page 114.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- Here is the present tense of the verb sehen (meaning to see) in its passive form.

ich werde gesehen du wirst gesehen er/sie/es wird gesehen
wir werden gesehen ihr werdet gesehen
sie/Sie werden gesehen.

I am seen you are seen he/she/it is seen
we are seen
you (plural) are seen they/you (formal) are seen

Tip

There is/there are can be translated by a verb in the passive tense in German.

Es wird immer viel getrunken auf seiner Party.

There is always a lot of drinking at his party.

- You can form other tenses of the passive by changing the tense of the verb werden, for example, the imperfect passive.

ich wurde gesehen

I was seen

- For more information on the Imperfect tense, see page 118.

Tip

There is a very important difference between German and English in sentences containing an indirect object. In English we can quite easily turn a normal (active) sentence with an indirect object into a passive sentence.

Active

Someone (subject) gave (active verb) me (indirect object) a book (direct object).

Passive

I (subject) was given (passive verb) a book (direct object).

In German, an indirect object can NEVER become the subject of a passive verb. Instead, the indirect object must remain in the dative case, with either the direct object becoming the subject of the passive sentence OR use of an impersonal passive construction.

Ein Buch (subject) wurde mir geschenkt.

3 Avoiding the passive

► Passives are not as common in German as in English. There are three main ways that German speakers express the same idea.

- by using the pronoun man (meaning they or one) with a normal, active verb.

Man hatte es mir schon gesagt. I had already been told.

[i] Note that man is not always translated as they or one.

Man hatte es schon verkauft. It had already been sold.

- by using sich lassen plus a verb in the infinitive.

Das lässt sich machen. That can be done.

- by using an active tense where the agent of the action is known.

Susi schenkte ihr ein Auto. Susi gave her a car.

INSTEAD OF

Ihr wurde von Susi ein Auto geschenkt. She was given a car by Susi.

Key points

- ✓ The present tense of the passive is formed by using the present tense of werden with the past participle.
- ✓ In German, an indirect object can NEVER become the subject of a passive verb.
- ✓ You can often avoid a passive construction by using the pronoun man or sich lassen plus an infinitive or an active tense where the agent is known.

PREPOSITIONS

What is a preposition?

A preposition is a word such as at, for, with, into or from, which is usually followed by a noun, pronoun or, in English, a word ending in -ing. Prepositions show how people and things relate to the rest of the sentence, for example, She's at home; a tool for cutting grass; it's from David.

Using prepositions

► Prepositions are used in front of nouns and pronouns (such as me, him, the man and so on), and show the relationship between the noun or pronoun and the rest of the sentence. Some prepositions can be used before verb forms ending in -ing in English.

I showed my ticket to the inspector.

Come with me.

This brush is really good for cleaning shoes.

➡ For more information on Nouns and Pronouns, see pages 1 and 69.

► In English, a preposition does not affect the word or phrase it introduces, for example:

the inspector to the inspector me with me cleaning shoes

for cleaning shoes

► In German, however, the noun following a preposition must be put into the accusative, genitive or dative case.

Tip

It is important to learn each preposition with the case or cases it governs.

1 Prepositions followed by the dative case

► Some of the most common prepositions taking the dative case are:
aus, außer, bei, gegenüber, mit, nach, seit, von, zu

- aus out of, from

Er trinkt aus der Flasche.

He is drinking out of the bottle.

Sie kommt aus Essen.

She comes from Essen.

- außer out of; except

Der Fahrstuhl war außer Betrieb.
Der Patient ist jetzt außer Gefahr.
alle außer mir kamen zu spät.

The lift was out of order.
The patient is out of danger now.
all except me came too late.

- bei at the home/shop/work etc of; near

Feiern wir bei uns?
Bei uns in Schottland ist das kein Problem.
Sie ist beim Bäcker.
Er ist noch beim Friseur.
Er wohnt immer noch bei seinen Eltern.

Shall we celebrate at our house?
At home in Scotland that isn't a problem.
She is at the baker's.
He is still at the hairdresser's.
He still lives with his parents.

- ❓ Note that bei plus the definite article can be shortened to beim.

➡ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

- gegenüber opposite; towards

Er wohnt uns gegenüber.
Sie ist mir gegenüber immer sehr freundlich gewesen.

He lives opposite us.
She has always been very friendly towards me.

- ❓ Note that when used as a preposition, gegenüber is placed AFTER a pronoun, but can be placed BEFORE or AFTER a noun.

- mit with

Er ging mit seinen Freunden spazieren.

He went for a walk with his friends.

- nach after; to

Nach zwei Stunden kam er wieder.
Sie ist nach London gereist.
Ihrer Sprache nach ist sie Süddeutsche.

He returned two hours later.
She went to London.
From the way she talks I would say she is from southern Germany.

- ❓ Note that when nach means according to, as in the last example, it can be placed AFTER the noun.

- seit since; for (of time)

Seit er krank ist, spielt er nicht mehr Fußball.

He's stopped playing football since he became ill.

- ❓ Note that after seit, meaning for, we use the present tense in German, but the perfect tense in English.

Ich wohne seit zwei Jahren in Frankfurt.

I've been living in Frankfurt for two years.

Sie arbeitet seit acht Jahren bei uns.

She's been working for us for eight years.

➡ For more information on Tenses, see page 94.

- von from; about; by (when used in the passive tense)

Von Berlin sind wir weiter nach Krakau gefahren.

From Berlin we went on to Krakow.

Ich weiß nichts von ihm.

I know nothing about him.

Sie ist von unseren Argumenten überzeugt worden.

She was convinced by our arguments.

➡ For more information on the Passive, see page 150.

- ❓ Note that von can be used as a common alternative to the genitive case.

Die Mutter von diesen Mädchen ist Künstlerin.

The mother of these girls is an artist.

Sie ist eine Freundin von Alexander.

She is a friend of Alexander's.

➡ For more information on the Genitive case, see page 11.

- zu to; for

Er ging zum Arzt.

He went to the doctor's.

Wir sind zum Essen eingeladen.

We're invited for dinner.

- ❓ Note that zu plus the definite article can be shortened to zum or zur.

➡ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

Grammar Extra!

