At Dover Publications we're committed to producing books in an earth-friendly manner and to helping our customers make greener choices. Manufacturing books in the United States ensures compliance with strict environmental laws and eliminates the need for international freight shipping, a major contributor to global air pollution. And printing on recycled paper helps minimize our consumption of trees, water and fossil fuels.

The text of this book was printed on paper made with 10% post-consumer waste and the cover was printed on paper made with 10% post-consumer waste. At Dover, we use Environmental Defense's Paper Calculator to measure the benefits of these choices, including: the number of trees saved, gallons of water conserved, as well as air emissions and solid waste eliminated.

Courier Corporation, the manufacturer of this book, owns the Green Edition Trademark.

Introduction

This phrase book is intended as a useful tool for people who are either learning Italian or have no knowledge of the language. It is made up of simple phrases and questions, covering a wide range of everyday situations in which the reader will be able to communicate at a basic level. As such, it is a perfect how-to guide for English-speaking travelers who are planning to visit Italy: this book will make it easier for you to interact with the locals, and to accomplish common tasks such as asking for directions, reserving a hotel room, ordering a full meal at your favorite trattoria, even bargaining for-the-price of a taxi ride!

Tailored to the essential needs of modern-day life, the phrase book is topically organized in general sections and more specific subsections, so that the most appropriate set of sentences and vocabulary will always be within easy reach at whichever moment you might need them. On the other hand, just browsing the phrases on your own will certainly prove a useful activity in itself: not only will you learn the sentences even before you have the occasion to put them into practice, but it will give you an overall idea of how the language works.

The elementary grammar primer that follows is meant to be a quick reference guide on how to effectively build sentences and questions in Italian. It includes the fundamental rules of the language, from gender and number of nouns, to agreements, pronouns and conjugation of common verbs. Becoming familiar with these simple structures will help you both to understand the phrases in this book at a deeper level, and to move forward and communicate by forming sentences of your own creation. On the whole, this book is a flexible instrument to facilitate your access to a new language and culture, hopefully the first step of a long and enjoyable journey!

A Note on Phonetic Transcription The phonetic transcription provided in this book is intended as a general aid for an accurate pronunciation of all the listed phrases. Instead of using the standardized International Phonetic Alphabet and its special characters, the transcription spells out each Italian word in the text into syllabic phonetic sounds, to be pronounced according to the rules of the English language. For example, the transcription of the Italian adjective vicino (close) is vee-CHEE-no (vee as in "humvee," chee as in "cheese," no as in "north"): by reading out loud the transcription as if it was an English text you normal j). By reading out loud the transcription as if it was an English text you should be able to pronounce the phrase correctly. For more details on single sounds and alphabet letters please refer to the chart below.

Since the Italian language does not make large use of graphic accents (unless the word's last syllable is stressed, as in caffè, città, università), sometimes it can be hard to tell where the stress falls when pronouncing a word. In the transcription all stressed syllables in a phrase are therefore written in capital letters.

English words that are also used in Italian (sport, computer, Internet, snowboard, etc.) have not been transcribed, as there is no difference in their pronunciation.

Alphabet and Sounds

The Italian alphabet has 21 letters. The letters j, k, w, x, and y are only used to write foreign words (jogging, skateboard, wireless, etc.).

Italian Grammar Primer

Gender and Number

Italian is a gendered language and all nouns, even those that refer to inanimate things, are either masculine or feminine.

Most nouns ending in -o are masculine: biglietto (bee-LYET-toh)-ticket telefono (teh-LEH- foh-no)-telephone numero (NOO-meh-rob)-number common exceptions:

auto f. (AH-oo-toh)-car

moto f. (MO-toh)-motorcycle

Most nouns ending in -a are feminine: fermata (fer-MAH-tah)-stop cucina (coo-CHEE-nah)-cuisine/kitchen insalata (in-sah-LAH-tah)-salad

common exceptions:

cinema m. (CHEE-neh-ma)-cinema

programma m. (proGRAM-ma)-program

Nouns ending in -e can be either masculine or feminine, and sometimes both. In these cases you need to know the gender of the nouns. When you come across a noun ending in -e and you are unsure of its gender, it is better to consult a dictionary. As you practice the language you will get used to new words in no time.

ristorante in. (rees-toh-RAN-tay)-restaurant stazione f. (stab-tzee-OH-nay)- station cantante m.&f. (can-TAN-tay)-singer To form the plural of Italian nouns follow this pattern: a) masculine nouns ending in -o change their final vowel into -i.

biglietto (ticket)-biglietti (tickets) telefono (telephone)-telefoni sigaretta (cigarette)-sigarette (cigarettes) telefono (telephone)-telefoni (telephones) b) feminine nouns ending in -a change their final vowel into -e.

fermata (stop)-fermate (stops)

insalata (salad)-insalate (salads)

- c) nouns ending in -e change their final vowel into -i, regardless of their gender.

ristorante (restaurant)-ristoranti (restaurants) stazione (station)-stazioni (stations) N.B.-All nouns ending in an accented vowel (città, caffè, università, etc.) and all nouns ending in a consonant (mostly foreign words such as computer, sport, hamburger) do not have a plural form: use the same ending for singular and plural.

un caffè (oon caf-FAY)-one coffee

due caffè (DOO-ay caf-FAY)-two coffees un computer (oon computer)-one computer due computer (DOO-ay computer)-two computers Definite Articles Definite articles refer to specific people or objects and are equivalent to the English article the.

singular articles Use lo before a masculine singular noun a) beginning with the letter z;

lo zucchero (lo ZOOK-keh-roh)-the sugar

un'intervista (oon een-ter-VEE-sta)-an interview un'attrice (oon at-TREE-chay)-an actress un'estate (oon es-TAH-tay)-a summer

Adjective agreement

In Italian, all articles and adjectives must agree in gender (masculine or feminine) and number (singular and plural) with the noun they modify. This is why it is particularly important to become familiar with the rules that regulate the gender of nouns. Most Italian adjectives are placed after a noun (and not before, as in English). Adjectives are classified in two broad categories.