Some of the above prepositions are also used as separable verb prefixes, that is the part at the beginning of a separable German verb.

aushalten

Ich halte es nicht mehr aus.

(jemandem) beistehen

Er stand seinem Freund bei.

gegenüberstehen

Er steht ihnen kritisch gegenüber.

jemanden mitnehmen

Nimmst du mich bitte mit?

nachmachen

Sie macht mir alles nach.

zumachen

Mach die Tür zu!

to endure

I can't stand it any longer.

to stand by (somebody)

He stood by his friend.

to have an attitude towards

He has a critical attitude towards them.

to give somebody a lift

Will you give me a lift please?

to copy

She copies everything I do.

to shut

Shut the door!

➡ For more information on Separable verbs, see page 109.

Key points

- ✓ gegenüber, aus, bei, mit, nach, seit, von, zu, außer are the most common prepositions used with the dative case.
- ✓ Each of them has several different possible meanings, depending on the context they are used in.
- ✓ aus, nach, mit, bei and zu can also be used as separable verb prefixes.

2 Prepositions followed by the accusative case

- The most common prepositions taking the accusative case are:
durch, entlang, für, gegen, ohne, um, wider

Tip

If you want an easy way to remember which prepositions take the accusative case, you could think of the word DOGWUF, which can stand for the prepositions durch ohne gegen wider um für.

- durch through

Sie guckte durch das Loch.

She looked through the hole.

Durch Zufall trafen sie sich wieder.

They met again, by chance.

- entlang along

Die Kinder kommen die Straße entlang.

The children are coming along the street.

📌 Note that entlang comes AFTER the noun in this meaning.

- für for; to

Ich habe es für dich getan.

I did it for you.

Das ist für ihn sehr wichtig.

- um (a)round, round about; at (with time); by (with quantity)

Der Bahnhof liegt um die Ecke.

The station is round the corner.

Es fängt um neun Uhr an.

It begins at nine.

Es ist um zehn Euro billiger.

It is cheaper by ten euros.

📌 Note that um is used after certain verbs.

Sie baten um ein bisschen mehr Zeit.

They asked for a bit more time.

Es handelt sich um dein

It's a question of your behaviour.

Benehmen.

- wider contrary to, against

Das geht mir wider die Natur.

That's against my nature.

Grammar Extra!

Some of the above prepositions are also used as separable verb prefixes, that is the part at the beginning of a separable German verb.

durchmachen

Sie hat viel durchgemacht in ihrem Leben. She's been through a lot in her life.

entlanggehen

Wir gingen die Straße entlang. We went along the street.

um and wider are also used as separable or inseparable verb prefixes (variable verb prefixes), depending on the verb and meaning.

umarmen inseparable

to embrace

Er hat sie umarmt.

He gave her a hug.

umfallen

separable to fall over

Sie ist umgefallen.

She fell over.

widersprechen inseparable

Key points

- ✓ durch, entlang, für, gegen, ohne, um, and wider are the most common prepositions used with the accusative case.
- ✓ Most of them have several different possible meanings, depending on the context they are used in.
- ✓ durch, entlang and gegen can also be used as separable verb prefixes.
- ✓ um and wider can also be used as variable verbal prefixes.

3 Prepositions followed by the accusative or the dative case

- There are a number of prepositions which can be followed by the accusative or the dative case. You use:
- the accusative case when there is some movement towards a different place
 - the dative case when a location is described rather than movement, or when there is movement within the same place

- The most common prepositions in this category are:

an, auf, hinter, in, neben, über, unter, vor, zwischen

- You use an:

- with the accusative case

Die Lehrerin schrieb das Wort an die Tafel.

The teacher wrote the word
on the board.

Ich habe einen Brief an meine
Mutter geschrieben.

I wrote a letter to my mother.

Ich ziehe im Sommer an die
Küste.

In the summer I move to the coast.

- with the dative case

Das Wort stand an der Tafel.

The word was written on the blackboard.

Wir treffen uns am Bahnhof.

We're meeting at the station.

📌 Note that an plus the definite article can be shortened to am.

➞ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

- You use auf:

- with the accusative case

Stell die Suppe bitte auf den Tisch.

Put the soup on the table please.

Wir fahren morgen aufs Land.

We're going to the country tomorrow.

Er warf einen Blick auf das Buch.

He glanced at the book.

📌 Note that auf plus the definite article can be shortened to aufs.

➞ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

- with the dative case

Die Suppe steht auf dem Tisch.

The soup's on the table.

Auf dem Land ist die Luft besser.

The air is better in the country.

- You use hinter:

- with the accusative case

Stell dich hinter deinen Bruder.

Stand behind your brother.

- with the dative case

Sie saß hinter mir.

She was sitting behind me.

► You use in:

- with the accusative case
Sie ging ins Zimmer.
Er wollte nicht in die Schule gehen.

She entered the room.
He didn't want to go to school.

- with the dative case
Was hast du heute in der Schule gemacht?
Im Zimmer warteten viele Leute auf ihn.

What did you do at school today?
A lot of people were waiting for him in the room.

[i] Note that in plus the definite article can be shortened to im or ins.

➡ For more information on Shortened forms of prepositions, see page 165.

► You use neben:

- with the accusative case
Stell dein Rad neben meines.
- with the dative case
Dein Rad steht neben meinem.

Put your bike next to mine.
Your bike's next to mine.

► You use über:

- with the accusative case
Zieh den Pullover über deinen Kopf!
Sie ging quer über das Feld.
Flugzeuge dürfen nicht über dieses Gebiet fliegen.

Pull the jumper over your head!
She went across the field.
Planes are not allowed to fly over this area.

- with the dative case
Die Lampe soll über dem Tisch hängen.

The lamp should hang over the table.

[i] Note that when über means about, it is always followed by the accusative case, NOT the dative.

Wir haben viel über sie gesprochen. We talked about her a lot.

► You use unter:

- with the accusative case
Sie stellte sich unter den Baum.

She (came and) stood under the tree.

- with the dative case
Sie lebte dort unter Freunden.

She lived there among friends.

► You use vor:

- with the accusative case
Stell den Stuhl vor das Fenster.

Put the chair in front of the window.

- with the dative case
Auf dem Foto stand sie vor dem Haus.
Ich war vor ihm da.
Vor dem Krankenhaus links abbiegen.

In the photo she was standing in front of the house.
I was there before him.
Turn left at the hospital.

► You use zwischen:

- with the accusative case
Er legte es zwischen die beiden Teller.
- with the dative case
Das Dorf liegt zwischen den Bergen.

He put it between the two plates.
The village lies between the mountains.

► Each of these prepositions can also be used with verbs and are then called prepositional objects.

- abhängen von + dative to depend on Das hängt von dir ab. That depends on you.
- schmecken nach + dative to taste of
Der Nachtisch schmeckt nach Zimt. The dessert tastes of cinnamon.

► When auf or an is used in this way, the case used depends on the verb – it's much easier to learn such examples together with the case which follows them.

- sich verlassen auf + accusative to depend on Ich verlasse mich auf dich. I'm depending on you.
- bestehen auf + dative to insist on Wir bestehen auf sofortiger Bezahlung. We insist on immediate payment.
- glauben an + accusative to believe in

- leiden an + dative to suffer from Er leidet an einer tödlichen Krankheit. He is suffering from a terminal illness.

sich freuen auf + accusative

Ich freue mich auf die Sommerferien.

warten auf + accusative

Er wartet jeden morgen auf den Bus.

to look forward to

I'm looking forward to the summer holidays.

to wait for

Every morning he waits for the bus.

➞ For more information on Verbs with prepositional objects, see page 145.

Grammar Extra!

Some of the above prepositions are also used as separable or inseparable verb prefixes.

anrechnen separable

Das wird Ihnen später angerechnet.

to charge for

You'll be charged for that later.

aufsetzen separable

Er setzte sich die Mütze auf.

to put on

He put his cap on.

überqueren inseparable

Sie hat die Straße überquert.

to cross

She crossed the street.

➞ For more information on Separable verbs and Inseparable verbs, see pages 109 and 110.

- Ihretwegen
Sollte es Ihretwegen Probleme geben, dann gehen wir alle nach Hause. Should you cause any problems, then we'll all go home.

⇒ For more information on Possessive pronouns and Relative pronouns, see pages 80 and 86.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Key points

- ✓ außerhalb, beiderseits, diesseits, ... halber, hinsichtlich, infolge, innerhalb, jenseits, statt, trotz, um ... willen, während and wegen are the most common prepositions which take the genitive case.
- ✓ statt, trotz, während and wegen can also take the dative case.
- ✓ Special forms of possessive and relative pronouns are used with wegen.

5 Shortened forms of prepositions

- After many German prepositions, a shortened or contracted form of the definite article can be merged with the preposition to make one word.

auf + das → aufs
bei + dem → beim
zu + der → zur

⇒ For more information on the Definite article, see page 25.

- This can be done with all of the following prepositions:

| Preposition | + das | + den | + dem | + der |
|-------------|---------|---------|---------|-------|
| an | ans | | am | |
| auf | aufs | | | |
| bei | | | beim | |
| durch | durchs | | | |
| für | fürs | | | |
| hinter | hinters | hintern | hinterm | |
| in | ins | | im | |
| über | übers | übern | überm | |
| um | ums | | | |
| unter | unters | untern | unterm | |
| vor | vors | | vorm | |
| von | | | vom | |
| zu | | | zum | zur |

Er ging ans Fenster.
 Wir waren gestern am Meer.
 Er ist beim Friseur.
 Wir gehen heute Abend ins Kino.
 Im Sommer lese ich gern im Garten.
 Es ging immer ums Thema Geld.

Der Hund lief unters Auto.
 Der Ball rollte unter Tisch.
 Die Katze lag unterm Schreibtisch.
 Er erzählte vom Urlaub.
 Sie fährt zum Bahnhof.
 Er geht zur Schule.

► The following shortened forms are normally only used in informal, spoken German:

• aufs

Wir fahren morgen aufs Land.

We're going to the country tomorrow.

• durchs

Sie flog durchs Abitur.

She failed her 'A' Levels.

• fürs

Das ist fürs neue Haus.

That's for the new house.

• hinters, hintern, hinterm

Er lief hinters Auto.
 Stell es hintern Tisch.
 Es liegt hinterm Sofa.

He ran behind the car.
 Put it behind the table.
 It's behind the couch.

• übers, übern, überm

Sie legten ein Brett übers Loch.
 Man muss das übern Kopf ziehen.
Überm Tisch hängt eine Lampe.

They put a board over the hole.
 You have to pull it over your head.
 There's a lamp hanging over the table.

• unters, untern, unterm

Die Katze ging unters Bett.
 Der Ball rollte untern Tisch.
 Der Hund liegt unterm Tisch.

The cat went under the bed.
 The ball rolled under the table.
 The dog is lying under the table.

He went to the window.
 We were at the seaside yesterday.
 He's at the hairdresser's.
 We're going to the cinema tonight.
 In the summer I like reading in the garden.
 It was always about the subject of money.
 The dog ran under the car.
 The ball rolled under the table.
 The cat lay under the desk.
 He talked about his holiday.
 She drives to the station.
 He goes to school.

• vors, vorm

Stell den Stuhl vors Fenster.

Put the chair in front of the window.

Er stand vorm Spiegel.

He stood in front of the mirror.

ⓘ Note that if you want to stress the article in a sentence, shortened forms are NOT used.

In dem Anzug kann ich mich nicht sehen lassen!

I can't go out in that suit!

► Shortened forms of prepositions can also be used:

- with personal pronouns representing inanimate objects, that is objects which are not living things

Sie war damit zufrieden.

She was satisfied with that.

Er hat es darauf angelegt, dass er die beste Note kriegen würde.

He was determined to get the best grade.

➡ For more information on Personal pronouns, see page 70.

Key points

- ✓ It is often possible to combine the definite article and a preposition to create a shortened form.
- ✓ Some of these shortened forms should only be used in spoken German.

CONJUNCTIONS

What is a conjunction?

A conjunction is a linking word such as and, but, if and because, that links two words or phrases of a similar type, for example, Diane and I have been friends for years. Conjunctions also link two clauses, for example, I left because I was bored. In German there are two types of conjunctions, called co-ordinating conjunctions and subordinating conjunctions.

Co-ordinating conjunctions

► aber, denn, oder, sondern and und are the most important co-ordinating conjunctions.