Adjectives ending in -o

Adjectives ending in -o, such as alto (tall), basso (short), piccolo (small), italiano (Italian), americano (American) have four different endings. The masculine singular form ends in -o, the masculine plural ends in -i, the feminine singular ends in -a, and the feminine plural ends in -e.

masculine singular	alto	(AL-toh)
feminine singular	alta	(AL-tah)
masculine plural	alti	(AL-tee)
feminine plural	alte	(AL-tay)

Adjectives ending in -e

Adjectives ending in -e, such as intelligente (intelligent), interessante (interesting), grande (big), inglese (English), are not gendered. These adjectives only have two endings, one for the singular (ending in -e) and one for the plural (ending in -i), regardless of the gender of the noun they modify.

Il film (m.) è interessante.	The film is interesting.
La visita (f.) è interessante.	The visit is interesting.
I musei (m. pl.) sono grandi.	The museums are big.
Le chiese (f. pl.) sono grandi.	The churches are big.

Pronouns

Subject		Direct object	Indirect object
Io (EE-oh)	I	Mi (mee)	Mi (mee)
Tu (too)	you	Ti (tee)	Ti (tee)
Lui (LOO-ee)	he	Lo (loh)	Gli (lee)
Lei (lay)	she	La (lah)	Le (leh)
Lei* (lay)	you (formal)	La (lah)	Le (leh)
Noi (noy)	we	Ci (chee)	Ci (chee)
Voi (voy)	you plural	Vi (vee)	Vi (vee)
Loro (LOH-rob)	they	Li (m.)/Le (f.) (lee/leh)	Gli (lee)

Pronouns are used in place of a noun to prevent redundancy. For example, instead of saying "Compro it panino e mangio it panino" (I buy the sandwich and I eat the sandwich), one would normally say "Compro it panino e to mangio" (I buy the sandwich and I eat it), avoiding the repetition of the same noun in a sentence.

Subject pronouns are used as subjects of a verb. For example, in the sentence "Io viaggio spesso" (I travel often), the pronoun "io" (I) is the subject, indicating who performs the action expressed by the verb "viaggiare" (to travel).

Please note that, since Italian verbs are conjugated with subjectspecific endings (see the verb charts below), it is normally unnecessary to express the subject pronoun. The subject of the sentence is implied with the form of the verb. In the sample sentence above, it would be sufficient to say "Viaggio spesso": the pronoun "io" is omitted because the subject is already made clear by the first-person singular ending of the verb ("vaggio").

Unlike in English, in Italian there is both a formal and an informal way of addressing people in the you form. The informal "tu" is used for friends, family, children and pets, while the formal "Lei" is usually used with strangers, people who are older than you or whom you address with a title (such as "signore/signora", "dottore/dottoressa", "professore/professoressa", etc.). When using the formal "Lei" the verb must be conjugated in its third-person singular form instead of second-person singular (see the verb charts below). Examples:

(Tu) guidi bene, Mario.	You are a good driver, Mario.
(Lei) guida bene, signora Rossi.	You are a good driver, Mrs. Rossi.
Guardi il film, Anna?	Are you going to watch the film, Anna?
Guarda il film, professore?	Are you going to watch the film, Professor?

Object pronouns replace the object of the verb in a sentence. This usually happens when the object on which the action of the speaker is performed is made obvious by the context. For example, if asked, "Mandi un'email?" (Are you sending an email?), one usually answers, "Sì, la mando" (Yes, I am sending it) instead of, "Sì, mando un'email" (Yes, I am sending an email), using the object pronoun "la" to replace the implied object "un'email".

There are two sets of object pronouns in Italian, direct and indirect. All object pronouns (direct and indirect) are placed directly in front of the verb of the sentence.

Direct object pronouns are used to replace those objects that immediately follow	a	verb:
Suono la chitarra (I play the guitar)		La suono (I play it)
Non mangio il formaggio (I don't eat cheese)		Non lo mangio (I don't eat it)

When a verb requires the use of a preposition (such as "a," "di," "da," "per," etc.) before its object, the latter is identified as an indirect object, and a different set of pronouns is used to replace it (see the pronoun chart above):

Scrivo a Laura (I am writing to Laura)

Le scrivo (I am writing to her)

Parliamo a Marco (We are talking to Marco)

Gli parliamo (We are talking to him)

Please note that, although both direct and indirect first-and second-person object pronouns are the same ("mi," "ti," "ci," "vi"), the informal and formal singular you forms are different:

Ti invito alla festa, Silvia (I invite you to the party, Silvia) [direct object informal you]

La invito alla festa, professore (I invite you to the party, Professor) [direct object formal you]

Ti telefono, domain, Gianni (I'll call you tomorrow, Gianni) [indirect object informal you]

Le telefono, domain, signora (I'll call you tomorrow, Madam) [indirect object formal you]