- aber but

Wir wollten ins Kino, aber wir hatten kein Geld. We wanted to go to the cinema, but we had no money.

ⓘ Note that you can't use aber after a negative to mean not ... but ...: you must use sondern.

- aber however

Ich wollte nach Hause, er aber wollte nicht mit. I wanted to go home; however, he wouldn't come.

ⓘ Note that when aber means 'however', it comes between the subject and verb in the clause.

- denn because, since

Wir wollten heute fahren, denn montags ist weniger Verkehr. We wanted to travel today because there is less traffic on Mondays.

- oder or

Sie hatte noch nie Whisky oder Schnaps getrunken. She had never drunk whisky or schnapps.

Willst du eins oder hast du vielleicht keinen Hunger? Do you want one or aren't you hungry?

- sondern but

Es kostet nicht zwanzig, sondern fünfzig Euro. It doesn't cost twenty euros, but fifty.

- und and

Susi und Oliver Susi and Oliver
Er ging in die Stadt und kaufte sich ein neues Hemd. He went into town and bought himself a new shirt.

► If you use a co-ordinating conjunction, you do not put the verb at the end of the clause beginning with the conjunction.

Wir wollten ins Theater, aber wir hatten kein Geld.

We wanted to go to the theatre but we had no money.

wir = subject

hatten = verb

Co-ordinating conjunctions with two parts

► German, like English, also has conjunctions which have more than one part. Here are the most common ones:

- sowohl ... als (auch) both ... and

The verb is plural, whether the individual subjects are singular or plural.

Sowohl sein Vater als auch seine Mutter haben sich darüber gefreut.

Both his father and mother were pleased about it.

Sowohl unser Lehrkörper als auch unsere Schüler haben teilgenommen.

Both our staff and pupils took part.

- weder ... noch neither ... nor

With this conjunction, the verb is plural unless both subjects are singular, as shown below.

Weder die Lehrer noch die Schüler haben recht.

Neither the teachers nor the pupils are right.

Weder du noch ich würde es schaffen.

Neither you nor I would be able to do it.

When weder ... noch is used to link clauses, the subject and verb are swapped round in BOTH clauses.

Weder mag ich ihn noch respektiere ich ihn.

I neither like nor respect him.

- nicht nur ... sondern auch not only ... but also

The verb agrees in number with the subject nearest to it.

Nicht nur sie, sondern auch ich habe es gehört.

They weren't the only ones to hear it – I heard it too.

When nicht nur ... sondern auch is used to link clauses, the subject and verb are only swapped round in the first clause, not the second, BUT if nicht nur does not begin the clause, word order is normal.

Nicht nur ist sie geschickt, sondern auch intelligent.

OR

Sie ist nicht nur geschickt, sondern auch intelligent.

She is not only skilful but also intelligent.

- entweder ... oder either ... or

The verb agrees in number with the subject nearest to it. When entweder ... oder is used to link clauses, the subject and verb are only swapped round in the first clause, not the second.

Entweder du oder Karla muss es getan haben.

It must have been either you or Karla.

Entweder komme ich vorbei, oder ich rufe dich an.

I'll either drop in or I'll give you a ring.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Key points

- ✓ A conjunction is a word that links two words or clauses of a similar type, or two parts of a sentence.
- ✓ Aber, denn, oder, sondern and und are the most important co-ordinating conjunctions.
- ✓ Single-word co-ordinating conjunctions do not change the order of the subject and the verb in the clause.

Subordinating conjunctions

- The subordinate clause is always separated from the main clause by a comma. It is called a subordinate clause because it cannot stand on its own without the other clause in the sentence and is linked to this by a subordinating conjunction.

| | |
|--|---|
| Sie ist zu Fuß gekommen, weil der Bus zu teuer ist. | She came on foot because the bus is too dear. |
| MAIN CLAUSE | = Sie ist zu Fuß gekommen |
| SUBORDINATE CLAUSE | = weil der Bus zu teuer ist |

 Note that the verb comes at the end of the subordinate clause.

- als, da, damit, dass, ob, obwohl, während, wenn, weil, um ... zu, and ohne ... zu are some of the most important subordinating conjunctions.

- als (when)
Es regnete, als ich in Glasgow ankam. It was raining when I arrived in Glasgow.
- da (as, since)
Da du nicht kommen willst, gehe ich allein. Since you don't want to come, I'll go on my own.
- damit so (that)
Ich sage dir das, damit du es weißt. I'm telling you so that you know.
- dass that
Ich weiß, dass du besser in Mathe bist als ich. I know (that) you're better at maths than me.
- ob if, whether Sie fragt, ob du auch kommst. She wants to know if you're coming too.
- obwohl although Sie blieb lange auf, obwohl sie müde war. She stayed up late although she was tired.
- während while
Sie sah fern, während sie ihre Hausaufgaben machte. She was watching TV while she was doing her homework.
- wenn when, whenever/if
Wenn ich nach Hause komme, dusche ich erst mal. When I get home, the first thing I'm going to do is have a shower.
Wenn er anruft, sag mir Bescheid. If he calls, tell me.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

Tipp

If translating when in a sentence which describes a single, completed action in the past, you use als, NOT wenn. You use wenn for single, momentary actions in the present or future.

- weil because
Morgen komme ich nicht, weil ich keine Zeit habe. I'm not coming tomorrow because I don't have the time.
- um ... zu in order to ...
Um früh aufzustehen, musste sie den Wecker stellen. In order to get up early, she had to set the alarm.

 Note that zu is inserted between a separable verb and its prefix.

⇒ For more information on Separable verbs, see page 109.

- ohne ... zu without ...
Er verließ das Haus, ohne ein Wort zu sagen. He left the house without saying a word.

 Note that um ... zu and ohne ... zu are always used with infinitive constructions.

 Note that with the subordinating conjunctions als, da, damit, dass, ob, obwohl, während, wenn, weil, um ... zu, and ohne ... zu, the subordinate clause can come BEFORE the main clause, as seen in the example with da. When this happens, the verb and subject of the main clause swap places.

⇒ For more information on the Infinitive, see page 134.

- In tenses which only have one verb part, such as the present and imperfect, the verb comes last in the subordinate clause.

Wenn er mich sah, lief er davon. Whenever he saw me, he ran away.

- In tenses which have two verb parts, such as the perfect tense, it is the form of haben, sein or werden which comes last in the subordinate clause, after the past participle.

Sie will nicht ausgehen, weil sie noch nichts gegessen hat. She doesn't want to go out because she hasn't eaten anything yet.

⇒ For more information on the Perfect and Imperfect tenses, see pages 113 and 118.

- Any modal verb, for example mögen (meaning to like) and können (meaning can, to be able to), used in a subordinate clause is placed last in the clause.

Sie wusste nicht, ob sie kommen konnte. She didn't know if she could come.

⇒ For more information on Modal verbs, see page 136.

Key points

- ✓ Subordinating conjunctions link the main clause and subordinating clause in a sentence.
- ✓ After subordinating conjunctions, verbs go to the end of the clause.
- ✓ Als, da, damit, dass, ob, obwohl, während, wenn, weil, um ... zu, and ohne ... zu are some of the most important subordinating conjunctions.
- ✓ The subordinate clause can come before the main clause. When this happens, the verb and subject of the main clause swap places.
- ✓ In tenses which only have one verb part, the verb comes last in the subordinate clause. In tenses which have two verb parts, haben, sein or werden comes last in the subordinate clause, after the past participle.

WORD ORDER

- Here is a ready-reference guide to the key points of German word order.

1 Main clauses

- In a main clause the subject comes first and is followed by the verb, as in English.

Seine Mutter (subject) trinkt (verb) His mother (subject) drinks (verb) Whisky. whisky.

- In tenses with more than one verb element, such as the perfect tense and the passive, the part of haben, sein or werden comes after the subject, and the past participle or infinitive goes to the end of the clause.

Sie hat mir nichts gesagt. She told me nothing.
Er ist spät angekommen. He arrived late.
Es wurde für ihn gekauft. It was bought for him.

- A direct object usually follows an indirect object, except where the direct object is a personal pronoun.

Ich gab dem Mann (indirect object) I gave the man the money.
das Geld (direct object).
Ich gab ihm (indirect object) das Geld I gave him the money.
(direct object).
BUT
Ich gab es (direct object) ihm (indirect I gave it to him. object).

- ⚠ Note that the indirect object can also be placed last for emphasis, providing it is NOT a pronoun.

Er gab das Geld seiner Schwester. He gave the money to his sister.
(not his brother)

- ➡ For more information on Direct and Indirect objects, see pages 9 and 13.
➡ For more information on Using direct and Indirect object pronouns, see pages 74 and 76.
➤ As a general rule, adverbs are placed next to the words to which they refer.

- Adverbs of time often come first in the clause, but this is not fixed.

Gestern gingen wir ins Theater

OR

Wir gingen gestern ins Theater We went to the theatre yesterday.

- Adverbs of place can also come first in the clause when you want to emphasize something.

Dort haben sie Fußball gespielt. That's where they played football.

- Adverbs of manner comment on verbs and so are likely to come immediately after the verb they refer to.
Sie spielen gut Fußball. They play football well.
 - Where there is more than one adverb, a useful rule of thumb is: "TIME, MANNER, PLACE"
Wir haben gestern gut hierhin gefunden. We found our way here all right yesterday.
gestern = adverb of time
gut = adverb of manner
hierhin = adverb of place
 - If there is a pronoun object (a word like her, it, me or them) in the clause, it comes before all adverbs.
Sie haben es gestern sehr billig gekauft. They bought it very cheaply yesterday.
- The normal word order in a main clause is subject followed by verb. The subject can be replaced as the first element by any of the words and phrases below. In such cases, the verb is the second element in the clause.
- an adverb
Gestern sind wir ins Theater gegangen. We went to the theatre yesterday.
 - a direct or indirect object
Seinen Freunden wollte er es nicht zeigen. He wouldn't show it to his friends.
 - an infinitive phrase
Ihren Freunden zu helfen, hat sie nicht versucht. She didn't try to help her friends.
 - another noun or pronoun
Deine Schwester war es. It was your sister.
Sie war es. It was her.
 - a past participle
Geraucht hatte er nie. He had never, ever smoked.
 - a phrase with a preposition
In diesem Haus bin ich auf die Welt gekommen. I was born in this house.
 - a clause which acts as the object of the verb
Was mit ihm los war, haben wir nie herausgefunden. We never found out what was wrong with him.

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- a subordinate clause
Nachdem ich ihn gesehen hatte, ging ich nach Hause. I went home after seeing him.

2 Subordinate clauses

- A subordinate clause may be introduced by a relative pronoun (a word such as der, die or dessen) or a subordinating conjunction (a word such as da, als or ob).
- Die Kinder, die wir gesehen haben ... The children whom we saw ...
Da sie nicht schwimmen wollte, ist sie nicht mitgekommen. As she didn't want to swim, she didn't come.
- The subject follows the conjunction or relative pronoun.
Ich weiß nicht, ob er kommt. I don't know if he's coming.
- The main verb ALMOST ALWAYS goes to the end of a subordinate clause.
Als ich nach Hause kam, war ich ganz müde. When I came home I was really tired.

Grammar Extra!

The exceptions to this are:

- A clause which normally begins with wenn, but from which it can be left out.
Findest du mein Handy, so ruf mich bitte an.
INSTEAD OF
Wenn du mein Handy findest, ruf mich bitte an. If you find my mobile, please give me a call.
- Indirect speech without the conjunction dass (meaning that).
Sie meint, sie werde es innerhalb einer Stunde schaffen.
INSTEAD OF
Sie meint, dass sie es innerhalb einer Stunde schaffen wird. She thinks (that) she will manage it inside an hour.

- The rules applying to the order of articles, nouns, adjectives, adverbs, direct and indirect objects are the same in subordinate clauses as in main clauses, EXCEPT that all these words are placed between the subject of the clause and the relevant verb part.

MAIN CLAUSE:

Sie ist gestern mit ihrer Mutter in die Stadt gefahren.

She went into town with her mother yesterday.

SUBORDINATE CLAUSE:

Da sie gestern mit ihrer Mutter in die Stadt gefahren ist.

Since she went into town with her mother yesterday.

Tip

The rule "time, manner, place" applies equally to subordinate clauses, EXCEPT that the verb goes to the end.

⇒ For more information on Subordinate clauses, see page 193.

- Word order in the imperative, in direct and indirect speech and in verbs with separable prefixes is covered in the relevant chapters:

⇒ For more information on the Imperative, see page 105.

⇒ For more information on Direct and Indirect speech, see page 129.

⇒ For more information on Verbs with separable prefixes, see page 109.

NEGATIVES

What is a negative?

A negative question or statement is one which contains a word such as not, never or nothing and is used to say that something is not happening, is not true or is absent.

1 Using negatives

- In English we use words like not, no, nothing and never to show a negative.

I'm not very pleased.

Dan never rang me.

Nothing ever happens here!

There's no milk left.

- In German, if you want to make something negative, you generally add nicht (meaning not) or nie (meaning never) next to the phrase or word referred to.

Ich will nicht mitgehen.

I don't want to come.

Sie fährt nie mit ans Meer.

She never comes with us to the seaside.

- Here is a list of the other common German negatives:

- nein (meaning no)
Nein, ich habe keine Zeit. No, I don't have any time.
- nichts (meaning nothing)
Sie hat nichts damit zu tun. She has nothing to do with it.
- nicht mehr (meaning not ... any more, no longer)
Ich rauche nicht mehr. I don't smoke any more/
I no longer smoke.
Sie geht nicht mehr hin. She doesn't go any more.

- 7 Note that nicht and mehr always appear next to each other.

Kein (meaning none)

Keiner meiner Freunde wollte kommen.

None of my friends wanted to come.

Wo ist die Milch? – Es ist keine mehr da.

Where is the milk? – There is none left.

Tip

Nicht applies to verbs. Remember that when you want to make a negative statement about a noun, you must use kein. If you want to say I don't drink milk any more, you would say Ich trinke keine Milch mehr.

⇒ For more information on the Indefinite article in negative sentences and on Indefinite pronouns, see pages 36 and 82.

- niemand (meaning nobody or no one)

Es war niemand im Büro.

There was nobody in the office.

⇒ For more information on Indefinite pronouns, see page 82.

- nirgendwo or nirgends (meaning nowhere, not ... anywhere)

Nirgends sonst gibt es so schöne Blumen.

Nowhere else will you find such beautiful flowers.

Hier gibts nirgendwo ein Schwimmbad.

There isn't a swimming pool anywhere here.

- weder noch (meaning neither of two things)

Karotten oder Erbsen? – Weder noch, danke.

Carrots or peas? –
Neither, thanks.

- weder ... noch (meaning neither ... nor)

Weder Sabina noch Oliver kommen zur Party.

Neither Sabina nor Oliver are coming to the party.

⇒ For more information on Co-ordinating conjunctions with two parts, see page 170.

- ... auch nicht (meaning neither have I, nor does he, nor are we etc)

Ich mag ihn nicht. – Ich auch nicht!
Er war noch nie im Spanien. –
Sie auch nicht!

I don't like him. – Neither do I!
He's never been to Spain. –
Neither has she!

2 Word order with negatives

- In a sentence with only one verb part, such as the present tense, nicht and nie usually come directly after the verb. However, in direct questions, the negative word comes after the subject.

Du arbeitest nicht.

You're not working.

BUT

Arbeitest du nicht?

Aren't you working?

- In a sentence with two verb parts, such as the perfect tense and the passive, the part of haben, sein or werden comes after the subject and the negative word usually comes directly before the past participle or infinitive. The position of the negative doesn't change in direct questions.

Sie haben es nicht gemacht.

You haven't done it.

Haben Sie es nicht gemacht?

Haven't you done it?

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

- You can change the emphasis in a sentence by moving the position of the negative. For example, nie can be placed at the start of the sentence. The subject and verb then swap positions.

Nie waren sie glücklicher gewesen.

They had never been happier.

Nie im Leben hatte er so etwas gesehen.

Never in his life had he seen such a thing.

- nicht comes at the end of a negative imperative, except if the verb is separable, in which case it comes before the separable prefix.

Iss das nicht!

Don't eat that!

Setzen Sie sich nicht!

Don't sit down!

BUT

Geh nicht weg!

Don't go away!

- nicht + the indefinite article ein is usually replaced by forms of kein.

Gibt es keine Plätzchen?

Aren't there any biscuits?

Kein einziger Student hatte die Arbeit gemacht.

Not a single student had done the work.

⇒ For more information on the Indefinite article, see page 35.

- To contradict a negative statement, doch is used instead of ja, to mean yes.

Du kommst nicht mit. – Doch, ich komme mit.

You're not coming. – Yes I am.

Das ist nicht wahr. – Doch!

That isn't true! – Yes it is!

- nicht ... sondern (meaning not ... but) is used to correct a wrong idea or false impression.

Nicht Susi, sondern ihr Bruder war es.

It wasn't Susi, it was her brother.

Key points

- ✓ A statement is usually made negative by adding nicht (meaning not) or nie (meaning never).
- ✓ The most common German negatives are: nicht, nein, nie, nichts, nicht mehr, kein, niemand, nirgends or nirgendwo, weder noch, weder ... noch and ... auch nicht.
- ✓ Nicht comes at the end of a negative imperative, except if the verb is separable, in which case it comes before the separable prefix.
- ✓ Nicht + the indefinite article ein is usually replaced by forms of kein.
- ✓ To contradict a negative statement, doch is used instead of ja, to mean yes.
- ✓ Nicht ... sondern (meaning not ... but) is used to correct a wrong idea or false impression.

QUESTIONS

What is a question?

A question is a sentence which is used to ask someone about something and which in English normally has the verb in front of the subject. Question words such as why, where, who, which or how are also used to ask a question.

How to ask a question in German

1 The basic rules

- There are three ways of asking direct questions in German:
 - by changing round the order of words in a sentence
 - by adding nicht, nicht wahr, oder or doch (meaning isn't it) to a sentence
 - by using a question word

2 Asking a question by changing word order

- Many questions are formed in German by simply changing the normal word order of a sentence. You swap round the subject and verb, and add a question mark.

Magst (verb) du (subject) ihn?

Do you like him?

Gehst (verb) du (subject) ins Kino?

Do you go to the cinema? OR
Are you going to the cinema?

- In tenses with more than one verb, such as the perfect tense and the passive, the part of haben, sein or werden comes BEFORE the subject, and the past participle or infinitive goes to the end of the clause.

Haben Sie es gesehen?

Did you see it?

3 Asking a question by adding nicht, nicht wahr, oder or doch

- A statement can be made into a question by adding nicht, nicht wahr, oder or doch, in the same way as isn't it, won't you etc is added in English. You'd normally expect the answer to such questions to be a simple yes or no.

Das stimmt, nicht wahr?

That's true, isn't it?

Das Essen ist fertig, nicht?

The food's ready, isn't it?

Sie machen das, oder?

They'll do it, won't they?

Das schaffst du doch?

You'll manage, won't you?

- When a question is put in the negative, doch can be used to answer it more positively than ja.

Glaubst du mir nicht? – Doch!

Don't you believe me? – Yes, I do!

For further explanation of grammatical terms, please see pages x-xiv.

4 Asking a question by using a question word

- A question word is a word like when or how that is used to ask for information. In German, these words are a mixture of interrogative adverbs, pronouns and adjectives. Listed below are the most common question words:

wie? (how?)

wo? (where?)

wem? (whom?)

was? (what?)

welcher? (which?)

wessen? (whose?)

wann? (when?)

wer? (who?)

warum? (why?)

- ⓘ Note that wer means who, NOT where.

- When questions are formed with interrogative adverbs like wann, wo, wie and warum, normal word order changes and the subject and verb swap places.

Wann ist er gekommen?

When did he come?

Wo willst du hin?

Where are you off to?

Wie haben Sie das gemacht?

How did you do that?

Warum ist sie so spät aufgestanden?

Why did she get up so late?

Tip

Remember to use woher and wohin when direction is involved.

Woher kommst du?

Where do you come from?

Wohin fahren Sie?

Where are you going?

- When questions are formed with interrogative pronouns and adjectives, word order is normal if the interrogative pronoun or adjective is the subject of the verb at the beginning of the clause.

Wer (subject) hat (verb) das gemacht?

Who did that?

- If the interrogative pronoun or adjective is NOT the subject of the verb at the beginning of the clause, the subject and verb swap places.

Wem hast (verb) du (subject) es geschenkt?

Who did you give it to?

- ➡ For more information on Interrogative pronouns and Adjectives, see pages 89 and 31.

- ⓘ Note that in indirect questions, that is questions following verbs of asking and wondering, the verb comes at the end of the question.

Sie fragte, ob du mitkommen wolltest.

She asked if you wanted to come.

Key points

- ✓ There are three basic ways of asking direct questions in German: changing the word order; adding nicht, nicht wahr, oder or doch; and using a question word.
- ✓ When a question is put in the negative, doch can be used to answer it more positively than ja.
- ✓ The most common question words are the interrogative adverbs wann, wo, wie and warum, the interrogative pronouns was, wer, wem and wessen, and the interrogative adjective welcher.

SOME COMMON DIFFICULTIES

General problems

► You can't always translate German into English and English into German word for word. While occasionally it is possible to do this, often it is not. For example:

- Sentences which contain a verb and preposition in English might NOT contain a preposition in German.

| | |
|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Jemanden/etwas ansehen | to look at somebody/something |
| Jemandem/etwas zuhören | to listen to somebody/something |

- However, many sentences which contain a verb and preposition in German DO contain a preposition in English.

|-------------------------------|----------------------------|
| sich interessieren für | to be interested in |
| denken über | to think about |

► Remember that German prepositions are of two types:

- Some are only ever used with one case, such as gegen (accusative), bei (dative) and außerhalb (genitive). For all of these it is useful to learn the preposition and its case by heart.
- The second type are used either with the accusative or the dative, according to whether movement from one place to another is involved or not. The translation of the same preposition from the last group can change according to the case being used.

|--|---|
| Sie schrieb einen Brief an ihren Bruder. | She wrote a letter to her brother. |
| Wir treffen uns am Bahnhof. | We're meeting at the station. |

⇒ For more information on Prepositions, see page 153.

► A word which is plural in English may not be in German.

| | |
|--------------------|---------------------|
| eine Brille | glasses, spectacles |
| eine Schere | scissors |
| eine Hose | trousers |

⌚ Note that they are only used in the plural in German to mean more than one pair, for example, zwei Hosen = two pairs of trousers.

⇒ For more information on Nouns, see page 1.

► In English, you use 's to show who or what something belongs to; in German you generally either use the genitive case or von + the dative case.

Das Auto meiner Schwester

OR

Das Auto von meiner Schwester

My sister's car

⇒ For more information on the Genitive case, see page 11.

► German punctuation differs from English in several ways.

- Decimal places are always shown by a comma, NOT a full stop.
3,4 (drei Komma vier) 3.4 (three point four)
- Large numbers are separated by means of a space or a full stop, NOT a comma.

20 000

OR: 20.000 (zwanzigtausend) 20,000 (twenty thousand)

- Subordinate clauses are always separated from the rest of the sentence by a comma.

| | |
|--|---|
| Er bleibt gesund, obwohl er zu viel trinkt. | He stays healthy, even though he drinks too much. |
|--|---|

⇒ For more information on Subordinate clauses, see page 177.

- When two main clauses are linked by und (meaning and) or oder (meaning or), no comma is required.

|--|---|
| Wir gehen ins Kino oder wir bleiben zu Hause. | We'll go to the cinema or stay at home. |
|--|---|

Specific problems

1 Nouns with capital letters

- Unlike English, ALL German nouns start with a capital letter, not just proper names.

| | |
|-----------------|----------------|
| der Tisch | the table |
| die Politikerin | the politician |
| die Königin | the Queen |

- 7 Note that this also applies to verbs being used as nouns.

Sie hat ihr Können bewiesen. She has proved her ability.

2 Three forms of you

- In English we have only one way of saying you. In German, there are three words: du, ihr and Sie. You use:

- the familiar du if talking to one person you know well, such as a friend, someone younger than you or a relative.

Kommst du mit ins Kino? Are you coming to the cinema?

- the familiar ihr if talking to more than one person you know well.

Also, was wollt ihr heute Abend machen? So, what do you want to do tonight?

- the formal or polite Sie if talking to one or more people you do not know so well, such as your teacher, your boss or a stranger.

Was haben Sie gemacht? What did you do?

3 -ing

- Although English sometimes uses parts of the verb to be to form the present tense of other verbs (for example, I am listening, she's talking), German NEVER uses the verb sein in this way. Instead, it uses the normal present tense of the verb.

Ich spiele Tennis. I play tennis
OR:
I am playing tennis

4 To be

- The verb to be is generally translated by sein.

Es ist spät. It's late.

Das ist nicht möglich. That's not possible.

- When you are talking about the physical position of something you can use liegen. You may also come across sich befinden in more formal contexts.

Wo liegt/befindet sich der Bahnhof? Where's the station?

- In certain set phrases which describe how you are feeling or a state you are in, the verb haben is used.

| | |
|---------------|---------------|
| Hunger haben | to be hungry |
| Durst haben | to be thirsty |
| Angst haben | to be afraid |
| unrecht haben | to be wrong |
| recht haben | to be right |

- 7 Note that to say I etc am hot or I etc am cold, you use a personal pronoun in the dative case followed by sein.

Mir ist heiß. I am hot

NOT

Ich bin heiß

Ihr is kalt. She is cold

NOT

Sie ist kalt

- When talking about your health, use the following forms of the verb gehen.

Wie geht es dir/Ihnen? How are you?

Es geht mir gut

OR

Mir geht es gut. I'm fine.

5 It

- There are three ways of saying it in German: er, sie and es. These correspond to the three different genders, masculine, feminine and neuter.

Wo ist der Wagen? – Er steht da drüben. Where is the car? – It's over there.

Ich finde meine Uhr nicht. Hast du sie gesehen? I can't find my watch. Have you seen it?

Was hältst du von meinem Haus? – Es ist ganz schön. What do you think of my house? – It's really nice.

6 Date and time

- When talking about a particular day or date, use the preposition an + the dative case in the following constructions:

| | |
|---|--|
| Ich fahre am Montag nach Hause. | I'm going home on Monday . |
| Sie wurde am Dienstag, den 1. April aus dem Krankenhaus entlassen. | She was discharged from hospital on Tuesday, the 1st of April . |
| Meine Nichte hat am 6. September Geburtstag. | My niece's birthday is on the 6th of September . |

- When stating the time of a particular event, use the preposition um + the accusative case in the following construction.

| | |
|---|--|
| Ich bin um 9 Uhr aufgestanden. | I got up at 9 o'clock . |
| Der Zug ist um 22.30 Uhr abgefahren. | The train left at 22.30 hours . |

- ⇒ For more information on Prepositions, see pages 153.

7 There is, there are

- Both there is and there are are translated by es gibt.

| | |
|--|--|
| Hier gibt es ein schönes Freibad. | There's a lovely open-air pool here. |
| In Stuttgart gibt es viele Parks. | There are lots of parks in Stuttgart. |

8 The imperfect of modal verbs

- Modal verbs never have an umlaut in the imperfect tense.

| | |
|----------------------------------|---------------|
| können (can, to be able) | konnte |
| müssen (must, to have to) | musste |
| mögen (to like) | mochte |
| dürfen (to be allowed to) | durfte |
| sollen (to ought to) | sollte |
| wollen (to want) | wollte |

- ⇒ For more information on Modal verbs, see page 136.

9 Er/sie/es parts of strong verbs in the imperfect

- You do NOT add a -t to the er/sie/es parts of the imperfect tense of strong verbs.

| | |
|------------------------|----------------|
| Er/sie/es ging | He/she/it went |
| NOT | |
| Er/sie/es gingt | |
| Er/sie/es sang | He/she/it sang |
| NOT | |
| Er/sie/es sangt | |

- ⇒ For more information on the Imperfect tense, see page 118.

10 Inseparable verbs in the perfect tense

- Inseparable verbs have no ge- added to beginning of the past participle in the perfect tense. For example:

| | |
|---|-----------------------------|
| Das habe ich schon bezahlt . | I've already paid for that. |
| Er hat sich endlich entschlossen . | He's finally decided. |

- ⇒ For more information on Inseparable verbs, see page 109.

11 Can, to be able

- If you want to say could, meaning was able, you use konnte, the imperfect form of können, you do NOT use the conditional form könnte.

| | |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Sie konnte nicht kommen . | She couldn't make it. |
| Er konnte das einfach nicht . | He just wasn't able to do it. |

VERB TABLES

Introduction

The Verb Tables in the following section contain 97 tables of German verbs (strong, weak and mixed) in alphabetical order. Each table shows you the following forms: Present, Perfect, Future, Present Subjunctive, Imperfect, Conditional, Imperative and the Present and Past Participles. For more information on these tenses, how they are formed, when they are used and so on, you should look at the section on Verbs in the main text on pages 91-152.

In order to help you use the verbs shown in Verb Tables correctly, there are also a number of example phrases at the bottom of each page to show the verb as it is used in context.

In German there are weak verbs (their forms follow regular patterns), strong verbs (their forms follow irregular patterns) and mixed verbs (their forms follow a mixture of regular and irregular patterns). Two of the weak verbs in these tables are holen (to fetch) and machen (to do, to make). All weak, strong and mixed verbs are shown in full.

The Verb Index at the end of this section contains over 1000 verbs, each of which is cross-referred to one of the verbs given in the Verb Tables. The table shows the patterns that the verb listed in the index follows.

How to use the Verb Index

The verbs in bold are the model verbs which you will find in the verb tables. All the other verbs follow one of these patterns, so the number next to each verb indicates which pattern fits this particular verb. For example, begleiten (to accompany) follows the same pattern as arbeiten (to work), number 3 in the verb tables.

All the verbs are in alphabetical order. For reflexive verbs like sich setzen (to sit down) look under setzen, not under sich.

With the exception of reflexive verbs which are always formed with haben, most verbs have the same auxiliary (sein or haben) as their model verb. If this is different, it is shown in the Verb Index. Certain verbs can be formed with both haben or sein and there is a note about this at the relevant verb tables.

Some verbs in the Verb Index have a dividing line through them to show that the verb is separable, for example, durch|setzen.

➡ For more information on separable and inseparable verbs, see page 109.
